INJURY TRAPS MAN WANTED AS TERRORIST

Winkler, Burke Gang Aid, Named in Kidnapings, Killings, Holdups.

AUTO, AT HIGH SPEED, CRASHES IN MICHIGAN

Police of Several States Rush to Quiz Victim About Crimes.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Trapped by an automobile accident in which he was seriously injured, Gus Winkler, alleged member of a gang charged with a dozen murders and many bank robberies in four Midwestern States, lay with a fractured skull in Mercy Hospital here tonight.

The injured man admitted his identity late today to Sheriff Fred J. Cutler and State police. Previously he had been registered as Jerry Kral, a licensed airplane pilot of Chicago.

A man injured in the same accident, identified by cards in his pockets as John B. Moran, of St. Louis, also is under guard in the hospital and an effort was being made to link him with the same gang which numbered Winkler and Fred Burke, notorious killer, among its members.

Moran Massacre Charged.

Among spectacular crimes charged to Winkler and his gang are the Moran gang massacre in Chicago, in 1929, the gang execution of Frankie Uale in New York, the machine gun slayings of three men in a Detroit apartment house in 1927, the slaying of an officer in a $200,000 mail truck robbery in Toledo and the killing of an officer in a bank robbery in Louisville, Ky., in 1925.

Officers said the gang had taken loot reaching millions of dollars in bank robberies and had collected close to $1,000,000 in tribute through kidnapings of wealthy members of the underworld in Chicago and Detroit.

Winkler came to grief in the same community where Burke was given a life sentence last spring for murder of a St. Joseph patrolman. Burke, who posed as a wealthy retired business man for months here, shot Patrolman Charles Skelly in December, 1929, when the policeman attempted to arrest him for a traffic offense.

Pistol, Liquor Found.

Then followed a Nation-wide search until the fugitive was arrested more than a year later near St. Joseph, Mo. He was brought back here, pleaded guilty and is serving his sentence in Michigan Branch Prison in Marquette.

In the cottage where Burke lived here as a respected citizen were found bonds taken in the $319,000 robbery of the Farmers & Merchants Bank in Jefferson, Wis., one of the crimes now charged to Winkler.

The automobile in which Winkler and Moran was riding turned over on a highway near here late yesterday. Witnesses said it was traveling at high speed. A pistol was found on Winkler, then known only as Kral, and liquor was found in the car. These circumstances precipitated the investigation which resulted in identification of Kral as Winkler.

The two were understood to be on their way from Chicago to Detroit. Both were badly hurt, but physicians at the hospital believed they might recover.

Officers from several of the States where Winkler is wanted were reported en route to St. Joseph tonight.

New Chilean Envoy Causes Discussion

Crucha or Edwards May Succeed Davila in Washington.

(Associated Press.)

Word reaching Washington of the acceptance by the Chilean government of the resignation of Ambassador Davila prompted speculation as to his probable successor in Washington.

Miguel Crucha, ambassador here in 1926-27, was discussed in some quarters as one possibility. Crucha is now in Mexico as neutral referee of the Mexican-Spanish Claims Commission. He has visited Washington frequently since he left the embassy here and spent some time here prior to returning to Mexico several weeks ago.

Another name mentioned is that of Augustine L. Edwards, Minister to Great Britain for twelve years, former minister of foreign affairs and prominent on the Chilean delegation during negotiations of the Tacna-Arica boundary question.

Whether Crucha or Edwards, who is in Paris, would accept was not known here.

Spectacular Fire Rages In Heart of Paterson

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A spectacular fire in the heart of the city today destroyed a two-story frame warehouse and damaged three automobiles at an estimated loss of $25,000.

Clouds of black smoke, which rolled from tar paper stored in the building, settled over the city, drew thousands of people to the scene and tied up traffic.

Seeker of Longworth Seat Visits Hoover

John Hollister Is Expected to Be Republicans' Choice in Ohio.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

John B. Hollister, young Cincinnati lawyer, who will be the Republican candidate in the election to fill the House vacancy caused by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, was a visitor at the White House yesterday. He conferred with President Hoover at length, and left bearing the Executive's best wishes for success at the polls.

Mr. Hollister, who stopped off here on his way to New York, was invited to call at the White House. This may have been because of presidential anxiety over the Longworth seat, or it may have been because Mr. Hollister is an old friend of the President, having served with him in European relief work.

That the Republicans are extremely anxious to hold on to the late Speaker's seat goes without saying. They want to hold it not only because it will help them to retain control of the House, but because to lose it would be regarded as a severe blow at the Hoover administration.

Thus far there have been eleven deaths among those who were elected to the next Congress. Of the vacancies thus caused, three already have been filled, leaving four Republican seats and four Democratic seats still vacant.

Assuming that Republicans will be elected to succeed the Republicans who have died, and that Democrats

FEDERAL DIRECTION OF SOFT COAL SEEN

Mine Operators Consider Plan as Feasible to End Industry's Ills.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Government regulation of the bituminous coal industry is being considered by operators of the Pittsburgh and adjoining coal fields as a measure to solve the ills, it was learned authoritatively today.

Although conferences Secretaries Lamont and Doak recently held at Washington with leading operators were closed affairs, it was learned authoritatively that J. D. A Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., largest soft coal concern in the world, had at that time suggested consideration of such a step. It also was ascertained that producers in Northern West Virginia would meet next Monday to discuss the suggestion that the Government regulate the industry as a public utility.

At the same time, Samuel Pursglove, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, second largest operator in the Pittsburgh district, said that "it always was my idea of what should be done." He said, however, that he had not attended any meeting at which such a proposal was discussed.

J. H. Jenkins, Fairmont W. Va., president of the Hutchinson Coal Co., said Northern West Virginia operators would take up the proposal at a meeting Monday. He said he did not know the details of the plan, but that they would be in his hands by Monday. He said it was his understanding that the proposal originated in the Pittsburgh district. He added that he believed such a plan was desirable.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph said today Don Rose, general counsel for the Pittsburgh Coal Co., met with J. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal Co., to discuss putting the proposal into writing in the form of a letter to Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

The proposal, the newspaper said, came out of a meeting which had

Cole L. Blease Will Run Against Smith for Senate

Jolly Street, S. C., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Cole L. Blease, former United States senator and colorful political figure in South Carolina, told a picnic gathering here today that he would reappear before the voters next year in the dual role of "Coley your friend and Coley candidate for the United States Senate."

Next year he will oppose Senator Ellison D. Smith, who has represented South Carolina since 1909. Senator Smith's present term expires in 1933.

HUNDREDS JOIN HUNT FOR MISSING CHILD, 2

Neighbors, Police Spurred On by Fears of Parents; Clews Lacking.

Spurred on by the near-hysterical condition of two parents, more than 100 neighbors, divided into searching parties, and police from the Park and Metropolitan departments, continued early today the hunt for 2-year-old Patricia Livesay, who disappeared at 7:30 o'clock last night from her home at 1437 East Capitol street southeast.

The child seemed to vanish into thin air while she played in the back yard as her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Livesay, watched her from inside the house. One minute she was toddling around, the next minute she was gone.

When a brief search failed to disclose her whereabouts, police were notified and the community searching party was formed shortly afterward by sympathetic residents.

Policemen, some on motorcycles, others in autos and the remainder on foot, investigated several reports which purported to shed some light on Patricia's mysterious disappearance. One woman said that she heard a child's cries and screams come from an alley near the Livesay home, shortly after the child vanished. Other persons said that while the hunt was in progress, two suspicious looking men drove past the home several times.

Investigation of all these tips proved fruitless.

Every policeman in Washington was ordered by radio to look out for the girl, who was wearing a pink dotted dress with white sash. She was barefoot at the time she disappeared and has blond hair. She is too young to be able to tell her name.

About a month ago, according to her father, who is a machinist at the navy yard, Patricia slipped out of the house and was found about ten minutes later in a grocery nearby.

After a search of many homes, parked cars, alleys, vacant lots and every other place where the child might have gone or been taken to, proved fruitless, fears arose that she might have been kidnaped.

All places within a radius of half a mile from the house were combed by the citizens and police, and the child could scarcely have gone farther than that alone, it was said.

Virgin Islanders Promised Additional Operettas Soon

Gov. Pearson Says Amusement Has Increased "Morale" of Natives; Director of Entertainment Proceeds as Plan to Close Poor Farm Is Aired.

By ROBERT B. SMYTHE
(Special Correspondence of The Washington Post).

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, July 29. Herbert Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, was the man who recommended Dr. Paul M. Pearson as a suitable governor of these islands. Dr. Pearson's name went to the Senate for confirmation a few days before it adjourned. Mr. Brown, however, changed his mind, and made a frantic effort to have the nomination withdrawn, and missed by only 15 minutes. The Senate approved the nomination and adjourned before he had time to record his change of view.

Now the governor is here with his friends from Swarthmore, receiving the salaries provided by Congress (and some not provided for).

Announcement was made from Government House at the regular weekly reception to the local press that the governor has noted a perceptible change in the "morale" of the native inhabitants since the presentation of "Pinafore" a few weeks ago by the director of public entertainment, Robert Dunbar. He then announced the following dates as reserved for future performances: "The Pirates of Penzance," Thursday, August 20; "The Merry Widow," Friday, September 18; and "Emperor Jones" (a one-man act), Saturday, October 10. The natives provide their services free. Rental of the theatrical equipment brought down by the governor from Swarthmore has been reduced to $190 for each performance.

A proposition has been presented to

GERMANS SEEK 600,000 BALES OF U.S. COTTON

Options on 200,000 More Sought Under Long-Term Credit Plan.

MOVE VIEWED AS AID TO NEEDY PLANTERS

Wheat Surplus Negotiations Await Completion of First Transaction.

Berlin, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Germany offered today to buy 600,000 bales of surplus American cotton which the Untied States Farm Board has been attempting to sell to relieve Southern planters.

The United Press was informed on the most reliable authority that the offer, made in compliance with the suggestion of President Hoover, also involved acquisition of an option on another 200,000 bales of cotton.

The Farm Board was understood to be ready to dispose of 1,100,000 bales of cotton. The amount which Germany would be willing to buy was estimated to be worth between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Long-Term Credits.

The transaction would be so arranged as to provide for German finances as well as for improvement of economic conditions in the South. Long-term loans would be extended to Germany to enable her to buy the cotton.

The Hoover suggestion also involved plans for sale of surplus American wheat to Germany, but it appeared there would be greater difficulty in such an arrangement. The question of wheat was temporarily shelved pending conclusion of the cotton deal, since experts believed wheat purchases necessarily would be limited to a small volume. It also was understood that United States copper producers were beginning negotiations for a private agreement under which they would make large sales to Germany in return for long-term credits.

In the cotton offer, the Government stipulated that the purchase of the 600,000 bales would be the basis for a three-year credit.

Agreement Expected.

It also was stipulated that the cost of the cotton would be computed on a basis of the monthly average of prices on the New York Cotton Exchange or of the monthly average of the New York, Bremen and Liverpool exchanges. Furthermore, the payments for the cotton will be made in dollars, on buyers' notes at 4½ per cent interest. Readiness to pay on delivery was expressed.

The German agreement to the proposal was not unexpected in view of the possibility of favorable economic results in both countries. It was understood that the offer had been transmitted to Washington.

The German banking situation, which had been dangerous until this week, held firm today as a result of confidence shown by depositors when banks reopened yesterday. The government issued a decree reopening the various savings banks for full payments on Saturday, but stipulating that certain periods of notice should be given prior to withdrawal of more than 300 marks ($72) by any one person. It was believed the bank rate will be reduced on Monday from its present high point at 15 per cent.

Offer Is Received.

It was transmitted to the State De-

U. S. Treasury Offering Heavily Oversubscribed

(Associated Press.)

Acting Secretary Mills announced yesterday subscriptions of $200,798,000 had been received for tenders of $60,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills offered August 3.

The bills are dated August 10 and mature November 9. The highest bid made was 99.878, equivalent of an interest rate of about 0.48 per cent annually, and the lowest 99.846, equivalent of an interest rate of 0.61. Bids accepted totaled $60,005,000.

U. S. CHAMBER EVOLVING PLAN TO HELP LABOR

Strawn and Barnes Talk Over Situation With Nation's Chief.

TO SUBMIT PROGRAM ABOUT SEPTEMBER 1

Oppose Federal Aid; Assert States and Cities Ought to Handle Crisis.

(Associated Press.)

The United States Chamber of Commerce plans to lay before President Hoover by September 1 a comprehensive plan for unemployment relief.

Silas Strawn, president of the chamber, and Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, conferred for nearly an hour with the Chief Executive yesterday, after which Mr. Strawn said a preliminary survey indicated there would be "an appreciable increase in unemployment next winter."

The chamber, he said, is making a complete survey through its local organizations. A committee has been appointed to study the results of the survey and make concrete recommendations on methods of relief.

"Unless we do something at once," Mr. Strawn said, "there will be more kinds of legislation for the dole than Germany and England ever heard of."

Opposes Federal Relief.

Mr. Strawn emphatically stressed his opposition to Federal participation in unemployment relief and urged that States, counties and municipalities take care of the unemployment problem.

"It would be deplorable," he added, "if this country ever reached the place where it voted a dole. When we do that, in my opinion we have hit the toboggan as a nation.

"As you know, many of our statesmen love the role of helping the proletariat." Mr. Strawn said, "and unless we have accurate information and a definite plan Congress will be flooded with all kinds of fool proposals."

President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, said recently that if the usual seasonal unemployment came with winter there would be at least 7,000,000 men out of work next January.

Believes Figure Exaggerated.

Mr. Strawn said he thought Mr. Green's figure was possibly 'a bit exaggerated." He added, however, there had been no pick-up in business since last winter and there was no reason to believe there wouldn't be an appreciable increase in unemployment.

Henry I. Harriman, of Boston, has been selected as chairman of the committee from the chamber to make the unemployment survey.

Efforts were under way yesterday to aid employment throughout the country by keeping young people in school.

Fred C. Croxton, acting chairman of the President's emergency employment committee, announced that plans had been formulated at a conference of educators and Government officials to keep young men and women in school to prevent their competing with heads of families and others who need jobs.

Mr. Croxton said employment reports indicated young men and women were especially handicapped at this time. Even when they obtain jobs these usually prove temporary, and idleness throughout the remainder of the school year results.

"During an abnormal time like the present," Mr. Croxton said, "the dangers of idleness for young people still in the habit-forming age must be frankly reckoned with. Even more than in times of prosperity should we appreciate the need of school attendance. Young people should not be handicapped in obtaining an education because of the serious unemployment conditions."

Miss Olga A. Jones, who recently joined the committee, will carry on a

Benefit Show Brings $1.70 To Each Employe of Circus

A motley assortment of Indians, circus riders, cow hands and roustabouts, all stranded here with the 101 Ranch Wild West Show, lined up at the circus grounds early this morning to collect the first hard cash they have received in weeks—$1.70 a man.

The pay-off was made by the District Department of the American Legion and represented the entire proceeds of a benefit performance held last night on the lot.

The performance, a heartbreaking one, presented before an audience of 851 persons, was the last of the season for virtually all of the 392 employes of the stranded show.

The pay-off, conducted under supervision of Raymond A. Burke, of Victory Post of the Legion, was altogether orderly. An air of watchful waiting, however, was apparent in the mien of every performer.

Charles T. Boulware, traveling manager of the circus, had announced that the show will be loaded and shipped back to Mariand, Okla., this morning, with as many employes as want to go along.

He showed newspapermen what he said was a mortgage on the property, adding that "if there was any trouble" he will foreclose on the mortgage and have the property loaded and shipped under the supervision of United States marshals.

After sounding out his fellow performers, Jack Brown, head cowboy,

Fights With Strikers Spread Spanish Strife

New Republic Faces Most Serious Problems of Regime as Guards Kill Rioter and Wound Dozen Others Near Seville.

Madrid, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Strikes and sporadic violence were spreading in cities and towns of southern Spain tonight, creating one of the most serious problems yet faced by the republican government at Madrid.

The most dangerous developments occurred at Algeciras and Seville, but advices said various other towns also were affected, and that strike leaders, chiefly extremists, opposed to the central regime, were attempting to persuade workers in other regions to join the movement.

At Algeciras, on the Strait of Gibraltar, one person was killed and a dozen others were wounded when civil guards again fired on rioting strikers. The disorders there began last night when guards and strikers exchanged several volleys of fire.

The strikers continued to hold demonstrations in the streets, despite reinforcement of the guards and the town was in a state of confusion and alarm. Many townspeople fled to Gibraltar, most of them going across on ferries. Troops summoned from other towns arrived, however, and officials were hopeful that order would be restored immediately.

There was considerable anxiety at Seville, where a general strike has been in progress to protest against imprisonment of labor leaders for antigovernment activity. A group of unidentified persons tried to disarm a guard named Antonio Lorenzo Parba. He resisted and was seriously wounded.

The strike was a political movement chiefly instigated by the extremist labor leaders. The union of local syndicates at Seville sent a message to the government at Madrid

New Constitutional Body Votes to Present Bill to Cortes.

DECISION FOLLOWS RADICALS' AGITATION

Catholics Launch Vigorous Campaign to Defeat Group's Proposal.

Madrid, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The political parliamentary commission which is studying Spain's proposed new constitution decided tonight to present a bill to the Cortes calling for expulsion of religious orders from the country and the confiscation by the state of church wealth.

The decision of the constitutional commission followed agitation by the radical socialist minority, which expects to present a measure to the assembly providing for the definite expulsion of religious groups which fled from Alicante during the burning of religious houses.

Follows Sharp Contest.

The commission also determined to ask that the Spanish Republic be constitutionally defined as a "democratic republic." The decision followed upon a sharp contest, many of the members wishing to have the name "democratic republic of labor."

Catholic Spain tonight prepared to launch a vigorous campaign for the defeat of the proposal of the assembly's constitutional committee, under which religious orders would be constitutionally dissolved.

Secrecy Observed.

The decision would mean that church property, representing millions of dollars, would be nationalized.

The news of the decision of the committee, which observed entire secrecy concerning its recommendations, became known only late tonight and as a consequence government officials, parliamentary leaders and others generally were unaware of its proposal.

The bill would be incorporated in article 14 of the constitution which deals with the relations of church and state. It would abolish the official religion and terminate subventions for confessional institutions.

Catholic leaders assert that the measure reflects the Socialist complexion of the Assembly and can not pass without one of the greatest parliamentary battles in Spanish history.

They estimate 85 to 90 per cent of Spaniards embrace Catholicism.

Catholic orders number 50 and have a membership of 45,000 monks and nuns. They own 5,000 pieces of property and art objects, the value of which is estimated in the millions of pesetas.

U.S. FLIERS TO RACE IN HOP FROM TOKYO

Pangborn and Herndon to Vie With Moyle and Allen; Gale Holds Lindberghs.

Tokyo, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Losers in an attempt to break the record for an airplane journey around the world, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., American fliers, announced their intention today to compete with two other Americans to make the first nonstop flight across the Pacific. A prize of $25,000 was offered by a Japanese newspaper.

The other competitors are Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California pilots, who arrived here by steamship. They plan to use the monoplane City of Tacoma, in which Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty failed last year, and Thomas Ash, jr., failed this year on similar attempts.

The date has not been set for the flight of 4,500 miles over water from Japan to Seattle. The shortest air route lies past the volcanic Kurile Islands of Japan, over the foggy, stormy North Pacific Ocean in a great circle that crosses the Aleutian Islands of Alaska.

Pangborn and Herndon arrived here at 6:16 p. m. (4:16 a. m. E.S.T.) today after a 750-mile flight from Khabarovsk, Siberia. There they had given up their attempt to beat the record around the world of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes established early last month by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty. A wing damaged in landing August 3 and bad weather ahead made further effort to lower the record futile, for the plane was already many hours behind schedule after traveling 9,250 miles from New York.

The Americans' landing at the Tachikawa Airdrome, near Tokyo, was eclipsed temporarily by the arrival, an hour before, of the daring English girl flier, Amy Johnson, who received the plaudits of the crowd. Many persons hurriedly returned to the field, however, when they learned the Americans had reached the airdrome after a brief landing at another field to inquire the way.

Miss Johnson flew from London to Tokyo through Siberia, with several halts. Accompanied by C. S. Humphreys as mechanic, she beat by a few hours the record of eleven days for a light plane established in a flight from Berlin to Tokyo by Seiji Yoshihara, Japanese.

Japanese aviation bureau officials laughingly explained that the plane

CRAMER OFF AGAIN ON ICELAND FLIGHT

American Airman Continues His "Mystery" Sea Hop; Leaves Greenland.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Parker Cramer, American aviator who landed at Angmagsalik, Greenland, unexpectedly yesterday after a flight from the United States, took off from Angmagsalik at 2 p. m. today for Reykjavik, Iceland, it was learned from a brief radio message received here tonight.

The take-off was a continuation of Cramer's "mystery" flight from the United States to Europe. No word of his arrival in Iceland had arrived here up to midnight.

Shortly before the news of Cramer's departure from Greenland the Governor of Greenland received the first official information of Cramer's arrival at Angmagsalik. The information was coupled with a statement that he proposed to start for Iceland.

Another report, received earlier today, said Cramer intended to go on from Angmagsalik to Copenhagen, by way of Isafjord, Reykjavik and Hornafjord, Iceland; Thoshaven, Faroe Islands, Lerwick, Shetland Isles and Bergen, Norway.

Scattered reports reaching here said he left Detroit July 28 in a cabin plane accompanied by a radio operator and that the purpose of his flight, which he expects to continue on to Bergen, Norway, was to interest the United States Postoffice Department in establishing an air mail route from the United States to Europe.

He is making a survey, it was said, for an American aviation concern.

W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General in charge of the Air Mail Service, declared yesterday that he was highly elated at the accomplishment of Parker Cramer in landing his plane in Greenland after a flight from Canada under the auspices of the Trans-American Airlines.

"While the Postoffice Department did not take any part in this flight and did not urge or sanction it," said Mr. Glover, "it was fully cognizant that this 'study' flight was to be made. The Postoffice Departments of the United States and Canada are in possession of much valuable data concerning weather conditions over the route from Canada to Southern Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe Islands,

Memorial to Gompers Will Be Begun Shortly

Atlantic City, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Construction of a $100,000 memorial to the late Samuel Gompers in Washington, D. C., will begin shortly, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor reported at the opening session of a meeting of the executive coubcil of the federation today.

Mr. Green said that the memorial is to be completed in a year. Plans submitted by Robert Aiken, New York sculptor, have been approved, he said.

Hyde Studies Drought Conditions in Montana

Helena, Mont., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, paid brief visits yesterday to Missoula and Helena, without making himself known except to a few persons from whom he sought information regarding drought conditions.

The Secretary is making a quiet personal investigation to determine the needs of the State, toward which the Federal Government can extend relief.

New Egyptian Minister Here Reaches New York

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The newly appointed Egyptian Minister to the United States, Sesostris Sidarous Pasha, arrived tonight on the Mauretania en route to Washington. He succeeds Mahmoud Samy Pasha, who retired a year ago.

He was met at the pier by Ali Bey Ismail, First Secretary of the Egyptian Legation in Washington.

Texas Is Blamed by Dixon For Demoralization of Oil

Interior Official Declares That Government Will Not Intervene.

(Associated Press.)

Acting Secretary Dixon of the Interior Department yesterday laid the entire responsibility for continued demoralization of the oil industry upon Texas, its Legislature, and "selfish and irresponsible interests operating the east Texas pool."

In reply to a flood of telegrams from governors, senators and other leaders for some Federal action, Dixon issued a statement asserting the Federal Government's hands are tied; that it and all other great producing States have placed a curb on the oil output, and only Texas' "failure to cooperate with the industry at large" now prevents the price of oil from again reaching a dollar a barrel.

COURT TEST LOOMS ON GRAPE PRODUCTS

Raid on New York Shop May Lead to Case Over All Such Concentrates.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A raid by prohibition agents on a Fifth avenue "grape brick" shop appeared likely to day to develop into a test case involving the legality of all similar grape concentrates products.

A manager and two salesmen of the Vino Sano Shop were held today by a United States commissioner in bails totaling $5,000. The manager is Charles W. Shenk and the two salesmen are John Skiff, of Bloomfield, N. J., and Charles MacDonald.

George Markham, a prohibition agent, signed an affidavit relating that he was given explicit instructions at the shop on how to make muscatelle wine.

After buying a "brick," Markham said, he asked one of the salesmen: "Is it true that a person can make good wine from this?"

"Absolutely," was the alleged reply.

Wine With Real Kick.

Markham commented that he wasn't interested in grape juice but wanted wine with a real "kick" in it.

"Well, take a brick costing you $2, an antiacid tablet, this special cork and a rubber hose, all for $2.50, and that's all that's necessary to make the best muscatelle you ever tasted," Markham's affidavit quoted the salesman as saying.

The affidavit also alleged that the salesman went on to give the agent specific instructions as to how to use the equipment assuring him that "in four weeks you'll have good wine."

Shenk said the legality of the "bricks" has already been established in the courts and quoted section 29 of the Volstead act which declares that penalties shall not apply to "* * * manufacturing nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices for home use, unless proven to be intoxicating in fact."

Counters With Quotation.

But Prohibition Administrator Andrew McCampbell, under whose direct order the raid was made, countered with this quotation from section 18 of the act:

"It shall be unlawful to advertise, manufacture, sell or possess for sale any utensil, contrivance, machine, preparation, compound, tablet, substance, formula, directions or recipe advertised, designed or intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor."

Prohibition authorities said under certain conditions wine of 13 per cent alcoholic content could be produced with the "bricks."

From the statements of the sellers and the raiders basis for a test case was seen when the charges against the three men are heard in Federal court.

campaign in cooperation with various organizations.

Objectives adopted by the conference were:

"To take advantage of the present period of unemployment and part time employment by encouraging the greatest possible utilization of opportunities for preparation of future positions and for the enrichment of American life.

"To keep all children under 16 years of age in schools at this time of surplus labor and increasing demands of industry for skill and judgment.

"To encourage undergraduates and members of 1931 high school and college graduating classes to remain in school.

"To urge that increasing effort be made by schools and institutions of learning for guidance programs that will direct young people not only into fields of usefulness, but into fields where their services will be in demand."

said there would be no trouble "unless an attempt is made to move the show." He did not say what would happen in that event, but indicated there would be a strong demonstration against any such move before employes received from 5 to 8 weeks back salary.

Earlier yesterday, Fred Olmstead, personal representative of Zack Miller, owner of the show, arrived in Washington from Ponca City, Okla. He invited the employes to return today with the circus to winter quarters in Oklahoma, but offered no basis of settlement for pay in arrears. All who want to return will be cared for on Miller's 2,600-acre ranch in Oklahoma, he said.

Mr. Olmstead said what is left of the show's Monday and Tuesday proceeds, estimated at approximately $800, will be prorated among the employes this morning.

The $1.70 a man realized on last night's benefit performance was hard earned. It was apparent to all that the stranded performers were putting all they had in this farewell show.

The stage coach holdup, with its old-time pathos and comedy; the covered wagon scene, with its raiding Indian warriors, not to speak of the pony express and bucking broncho performances, were reenacted with all the vigor of the old West.

There were Bob Roebuck, with his famous horse, General Custer, Frank Byron, who roped four galloping horses and riders while balanced on his head, and Billy Keen, trick rider of parts. Then there were Capt. R. V. Swift and his "Zouaves," Miss Mildred Mix, lady high jumper; Jack Lee, who did some trick shooting; Zelma Zimmerman and her six trained elephants, headliners all on a full program.

Representing the employes, Perry Blank, timekeeper; Edgar Allen, ticket seller, and Jack Belle, band leader, formed a committee cooperating with the legionnaires. A total of $750 was realized on the performance.

Mr. Boulware yesterday denied that any of the circus hands are going unfed, insisting that every one with the show will eventually get their money, and meanwhile will be adequately cared for at the Oklahoma ranch.

"We certainly have as much right to close down as any number of other business concerns that have already done so," he told a Post reporter, heatedly. "We merely concluded there is no fall business in the South, and it is better to go into winter quarters and we will be back next year."

Sages Meet to Settle Palpitating World's Ills

By JOHN J. DALY

THE Wallflowers of Williamstown—that sacred gathering place on the soil of Massachusetts—meet in general assembly at the Institute of Politics, call attention to the woes of the world, and see potential death and disaster staring mankind in the face. Wurra, wurra, wurra!

Once a year the Witenagemote of Williamstown—somewhat like the old Anglo-Saxon general assembly, composed of the witen, or wise men—draw up their chairs, light their pipes, put their feet on the table, and smoke out the ills of the earth. High-brows all, second-rate officeseekers, professors from jerk-water colleges, inflated "journalists," publicists without visible means of support, diplomatic lame ducks, and soured officeseekers, they come from the far corners of the country and go into a huddle. They get all hot and bothered over happenings on this terrestrial and terraqueous globe. If there are not enough mundane maladies they manufacture a few more over which to grunt and groan.

At this time of year, to turn the late Tom Marshall's mot from Indiana to Massachusetts, Williamstown produces more first-class second-rate men than any other place in the Union.

* * * *

THE unfortunate part of these general conferences is that they are called after the world events take place, as the hostler locks the stable after the horse is stolen. So many things have happened when the professors get together each year that they are hard put to keep up with the world. Consequently, the suggestions from the sages come too late; but what they lack in accomplishments is made up in copiousness—a sort of cornucopia of advice.

A movement is now on foot—though, really it ought to be on wheels—to organize the Williamstown Wonder Workers into a year-round council. The idea of having a world problem sprout, grow to maturity, bear its evil fruit, and thus cause pain and commiseration throughout the universe before it is cut down is rather grating on the sensitive nerves of these philosophers, psychologists, polemicists and psychiatrics. By the time the Williamstown wizards solve one set of problems, disband and meet again, there is another flock on the way, wilder than the first. Hence the windy confusion at Williamstown.

These mighty men are quick to smell a rat, see it fly, or flee, and watch its handwriting on the wall. Then they light up the panatelas and send forth the panaceas. It's like the ultimatum of the Three Tailors of Tooley Street, Southwark, who addressed a petition of grievances to the House of Commons, beginning, "We, the people of England."

It may take nine tailors to make a man, but it takes only two wonder workers at Williamstown to make a noise like a report. They are so abstruse in these papers that it is difficult to tell whether they are trying to solve the problems of the world or present the world with further problems to solve.

* * * *

YOU'VE heard about "Earls as goes mad in their castles, and females as settle their hash!" Well, it's getting to be that way with the world and Williamstown. Responsible statesmen of all the nations, good men and true, frantically tear their hair—or what's left of it—and beat their brain-pans for solutions of their problems, only to have them seized upon in the Williamstrasse of Williamstown and pulled to pieces like a martyr stretched on the Procrustean bed of torture.

These aged boys are good. They can untangle anything from the posy of a ring to the Gordian knot. Like Bradamante, the niece of Charlemagne, who carried an irresistible spear with which she could unhorse any knight, the Williamstown wizards have only to extend their prehensile tongues and—poof!—the problems of the world explode—puff, puff!

But when the cogitators come back to Williamstown next year there is a fresh load of trouble dumped on the doorway. Really, it is a Sisyphus job—rolling the stone up the hill only to have it roll down again. They would do much better had they the use of the Platonic ring, which renders invisible those who wear it, so they might sit in the seats of the mighty, with the mighty, whispering in the ears of the councilors the willy-nilly wisdom of Williamstown. 'Twould save many a wearisome report, and many an opaque opinion.

On the other hand, the world would be deprived of the annual extravaganza at Williamstown, where irresponsible world savers talk of things they do not know and never will understand. The world would rather follow Hamlet and bear those ills it has than fly to others that it knows not of.

Better 50 years of European turmoil than to lose one session of the Witenagemote at Williamstown, where the wallflowers cling like ivy to old fences and ruined buildings. But they think its a pity they were not present at the creation. They could have given the Creator complete plans and specifications.

PREMIER OF BRITAIN VISITING STIMSONS

Secretary of State Joins With MacDonald in Claim Meeting Is Nonpolitical.

Rogart, Sutherlandshire, Scotland, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Here in the wild Scottish Highlands, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Mrs. Stimson today became host and hostess to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, for two days of hiking, fishing and idling.

Both hosts and guests denied that the visit was anything more than an informal holiday. No time has been set aside for discussions of the political and economic problems that are troubling the world.

Entertain in Farmhouse.

There'll be rough scenery to talk about and tomorrow the four members of the party will watch the neighborhood's streng men toss the caber (pole) in the Dornish Highland games.

The Stimsons are entertaining their guests in the century-old farmhouse of Shibecross, picturesquely situated in a garden on rising ground overlooking Strath (alley) Brora on the Duke of Sutherland's estate. They are 8 miles from Rogart, the nearest village.

Despite denials that governmental questions are to be discussed, it was recalled that in just such a meeting between Mr. MacDonald and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes the foundations of the London Naval Conference were laid.

Motored 120 Miles.

The prime minister and his daughter motored to the Stimson farmhouse from Lossiemouth, 120 miles away. Miss Ishbel wore a short leather coat and a stout tweed skirt for the journey.

"This is to be a holiday purely and simply of fishing, walking and enjoying the scenery," said Mr. MacDonald. "I shall think of the clans and the history of this beautiful countryside, but we shall not discuss business of any kind. This has been decided most definitely."

Through his secretary, Mr. Stimson said that it had been a long time since Mrs. Stimson had been able to take a holiday, and she wouldn't lose this opportunity.

Hoover Greets Bolivia On Independence Day

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover telegraphed congratulations yesterday to President Salamanca of Bolivia on the occasion of the southern republic's independence anniversary.

"On behalf of the Government and the people of the United States of America and in my own name," the President's message said, "I ask your excellency to accept my hearty congratulations on that great national anniversary of Bolivia."

Members of the Bolivian legation observed the day quietly. Minister Diez de Medina was host at a luncheon to members of the Bolivian colony in the Capital.

been called to discuss the invitation sent by Secretary Lamont and Secretary of Labor Doak to the operators to meet representatives of the United Mine Workers of America in Washington to see if anything could be done to rehabilitate the industry.

"It was the consensus of the operators that nothing would be gained by conferring with the miners' representatives," the story said, "since the wage question is only a side issue. The main problem to be solved, it was pointed out (by the newspaper's informant), is curtailment of excessive production. If overproduction could be prevented, it was said, the price of coal would rise and the wage question would take care of itself."

The newspaper said that as an alternative to Government regulation of the coal industry as a public utility, it was suggested that a national coal domain be established and the Government be called upon to buy mines and close them, not only to prevent overproduction, but also to conserve the supply of coal for future generations, as is being done in the oil industry.

Proposal for Control.

"The statement was made," the story continued, "that with an expenditure of $25,000,000 in western Pennsylvania the Government could acquire enough mines to reduce the district's output to a profitable basis."

The newspaper said the operators' spokesman told it:

"'Two or three years ago if any one had proposed Government regulation to the operators it would have thrown them into a rage, and they would have denounced it as bolshevism.

"'Now they are inclined to welcome it as the only way out.

"'They see nothing ahead of them, as things stand now, but the loss of their properties through their inability to sell coal at a profit.'"

The Mellon-controlled $200,000,000 Pittsburgh Coal Co., largest of producers, "is feeling the pinch like the others," the newspaper said its informant had advised.

White Silent on Plan.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Gov. George White refused to comment today on the reported proposal of Pittsburgh coal operators that the coal industry be taken over and regulated as a public utility.

"Such a project involves so many ramifications that I would have to give it very close study before I could express my opinion," Gov. White said.

Refering also to the reported statement of the Pittsburgh operators that the governors might do for the coal industry what Gov. Murray of Oklahoma has done to force the price of oil in that State, Gov. White said:

"No doubt the States could force up the price of coal by closing up the mines, unless there is a big surplus on hand. But right now that involves many elements that must be considered. It is a 'bread and butter' proposition. Practically all the Ohio mines are working, and it would mean a hardship on many employes to close them, and to force up the price would work a hardship on the people living in the big cities who must buy coal to get through a hard winter."

HAITI'S ENVOY HAILS U. S. REMOVAL STEP

Minister Bellegarde Notified of Pact's Signing; Awaits Official Treaty.

(Associated Press.)

Minister Bellegarde, of Haiti, said yesterday he had been informed officially of the agreement between his government and the United States on the first step of withdrawal of American occupation, but made little comment on the development.

The minister is well known, however, as an opponent of military and civil occupation, and did not conceal his satisfaction over the ground gained in the dis-Americanization objective he has advocated.

He said, in the absence of the official text of the agreement transferring the treaty departments of the Haitian government to Haitian control, signing of the document bespoke full agreement of both governments on this first step in Haitianization of the islands, and that it was to be hoped further steps would follow.

The agreement came shortly after the Haitian Legislature had sent to the executive a resolution condemning the extended treaty under which the United States occupy Haiti.

In congratulating President Hoover and the people of the United States, July 4, the Haitian President voiced a "supreme appeal" for speedy carrying out of the Forbes commission recommendations approved last year by President Hoover, and contemplating withdrawal of the Marines and civil occupation.

Minister Munro returned in April and reported on the progress of Haitian negotiations with the Haitian government since last November.

The steps of the administration in the Haitianization program have been commended by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, stanch opponent of military occupation of Latin American countries.

Hoover Opponent Foresees Victory

Former Senator France Is Hopeful of Nomination; Plans to Make Tour.

(Associated Press.)

Former Senator France, of Maryland, the only announced opponent of President Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932, predicted yesterday he will be nominated if the contest is confined to the President and himself.

"General dissatisfaction with the present administration," he said, "is cumulatively evident throughout the United States."

France announced he would soon begin a tour of the country in behalf of his candidacy, during which he will organize his forces in the East and Middle Western agricultural States.

The former senator said he expected to gain much of his strength in the Republican convention from the Eastern States, which he said are opposed to the eighteenth amendment and in which he contended business and financial interests are dissatisfied with existing conditions.

OIL DEMORALIZATION IS CHARGED TO TEXAS

Interior Official Declares That Government Will Not Intervene.

down all flush wells, the Interior executive said the Federal Government would not intervene. The department has an important interest in the Oklahoma oil situation through its supervision of Indian leases, but these are beyond the control of State authorities.

"The real origin of the Oklahoma oil difficulties lies in Texas—not in Oklahoma," Dixon said. "There would be no situation in Oklahoma if Texas would cooperate with the other States in control of her new oil pools.

"The State authorities and Legislatures of California and Oklahoma have, under the leadership of their governors, cooperated to prorate their production, as urged by the Federal Oil Conservation Board. Except for the failure of Texas authorities and the Texas Legislature so far to operate by controlling their big new oil pool in east Texas, the whole oil situation would have been corrected months ago."

Tyler, Tex., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Impetus was given a shutdown movement in East Texas today when 37 of 60 oil operators meeting here voted voluntarily to shut down their wells.

The group asked for a mass meeting in Tyler August 14, when a general shutdown will be sought as a protest of low prices.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The uniformed ambassadors of Gov. Murray's oil field shutdown edict worked today to smooth out curb complications in the Greater Seminole area while the executive himself told how interests who "wanted to control me on oil proration" offered him $138,000 for campaign funds if he'd run for President.

"I turned it down," he said. "I was offered $8,000 a month for six months and $15,000 for the next six months or until next spring. I would rather live in private life than have my hands tied."

Meanwhile Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray, the governor's cousin, who is running the field end of the shutdown operations affecting about 3,000 oil wells, received reports at Seminole from oil companies on the number of wells they had shut down in the 40-mile square area and the number of "water wells" they claim should be exempt from the edict.

Several days, it was believed, would be required to classify the wells that must be shut down. Wells pumping water and those making less than 25 barrels of oil a day will not be forced to close, Murray has indicated.

Already major companies in the Seminole area had curbed as many producers as they believed would not be injured and several, including Amerada, Champlin and Atlantic interests, were completely shut down.

Units of National Guardsmen stood ready at Seminole for enforcement of the edict. Others had a quiet time in the Oklahoma City "Doorstep" Pool, with activities limited to shooing "drunks" away from sleeping gushers and the rescue of one hapless Guardsman from a sludge pit.

SHRINE QUEEN

MISS LUCILLE SMITH,

NAVY PLANS READY FOR NEW VESSELS

Recommendations Ready for Submission to Hoover; Proposals Kept Secret.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy's shipbuilding program for the next fiscal year was said at the department yesterday to be ready for submission to President Hoover. Details are always closely guarded until the program reaches Congress.

The program which failed to get action at the last session of Congress totaled $90,635,000. It called for one aircraft carrier, including airplanes, one experimental flying deck cruiser, one 6-inch gun cruiser, four fleet submarines, complete airplane equipment for the carrier Ranger now being built and funds for experimentation in developing Diesel engines.

Secretary Adams has said that in addition to these categories the Navy may ask for one or more destroyers. It has also been announced that the request for $5,000,000 for planes for the Ranger and for $3,000,000 for Diesel engine work will be repeated in this year's program.

Prospective bidders on two new destroyers were authorized yesterday by the Navy to submit estimates on their own designs as well as on the design prepared at the department.

Officials of the Bureau of Construction and Repair pointed out that this would permit the Navy to take full advantage of shipbuilding talent in different parts of the country employed by private interests.

The authorization to submit alternate bids was requested by some of the prospective bidders, some of whom are understood to have felt that they could submit a lower bid on a design of their own than they could on the Navy's design.

The additional leeway given referred to details of design only, the department having laid down certain requirements of tonnage, propulsion and armament.

Hoover Expresses Regret Over Death

D. R. Anthony Had Longest House Service Record of Any Kansan.

Leavenworth, Kans., Aug. 6 (A.P.). President Hoover and Vice President Curtis sent messages of condolence today to the widow of former Representative Daniel Read Anthony, jr., Leavenworth publisher, who died here Tuesday.

Senator Arthur Capper and Representative James G. Strong were among those who attended the funeral services today for the nephew of Susan B. Anthony, woman suffrage leader. Anthony served Kansas more years in Congress than any other representative.

The President's message to Mrs. Anthony said: "I am grieved to learn of the death of your husband, Daniel Read Anthony, jr. His services of more than two decades in Congress were characterized by a high sense of duty and devotion. He rose to the high rank of chairman of the appropriations committee. I wish to express to you and your son and daughter by deepest sympathy in your great loss."

CUT IN REPARATIONS HELD GERMAN GOAL

New Economic Policy Under Study Seen as Means of Forcing Issue.

Berlin, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—A new German economic policy designed to convince the world that war reparations should be readjusted at the end of the Hoover debt holiday was under consideration tonight by the government.

The policy, which the government was understood to be on the verge of initiating, was believed likely to arouse antagonism abroad because it would allow Germany to cease borrowing abroad and still be able to meet scheduled reparations payments from her own resources. If the former allied nations should fail to agree to adjustment of reparations after next June 1, Germany would contend that she must continue export competition of the most intense sort.

Since the beginning of the reparations payments Germany has been forced to borrow heavily to make the major part of transfers to the former allied nations. This situation has been blamed for a great part of her present financial weakness, which was alleviated by the Hoover debt holiday plan.

The new economic policy also would involve nonrepayment on schedule of foreign short-term credits.

Germany would also cut down her imports from foreign countries to a point where she would practically cease to be an importer.

Furthermore, the nation would attempt to increase her exports to a great extent, to bring foreign money into Germany. It was said the increase of exports might be so great that it would be tantamount to dumping goods abroad in an effort to improve Germany's economic position.

GERMANY MAY BUY VAST COTTON SUPPLY

partment by Ambassador Sackett at Berlin, and immidiately turned over to the board for consideration.

The board was in session when the cable was received. Later Chairman Stone said no announcement would be forthcoming until the board had had an opportunity to discuss the offer.

The cotton trade was attacked yesterday by Carl Williams, cotton member of the board, for its opposition to the proposed sale of stabilization cotton.

Position Held Contradictory.

"The trade," he said, "has worked itself into a beautiful and amusing contradictory position which gives it a poor standing with the board."

The board authorized the purchase of 1,300,000 bales from the 1929 cotton surplus. The existence of this surplus, Mr. Williams said, has long been condemned by the cotton trade as a burden on the market and a factor tending to depress prices.

"Now," he said, "comes a suggestion that stabilization cotton be sold to Germany and the cotton trade gets up on its ears and says * * * it mustn't be done."

Senator Harris (Democrat), of Georgia, the most active opponent of the sale to Germany, has been joined by growers and traders. They want any sales made out of the current crop lest an important market be supplied by surplus stocks.

Expect No Wheat Offer.

Chairman Stone gave assurance that all protests will be given serious consideration, but said it was his own idea that any sales from the board's surplus should not be replaced by purchases from this year's production.

The original proposal that Germany buy quantities of cotton and wheat from the surplus held by the board on liberal credit terms was made recently by Ambassador Sackett at Berlin, with President Hoover's approval.

Officials here do not expect a German offer for wheat will be forthcoming because of good crop yields in that country.

Luke Lea's Failure To Repay Claimed

$214,000 in Securities Not Returned, Says Witness, Citing Ledgers.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The charge that Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, failed to return or pay for $214,000 worth of Central Bank & Trust Co. securities intrusted to him was made by the State today, the tenth day of the $1,300,000 bank fraud trial against Lea and three others.

The amount represented the balance alleged to have been due on some $800,000 worth of stocks and bonds said to have been delivered to Lea for purposes of sale.

The evidence was presented through the testimony of N. H. Payne, who testified from the bank's ledgers. Payne was still on the stand when court adjourned. A large part of this afternoon was devoted by State's attorneys to presentation of evidence to show that hundreds of thousands of cashier's checks were drawn payable to Lea in the period between August 6 and November 7, 1930.

4 Washingtonians Are Hurt in Crash

Man, 72, and His Wife, 61, in Critical Condition; Driver Is Held.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Howard Brady, 72, Washington, D. C., and his wife Margaret, 61, were in a critical condition at Mercer Hospital here today suffering from injuries received in an automobile crash last night.

The accident occurred on the Lincoln highway near Langhorne, Pa. Three others hurt in the crash are Mrs. Nina Lindsay, 45, of Washington; her daughter, Margaret, 12, and Max S. Sobell, 35, of Philadelphia.

The Bradys and Lindsays were passengers in a car driven by John J. Penfrey, of Washington, who, police said, sideswiped a truck, causing it to collide with a car driven by Sobell. Penfrey was held under $1,000 bail for a further hearing.

All four Washingtonians injured in the accident live at 2211 H street northwest. Penfrey's home is at 2108 I street northwest.

Study Planned of Grain Production, Marketing

Chicago, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Siebel C. Bruening, Curtius Reach Rome Today

To Confer With Mussolini and Grandi in Regard to World Problems.

Rome, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The 1,000-mile dash of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius for a "visit of courtesy" to Premier Mussolini at a time when their own internal affairs are in a grave state will be concluded tomorrow when they arrive in Rome for a two-day stay.

Italian government circles frankly hope for big possibilities from this renewal of close relations with Italy's prewar allies. However the word "alliance" is scoffed at.

Officially the Germans are coming to thank Mussolini for his quick acceptance of the Hoover war debt plan and for a general discussion of European problems.

Unofficially it is declared that Mussolini's conviction that something must be done to put things right in the world and his determination to have Italy play a good role are certain to result in the examination of the tangible solutions.

Y. M. C. A. GATHERING AIRS WAR PROBLEMS

Guilt and Disarmament Are Discussed; Argument on Women Renewed.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Delegates to the world conference of the Young Men's Christian Association became involved today over problems of German war guilt and international disarmament.

The 250 representatives of 48 nations listened to pleas to drop the issue of settling responsibility for the war and heard stubborn resistance upon the part of the German delegation to relegating the question to the background.

The somber tone of the discussions was broken once by one of the recurrent squalls which have arisen over the suggestion to admit women to the organization.

R. W. Springer, secretary of the Carlisle, Pa., Y. M. C. A., led the attack today on the suggestion with the declaration, "We must remember that platonic love is only occasional and very unstable."

"If women are taken into the Y. M. C. A., the Y. M. C. A. as an institution will break up," he said. "Women and men remain chums only a short time and then separate into couples."

Supporting Mr. Springer were Miss Una Saunders, secretary of the World's Alliance of the Y. W. C. A., Geneva; Miss Anna Rice, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Washington; and Hugo Cedergren, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Sweden.

But the trend of discussion was carried along international political lines and was engendered in problems of disarmament. While most of the delegates were openly sympathetic with the feelings of German representatives on war guilt, the conference as a whole appeared to feel the question beyond its realm.

Utilities Body to Hear Virginia Rail Problem

The Public Utilities Commission will hear the plea of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce and other nearby Virginia agencies for establishment of a new route in the downtown district for the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway next Wednesday.

As the proposed route is the same as one previously rejected by the commission nothing definite is expected to result from the conference. The Virginia delegation wants to take the railway in a loop north on Fourteenth street to E; east on E to Eleventh street and south to Pennsylvania avenue.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 6

HOW styles do change, even in police boats! At the top may be seen the Joe Blackburn puffing steadily up the Washington Channel in the days of long ago. The style of policemen's uniforms also has changed, as may be noted.

Below is the Major Sylvester, modern speedboat now in use on the Potomac. This highpowered craft probably can cover half the waterfront in the time it used to require to get the Joe Blackburn under way.

Both boats, however, have long lists of rescues to their credit, which, after all, is what counts.

PROBERS MAY SCAN WALKER'S FINANCES

Mayor's Bank and Brokerage Accounts to Be Aired, New York Learns.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A report that Mayor James J. Walker's bank and brokerage accounts had been subpenaed by the legislative Committee Investigating the City Government, was published by afternoon papers today, but Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for the committee, refused to discuss the matter.

The report was that the committee had received the detailed information about the mayor's personal financial dealings last week and that Mr. Walker knew this before he sailed for Europe Monday night.

The accounts of several other high officials also were reported under scrutiny, among them those of John Theofel, Democratic leader of Queens.

The fact that Mr. Seabury refused to deny or confirm the report as far as it concerned Mayor Walker was prominently displayed in the published stories. It was pointed out that Mr. Seabury quickly denied another report that he had subpenaed the bank accounts of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall.

Other important developments today were the production of several taxicab loads of documents bearing on injunctions restraining police from interference with gambling in political clubs, and the extension of the investigation into the police department to include an examination of steps taken to keep a record of known gangsters.

With the receipt of the documents from Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly, the committee at once plunged into a study to determine if political pressure had been exerted on the police department.

SEEKER OF LONGWORTH SEAT VISITS HERE WITH HOOVER

will be elected to succeed Democrats who have died, the standing will be: Republicans, 218; Democrats, 216, and Farmer-Labor, 1.

Between now and December, of course, there may be other deaths.

Thus far, however, the only Republican seat which the Democrats have had any hope of capturing is the one made vacant by the death of Speaker Longworth. In all other cases it is assumed that those elected will be of the same political complexion as the departed members.

One thing that led the Democrats to foresee a victory in the Cincinnati district was the narrow escape that Longworth experienced in the last election. He won by only 3,000 votes, whereas in previous elections he had enjoyed majorities as high as 20,000 and more. If a distinguished member like Longworth could only squeeze through by 3,000, the Democrats argued, how could any other candidate hope to win?

The Republican organization in Cincinnati, however, is confident that Mr. Hollister will be victorious. To begin with, he has a good name and a good record, the son of a distinguished jurist, he served overseas with the Army, and is now active in the American Legion. Also he is a militant wet, being a prominent member of the Crusaders. This is extremely important in Cincinnati.

Speaker Longworth was a wet, but he was not quite as militant about it as his wet constituents wanted him to be. When he was urged by his friends to become a bit more rampant on the liquor question, Longworth used to explain that his position as Speaker forbade this. In presiding he made it a point to be just as fair to the drys as he was to the wets.

Mr. Hollister will be opposed by an able Democrat, State Senator David Lohrbach, also a wet. Neither man will be opposed in the party primaries next Tuesday. The election will be held early in November

One reason that the Republicans are confident of victory is that Mr. Hollister is a coalition candidate. For years there have been two factions in the Republican party in Cincinnati—the so-called charter group and the Cox, or regular organization, group. The charter group was made up of Republicans who broke away from the regular Cox faction and put through a city charter calling for a city manager form of government. Col. Clarence O. Sherrill resigned his post here in Washington to become the first city manager. The Cox, or regular, group, is headed by George B. Cox, who opposed the new charter.

When Nicholas Longworth died, the volunteer boom builders immediately suggested one of the Taft brothers for the seat. It so happened, however, that the two sons of William Howard Taft—Charles and Robert—belonged to rival factions, Charles to the Cox group and Robert to the charter group.

In their law office, however, was a man who belonged to neither group. That man was Hollister, who now enters the race with both factions behind him.

Communist Paper Ban Is Protested

Editor Makes Appeal to Supreme Court to Remove Mail Prohibition.

Benjamin Gitlow, president of Revolutionary Age, the organ of the Communist party of the United States published in New York City, yesterday asked the Supreme Court to set aside an order excluding the publication from the mails.

The order was issued July 15, 1930, and the postmaster at New York City refused to accept copies for the mails. Gitlow sought to obtain from the Federal District Court there an order enjoining the postmaster but his suit was dismissed and the Second Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed that action.

Gitlow, in appealing to the Supreme Court, asked it to decide whether the postal laws and regulations are aimed to exclude from the mails words which might incite to violence. He claimed that constitutionally the prohibition applied only to words or language which directly incited to violence.

Lord Reading, 70, Weds Aid, 33 Years His Junior

London, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Lord Reading, diplomat and former viceroy of India, and Miss Stella Charnaud, his secretary for ten years, were married today in the Little Registry Office in Prince's Row.

Many friends of the 70-year-old peer and his bride, 33 years his junior, attended the ceremony. Congratulations were sent by England's most notable personages, including King George.

REED CHARGES U.S. RUNS SPEAKEASIES

Former Senator, Writing in Magazine, Hits Liquor Enforcement.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, writing in the September issue of the International-Cosmopolitan Magazine, charges the Federal Government with setting up speakeasies to entrap violators and thus becoming itself "a bootlegger."

In addition, Reed charged the Government with an "indefensible $20,000,000 subsidy to California grape growers and grape-concentrate manufacturers," and with instructing Federal dry agents to cooperate with State officials in making raids on warrants that would be illegal under Federal law.

Two of the Federal speakeasy instances cited by Reed were dated during or before the year 1926. One, he said, saw agents working with the director of the Virginia Antisaloon League set up "a Negro speakeasy in a remodeled stable." The other cited "a notorious bridge-whist club in New York City," which was operated "by prohibition agents with the approval of a Federal district judge."

Claims Woodcock Knew.

"However, immediately upon transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice," he continued, "we have a record of similar operations. The prohibition unit was transferred to the Department of Justice July 1, 1930. By September, 1930, we find a Negro speakeasy, also operated by criminals, in full swing in Indianapolis, and again set up by prohibition agents to entrap policemen."

Reed said "establishment of this speakeasy was admitted by Prohibition Director Woodcock." He added several Indianapolis policemen had been sent to prison on evidence obtained in this case.

The loan to the California grape interests, Reed charged, was made "with full knowledge that the grapes and grape concentrates are being manufactured into 12 to 20 per cent wines and champagnes in homes in quantities more than three times as great as all the wine production of the United States before prohibition."

Federal Judge Hit.

Reed asserted in northern New York Federal prohibition agents were instructed and directed by Judge Frank Cooper of the United States District Court, with approval of State and Federal prohibition directors, to engage in rumsmuggling and rumrunning.

"Agents were provided with money," the former senator said, "out of the Federal Treasury, and an automobile, with which to go into Canada, buy liquor, bring it into the United States and sell it to bootleggers in the vicinity of Troy and Albany."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Judge Frank Cooper, of the United States District Court of Northern New York, charged in a magazine article by former Senator Reed with directing the laying of traps for bootleggers, declared the article to be merely "wet propaganda."

Judge Cooper's reply to the Reed article follows:

"The charges made against me in the article by former Senator Reed, of Missouri, were completely disproved in the attempt made in 1927 by certain wet congressmen from New York City to impeach me. All this is a matter of record in Washington."

(Associated Press.)

Charges by former Senator Reed, of Missouri, that the Government set up speakeasies to entrap policemen and bootleggers were met by prohibition officials yesterday with the statement that such practices had been abolished.

Howard T. Jones, acting prohibition director, said the Prohibition Bureau now was "absolutely opposed to the entrapment of violators or policemen and will not tolerate it in any form."

Turning to the Indianapolis incident cited by Reed, Jones asserted this was not condoned by the Prohibition Bureau.

The GIRL About Town

STROLLING through Georgetown I greeted Mary L. Beckwith, great-granddaughter of Abraham Lincoln, in town for a few days from the Beckwith summer place in Maine. Mary confided to me that she can "solo" now in her airplane. Capital society, like ancient Gaul, is divided into three parts—those who can fly, those who are learning to fly, and those who refuse to fly. That flying group of the Women's City Club has abandoned some of its ambitions. Perhaps it is as well that they are sticking to bridge.

I am so glad that Mrs. Reynolds Hitt got her jewelry back safely. Hope that honest taxicab driver got a nice reward. He did, of course, for Mrs. Hitt is very generous and fair. Speaking of jewelry, I haven't heard what is to become of that lovely Dolly Madison necklace owned by Mrs. John B. Henderson. Will Trixie Wholean get it, I wonder? It was presented to Dolly on her wedding day by her husband. Quite gay for a Quakeress, but then Dolly never followed the plain people too closely about jewels and dress. Mrs. Henderson wore that necklace to the Dolly Madison breakfast here some years ago. She went home early because they gave out Dolly Madison snuffboxes as souvenirs.

GOT an invitation to a little afternoon tea at one of the embassies running on a summer schedule because of the debt holiday. In one corner of the card were the mystic letters "K. T. D." I was puzzled at first, until I remembered that Prince Caetani inaugurated that means of beating the Uninvited to it. He did not announce his parties until they were over. So I guess those letters mean "Keep This Dark." Perhaps I should not have told; but I didn't name the embassy, did I?

"Well, Jeannette!" I exclaimed in Brentano's yesterday. Yes, it was Jeannette Rankin, former Representative in Congress who cried her way out of a seat in the House. She has been visiting friends in Washington and is en route to Geneva, where she will spend some time. The first woman who ever sat in Congress, Jeannette felt the weight of her pioneership almost too much. When she was called on to vote on America's declaration of war she broke down and cried, and voted no.

That reminds me that I hear Mrs. Henry Cooper is running for her late husband's seat in the House of Representatives. If she wins, all those cloakroom stories will have to be revised, for Mrs. Cooper has a way of telling a story just as she has heard it. She is an authority, too, on congressional mistakes, and can point all of them out to you.

protesting the detention of workers under arrest. The note attacked the action of Minister of Interior Miguel Maura for his method of solving the present labor difficulties.

Constitutional assembly, now in session, was urged to speed action on a new constitution to permit the installation of a permanent government which would be in a more favorable position to solve the problem.

Milan, Italy, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Return of Alfonso XIII, exiled King of Spain, to the throne at Madrid, was predicted today by the Duke of Maura in commenting on the present political problems in his country.

"The monarch will return because the republic is fatally obliged always to go toward the Left," the duke told the newspaper Corriere Della Sera. "This will lead to such confusion of authority that the government will not be able to survive. Spain is at the mercy of 'public square' politics."

GANG'S GUN TARGET FOUND IN NEW YORK

Bullets Which Hit Children Intended for Him, Says Drug Racketeer.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Tony Trobino, a shifty-eyed young man, who confessed he was a narcotic racketeer, admitted to police today that the shotgun slugs that killed one child and wounded four other children in Harlem's Little Italy recently, were aimed at him.

Trobino told them, they said, that he snatched up a little child and crawled into a hallway to get out of the line of fire.

And then, they said, he related that, after the gunmen's car had sped away leaving the five wounded children lying on the sidewalk, he leaped unhurt into his own car and escaped.

There were two versions of Trobino's story of the battle.

One, given out by a detective, was that Trobino used the child as a human shield as he crawled to safety. The other, by a high police official, was that Trobino dragged the child into the hallway, not to escape injury himself, but to save the little one from harm.

"Let's give the devil his due," the official said.

The automobile used by the gunmen, Trobino told the police, belonged to Nicholas Martello, known as "Bulldog" Martello, of Astoria, Queens. He did not see the gunmen, he said, but admitted he had been in the narcotic racket in the Bronx, working for a man named "Rock" and for Vincent Coll, said to be an enemy of Dutch Schultz, Bronx beer distributor.

Coll and "Rock" split, detectives said he told them, and "Rock" moved down into Harlem, taking Trobino and several men with him. Thereupon, he said, word went out to "get Rock and his gang."

Trobino admitted his presence at the Harlem street battle after more than ten hours' questioning by the police, who had picked him up on a robbery charge.

His story was that he was sitting alone in an automobile in front of the Helmar Social Club in East 107th street when the gangsters drove up and started to fire.

He opened the door of his car and dropped to the sidewalk, he said, feigning a wound.

The shots continued, however, and children began to scream. He said he crawled across the sidewalk to the hallway of the building, where lived 5-year-old Michael Vengalli, who was killed, and, grabbing a child in his arms, crawled inside.

After the shooting had stopped, he said, he peered out and watched the gunmen's car drive off in the direction of Third avenue.

He said he dropped the child then, ran out across the sidewalk where the little victim lay, jumped into his car and drove off in the opposite direction.

It was said unofficially the police knew who the men were who were to have been put on the spot with Trobino and were hunting for them.

Wilkins' Polar Voyage Is Reported Abandoned

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—The proposed undersea expedition of the submarine Nautilus to the North Pole was reported today to have been abandoned by Sir Hubert Wilkins.

The noted Australian explorer, whose plans for the polar trip had been widely criticized as hazardous, was said in newspaper dispatches to have decided to limit his Arctic explorations, for the present at least, to cruises out from Spitzbergen. It was said that Sir Hubert might renew his efforts to reach the pole in the submarine next year.

Prussian Citizens Urged Not to Vote

"Steel-Helmet" Plebiscite Election Scored in Appeal by Cabinet.

Berlin, Friday, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—All the morning papers in Prussia today carry prominently on their first pages an appeal signed by the Prussian cabinet urging voters to stay away from the polls Sunday and not to participate in the "steel-helmet" plebiscite for the dissolution of the Prussian diet.

The fact that the papers are forced, under authority of the recent Hindenburg emergency decree, to print this appeal aroused bitter condemnation by Communist, National Socialist and Nationalist papers, which called it a "conscription of the press."

Charge of Murder Is Built on Plaster

Clark Prosecutor Plans for Predicted Claim of Self-Defense.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—On fragments of shattered plaster and a bullet hole in a wall, the State built testimony today in the murder trial of David H. Clark to show that only two shots were fired the afternoon of May 20, when Charles Crawford and Herbert Spencer, political figures, were slain.

One of these bullets, the State has claimed, remained in the body of Spencer. The other pierced Crawford's body and stopped in a wall of his private office, scene of the killings.

In attempting to prove that only two shots were fired, Joseph Ford, special prosecutor, said he was preparing for a possible claim by the defense that the shots were fired in self-defense. Through the widows of the slain men, Ford already has produced testimony that Spencer and Crawford went to the conference without weapons.

Catholic Sanitarium Promised New Mexico

Raton, N. Mex., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Local officials of the Catholic Church said today a National Catholic Sanitarium to cost $3,000,000 will be built here and a summer home for priests will be established in the Morono Valley, not far distant.

The site was determined several days ago during the visit to Raton of Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of Cleveland, chairman of the Catholic College of Bishops, who has charge of the project. Construction of the first of two buildings to cost $1,500,000 will be started this fall or early next spring.

2,128,097 Loans Made to Veterans

Total Amount Outstanding Reported to Hoover as $1,187,386,415.

(Associated Press.)

The Veterans' Bureau yesterday informed President Hoover that 2,128,097 loans on adjusted service certificates had been made to July 31, totaling $819,982,850.21. These figures covered loans made under the recently enacted law permitting veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificate.

From the week ended June 13, the total weekly amount of loans dropped from $10,407,000 to $4,383,000 in the week ended July 31. On August 1, the Veterans' Bureau had received 7,521 applications for loans upon which no action had been taken.

The total loans outstanding on July 31, including Government life insurance and previous loans on adjusted service certificates, amounted to $1,187,386,416.82.

Winds Hurl Flame Across Fire Lines

Priest River Forest Blaze Spreads as 3,000 Men Wage Fight.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Heavy winds hurled flames over the fire lines in the Priest River conflagration today, and the Weather Bureau here reported the situation hazardous. More than 3,000 men were in the trenches of North Idaho, Montana and eastern Washington, fighting fires.

The Priest River fire in the Kaniksu Forest reached the Quartez Creek road and again threatened the Federal experiment station at Priest River.

A plane took off from Missoula, Mont., today to rescue a fire fighter injured at the Dixie Creek station, in the Nez Perce Forest of Idaho. The man, whose name was unknown here, had a compound fracture of the leg. To date seven have been badly hurt and two have died in the fire zones.

Of course women prefer them they're FRESH!

NOTHING in a cigarette has ever appealed to women so swiftly and truly as the fresh mildness of Camels in the Humidor Pack.

To the delicate feminine throat the suave, cool fragrance of this perfectly conditioned cigarette comes as a genuine and welcome boon.

Now women smokers as well as men are learning what a throat-friendly joy a fine cigarette in prime, factory-fresh condition can be!

Now they can relish the satisfaction of expertly blended fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos free from the scratch-and-sting of parched and dusty dryness.

Camels in the Humidor Pack are just what good cigarettes should be—fine tobaccos kept fine, no matter where or when you buy them.

The scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the factory freshness and aroma, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

If your taste is jaded with the heat and sting of fast-burning dried-out cigarettes, try cool, humidor fresh Camels for a grateful change.

Give your throat a vacation—try Camels for just one day; then quit them—if you can.

MOLLISON LOWERS RECORD TO ENGLAND

Cuts Two Days Off Mark Set by Scott on Flight From Australia.

Croydon, England, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A young Scottish airman, James A. Mollison, landed at Croydon Airdrome tonight after having cut more than two days from the Australia-to-England record.

His time from Wyndham, Australia, to Pervensey Bay, Sussex, where he first touched English soil, was officially given as 8 days 21 hours 25 minutes.

This compares with the previous record, made by C. W. A. Scott, of 10 days 23 hours.

When he arrived at Croydon Mollison was delighted to receive from Scott a telegram reading: "Bravo, James; splendid achievement. Always knew you were the better man."

The weary new record holder replied with a telegram in which he said: "Thanks for delightful message. Latter part all tripe."

Mollison's flight was one of the most gruelling in the history of long distance aviation. Throughout it he averaged only two hours' sleep a night and when thoroughly worn out he had to face extremely bad weather on the final stage from Rome to England.

It was because of sheer weariness that he brought his plane down at Pervenbey Bay, where he snatched a little hurried rest and a meal before continuing on to Croydon.

Friends of Mollison said tonight that he would certainly attempt to set a record on his return flight to Australia. But for the present all he wants is sleep.

The crowd pressed about his small ship so closely when he touched ground that he had difficulty getting out of the cockpit. Despite the fact that he was dead tired he managed to summon up a smile in response to the greetings of the crowd.

Maj. Doolittle Enters Air Race

Retired Plane Speed King to Seek Record Held by Williams.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Jimmy Doolittle is at it again. Thus did they herald the reentry of Maj. James H. Doolittle into air racing today.

Maj. Doolittle, who once "retired" from the dangers and rigors of speed competition, announced his entry today in the Thompson Trophy race, the American air classic at the national air races here August 29 to September 1.

One of the most colorful of American pilots, winner in 1925 of the Schneider Cup races, twice a member of the Caterpillar Club, and recipient of the Harmon Trophy here last April, Doolittle will bid for the American speed record now held by Lieut. Al Williams.

Underground Sprinkler For Lawns at Capitol

Work on an underground sprinkling system to keep the Capitol lawns green throughout the hottest summer months was started yesterday. A contract with the Munz Spralawn Corporation, of Detroit, calls for the installation of 2,600 spray heads within four months. The cost is $31,000, copper pipe being used throughout.

At the same time the office of the architect of the Capitol announced that bids on an additional portion of the grounds for a similar sprinkling system were being received and would be opened on August 19. This is expected to cost approximately $25,000 and will furnish together with the project now underway, a complete plan for sprinkling the entire Capitol grounds.

Chase Leads Man into Rum Case.

Seized after a short automobile chase yesterday which started at North Capitol and M streets, William A. Edmonds, colored, was charged with illegal possession. Police reported that 18 gallons of whisky was in his car. The prisoner also was booked for speeding and driving with an expired permit. He said he is 27 and lives at 50 G street northwest.

DO-X Arrives at Natal.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Aug 6 (A.P.). The seaplane DO-X arrived at Natal today for an overnight stop on the way to the United States. She had flown from Bahia, 600 miles away. The next scheduled overnight stop is Para.

Drops From Inverted Plane.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Lieut. Harry Johnson, 37, commander of the Ninety-fourth Pursuit Squadron, Selfridge Field, saved himself from death today by leaping with his parachute when the Army plane he was flying upside down at a height of 3,000 feet went into an inverted spin near here.

Flying Cadet Killed in Crash.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Flying Cadet Paul E. Reierson, student pilot in the pursuit section of the Advanced Flying School, Kelly field, was instantly killed when his plane crashed near here today.

Search of Arctic Wastes Fails to Trace Amundsen

By DAN LEROY DRESSER.

Aboard Soviet Icebreaker Malygin, in the Polar Seas, Aug. 6 (Via Wireless to the United Press).—One of the last slim chances of revealing the fate of the famous explorer, Roald Amundsen, and others who were lost in connection with the polar dirigible Italia disaster in 1928, vanished today when we visited Rudolphs Island.

Our thorough search of the island, which lies in latitude 81.40, in the Franz Joseph land region, failed to reveal any trace of the missing men, and I am positive that they never reached the food cache there.

The unsuccessful search was another bitter blow for Gen. Umberto Nobile, the slight, wiry commander of the Italia, who has clung to the hope that the Arctic wilderness of snow and ice might yet surrender a clue to one of its greatest mysteries. Nobile joined the Malygin to test his belief that examination of the various isolated and barren islands of the Arctic might reveal some of the missing men still alive.

Because Amundsen, who was lost on an airplane rescue expedition to aid Nobile, was well acquainted with Rudolphs Island and knew there was a food cache there, the Italian general believed it was a logical place to search for him. As one of the party to go ashore, I examined the cache, which was easily found. It was left there a generation ago, but the little hut was still standing and in good condition.

I found a considerable quantity of supplies which were in fair shape, including canned corned beef which was edible. But there was no sign that any of the Amundsen party, or any one else, had visited the island in recent years.

The Malygin, which had been fog-bound off the island for some time before the landing, will not be able to proceed farther northward because of the ice blockade. The ship will return southward, where Nobile still hopes some trace of the six Italians lost in the disastrous dirigible expedition may be located.

ALIEN RACKET DATA READY FOR COURTS

Investigation Being Spurred, With More Arrests in Prospect.

(Associated Press.)

With confessions disclosing the operation of an alien return permit racket ready for presentation to court, Secretary Doak yesterday said the investigation was being carried further with other arrests in prospect.

Ten New York men, some reputedly wealthy, were under bond charged with complicity in the scheme. Immigration officials estimated it enabled 100,000 aliens to enter the country illegally. Three of those arrested were employes of the immigration and naturalization division of the Labor Department.

The ramifications of the ring apparently were Nation-wide, the Secretary said, but he believed leaders of the racket were included among those already arrested.

Murray W. Garsson, special Assistant Secretary of Labor; E. F. Brown, immigration inspector, and Carlo Devlo and Capt. McDermott, of the New York police force, have worked day and night with little rest during the last two weeks in an effort to round up the gang.

Aside from such arrests as may result from leads disclosed in the investigation up to the present, the Secretary indicated yesterday that the next step would be trial of the men now on bond in the New York Federal courts.

Former Rich Publisher Files Bankruptcy Plea

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Eugene V. Brewster, former millionaire New York magazine publisher, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court today.

For some time he has lived in a small Hollywood bungalow on the rear of a lot and all but hidden by a larger house on the street. His wife is Corless Palmer, actress, who entered motion pictures by winning a national beauty contest conducted by one of his magazines. Brewster listed his assets at $500 and his liabilities at $17,396.

Indian Mound Found on Farm.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—One of the most important sites of Algonkian civilization ever discovered in New York State has been found on a farm at Castle Creek, Dr. William A. Ritchie, assistant director of the Rochester Museum, announced today. The site probably dates back to the ninth century and may be even older than that, he said.

of Herndon and Pangborn would not be confiscated because of their failure to obtain permission to fly over Japanese territory. They said they would consider the circumstances and not be technical.

A somewhat more serious view was taken, however, when a camera and a radio set were found on the Americans' plane, which was said to have passed over fortifications at Hakodate, on Hokkaido Island. The fliers were questioned for three hours and their camera was taken from them for examination of plates which might contain photographs. The ministry of communications reported they asked police to keep a watch over the Americans.

Weather Holds Lindberghs.

Aklavik, N. W. T., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Cold winds, fog and rain, born in the Arctic, whipped up the waters of Peel Channel in the delta of the Mackenzie River today, holding Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife in this far northern trading post.

Col. Lindbergh announced at 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) that he would not take off until tomorrow unless the weather shows immediate improvement.

They had planned to leave today for Point Barrow, Alaska, 536 miles north and west.

The storm came up soon after they landed at 6:05 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday, preventing radio communication to the south for sixteen hours. The barren lands, great treeless plains, between Fort Simpson and Aklavik, were swept by violent winds.

to Denmark and Great Britain. During my last visit to Canada, I conferred with postal officials of that government regarding this very matter. If this route is to be selected as the first one over which mails are to be flown to Europe, and appropriations can be secured for such service, the governments of both the United States and Canada will cooperate in the establishment of such a route. The postoffice departments of both the United States and Canada have been working in the closest harmony throughout such negotiations."

It was stated by Mr. Glover that the idea of the inauguration of a southern transatlantic air mail line, which would go by way of Charleston, Bermuda and the Azores to Continental Europe had not been abandoned by the Department but that planes would have to be built which would insure a greater degree of safety in flying over such a long water hop before this route could be established. It was believed that the proposed Northern route could be flown the better part of the year and that the equipment was already on hand or could be procured with very little delay.

$50,000 Suit Is Filed After Auto Injuries

A suit for $50,000 damages against Edwin S. Walters, 1499 Irving street northwest, was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Rodney F. Keys, 1221 Irving street northwest.

Keys, through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, alleges that he was seriously injured May 4 last when an automobile said to have been driven by Walters struck him at Fifteenth street and Columbia road northwest.

Transoceanic Craft Talked As Giant Akron Is Finished

Ships Size of New Naval Dirigible, to Be Christened Tomorrow by Mrs. Hoover, Are Capable of Carrying 100 Passengers.

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The huge dock where Mrs. Hoover, wife of the President, will christen the Navy's new dirigible, Akron, Saturday, is expected in a few days to be the workshop for great transoceanic air liners.

In this dock, so gigantic that it has weather conditions independent of those outside, engineers putting together girders and fabric have created for themselves a new fund of knowledge of dirigible building.

This knowledge, accompanied by years of experience of veteran Zeppelin builders imported from Europe, will go into the new transoceanic air liners. According to Dr. Karl Arnstein, vice-president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, who is in charge of the construction, the structural design of the Navy ship may be easily adapted to the liners.

Ships the size of the Akron will be capable of carrying 100 passengers. They will have a total deck area of 12,000 square feet, with each stateroom occupying about 70 square feet.

Promenade decks and corridors about 5 feet wide will have a total length of about 900 feet, while about 3,500 square feet will be for public compartments.

There will be lounges, a dining salon and smoking room, galleys and storage places for food. Builders promise passengers wil not suffer from seasickness, noise or odors.

Because the ships are designed for passengers who desire more rapid ocean trips, the air liners are not intended for operation in competition with surface vessels.

As the ceremonies for the christening of the Akron begin Saturday the great "orange peel" doors of the dock, each of which weighs 600 tons, will be swung open by electric motors to permit the crowds to enter.

A crowd of about 100,000 is expected to mill through the docks to view the largest airship ever constructed, resting as a butterfly chrysalis ready to take flight.

As the ceremonies start exhibition flights over the dock will be staged by 150 Army, Navy, Marine Corps and private airplanes.

Helium was being pumped into the gas cells inside the 6,500,000-cubic-foot bag. As the helium was being pumped in the ship was being moored fast to the floor of the dock to prevent any damage. Great rings and cables were used to resist the 221,000-pound lifting power of the gas.

Man Is Given Life Term In Fatal Plant Bombing

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—R. A. Bridges was adjudged guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment late today for throwing a bomb which killed two persons and wrecked a milk plant here July 10.

Burge Gilpin, who admitted during the trial he drove the automobile involved in the bombing, will face a jury for trial tomorrow. The bombing was announced as a renewal of a milk price war which had resulted in other violence.

Navy Airplanes to Aid In Christening of Akron

(Associated Press.)

Nine planes from the naval air station at Hampton Roads, Va., were authorized yesterday to participate in the christening ceremonies of the Navy's new dirigible Akron, on August 8, at Akron, Ohio.

The planes are from Scouting Squadron 1, under Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Baugh, which is attached to the Aircraft Carrier Langley but is based temporarily at the Hampton Roads Station.

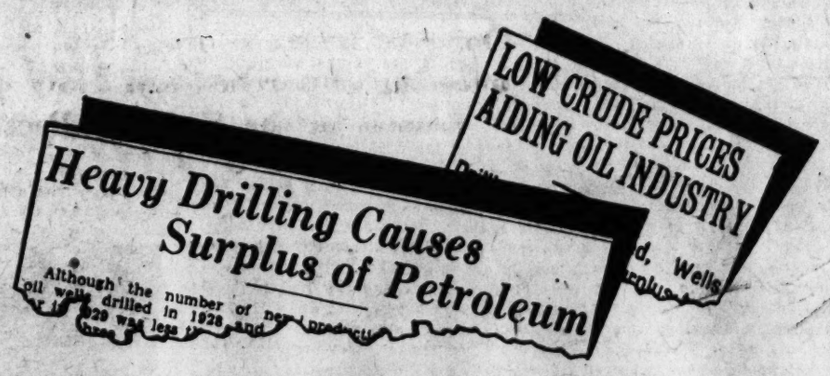
Oil Heat drops further below cost of other fuels!



LOW CRUDE PRICES AIDING OIL INDUSTRY
Heavy Drilling Causes Surplus of Petroleum
Although the number of new producing oil wells drilled in 1928 and

Permanency of cheaper oil heat assured by overwhelming world supply. New Petro-Nokol uses the lower-priced oils that make up the bulk of this great surplus!

Here are some facts about oil heat you should know about. They're amazing to those who still think that oil heat costs more than heating with other fuels.

Oil heat has cost less than other methods of heating for the last 3 or 4 years! In actual dollars and cents . . . to say nothing of the enjoyment of greater ease and comfort. Hundreds of thousands of home owners will tell you this.

OIL HEAT COSTS DROP STILL FURTHER

Two things have brought this about. The price of oil has come down. For the first time, more oil is available than can be used in a generation. So the permanency of cheaper oil heat is assured.

Next . . . Petroleum Heat & Power Company has perfected a new and better method of combustion. These new Petro-Nokols are designed to use the heavier oils that will always be lower in price. These grades of oil not only cost less per gallon . . . but every gallon contains more heating units. And it is these very oils of which there is the greatest surplus. In many cases, the saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

PETRO-NOKOL PRICES LOWEST IN HISTORY

Now . . . at prices as low as $295, you get all the engineering skill . . . all the latest scientific advances . . . all the fruits of our 28 years' experience . . . found in our burners now heating London Terrace Apartment building . . . the Cornell Medical Center . . . and Riverside Church . . . the three largest buildings of their kind in the world. These new models give you in your home the same dependability . . . the same service-free operation as the burners that made Petroleum Heat & Power Company, the world's largest oil heating organization.

SAVE ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

Right now . . . in the heat of August you can start saving with Petro-Nokol. A special heating element which operates with the oil burner, provides you with all the domestic hot water you can use for kitchen and bath. As hot as you want it . . . summer and winter . . . at a lower cost than any other automatic system.

A small down payment of $25 is all you need pay now. No further payments until October. Whatever the size of your house . . . whatever the type and size of your heating plant . . . whatever your heating problem . . . your Petro-Nokol dealer has a burner built expressly for your needs. You may have the fullest confidence in his unbiased recommendation. See these new models on display today.

Lowest Prices in History!

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

$295 is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ⅓ to ½ on fuel. See it today!

GANG'S GUN TARGET FOUND IN NEW YORK

Bullets Which Hit Children Intended for Him, Says Drug Racketeer.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Tony Trobino, a shifty-eyed young man, who confessed he was a narcotic racketeer, admitted to police today that the shotgun slugs that killed one child and wounded four other children in Harlem's Little Italy recently, were aimed at him.

Trobino told them, they said, that he snatched up a little child and crawled into a hallway to get out of the line of fire.

And then, they said, he related that, after the gunmen's car had sped away leaving the five wounded children lying on the sidewalk, he leaped unhurt into his own car and escaped.

There were two versions of Trobino's story of the battle.

One, given out by a detective, was that Trobino used the child as a human shield as he crawled to safety. The other, by a high police official, was that Trobino dragged the child into the hallway, not to escape injury himself, but to save the little one from harm.

"Let's give the devil his due," the official said.

The automobile used by the gunmen, Trobino told the police, belonged to Nicholas Martello, known as "Bulldog" Martello, of Astoria, Queens. He did not see the gunmen, he said, but admitted he had been in the narcotic racket in the Bronx, working for a man named "Rock" and for Vincent Coll, said to be an enemy of Dutch Schultz, Bronx beer distributor.

Coll and "Rock" split, detectives said he told them, and "Rock" moved down into Harlem, taking Trobino and several men with him. Thereupon, he said, word went out to "get Rock and his gang."

Trobino admitted his presence at the Harlem street battle after more than ten hours' questioning by the police, who had picked him up on a robbery charge.

His story was that he was sitting alone in an automobile in front of the Helmar Social Club in East 107th street when the gangsters drove up and started to fire.

He opened the door of his car and dropped to the sidewalk, he said, feigning a wound.

The shots continued, however, and children began to scream. He said he crawled across the sidewalk to the hallway of the building, where lived 5-year-old Michael Vengalli, who was killed, and, grabbing a child in his arms, crawled inside.

After the shooting had stopped, he said, he peered out and watched the gunmen's car drive off in the direction of Third avenue.

He said he dropped the child then, ran out across the sidewalk where the little victim lay, jumped into his car and drove off in the opposite direction.

It was said unofficially the police knew who the men were who were to have been put on the spot with Trobino and were hunting for them.

Wilkins' Polar Voyage Is Reported Abandoned

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—The proposed undersea expedition of the submarine Nautilus to the North Pole was reported today to have been abandoned by Sir Hubert Wilkins.

The noted Australian explorer, whose plans for the polar trip had been widely criticized as hazardous, was said in newspaper dispatches to have decided to limit his Arctic explorations, for the present at least, to cruises out from Spitzbergen. It was said that Sir Hubert might renew his efforts to reach the pole in the submarine next year.

Prussian Citizens Urged Not to Vote

"Steel-Helmet" Plebiscite Election Scored in Appeal by Cabinet.

Berlin, Friday, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—All the morning papers in Prussia today carry prominently on their first pages an appeal signed by the Prussian cabinet urging voters to stay away from the polls Sunday and not to participate in the "steel-helmet" plebiscite for the dissolution of the Prussian diet.

The fact that the papers are forced, under authority of the recent Hindenburg emergency decree, to print this appeal aroused bitter condemnation by Communist, National Socialist and Nationalist papers, which called it a "conscription of the press."

Charge of Murder Is Built on Plaster

Clark Prosecutor Plans for Predicted Claim of Self-Defense.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—On fragments of shattered plaster and a bullet hole in a wall, the State built testimony today in the murder trial of David H. Clark to show that only two shots were fired the afternoon of May 20, when Charles Crawford and Herbert Spencer, political figures, were slain.

One of these bullets, the State has claimed, remained in the body of Spencer. The other pierced Crawford's body and stopped in a wall of his private office, scene of the killings.

In attempting to prove that only two shots were fired, Joseph Ford, special prosecutor, said he was preparing for a possible claim by the defense that the shots were fired in self-defense. Through the widows of the slain men, Ford already has produced testimony that Spencer and Crawford went to the conference without weapons.

Catholic Sanitarium Promised New Mexico

Raton, N. Mex., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Local officials of the Catholic Church said today a National Catholic Sanitarium to cost $3,000,000 will be built here and a summer home for priests will be established in the Morono Valley, not far distant.

The site was determined several days ago during the visit to Raton of Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of Cleveland, chairman of the Catholic College of Bishops, who has charge of the project. Construction of the first of two buildings to cost $1,500,000 will be started this fall or early next spring.

2,128,097 Loans Made to Veterans

Total Amount Outstanding Reported to Hoover as $1,187,386,415.

(Associated Press.)

The Veterans' Bureau yesterday informed President Hoover that 2,128,097 loans on adjusted service certificates had been made to July 31, totaling $819,982,850.21. These figures covered loans made under the recently enacted law permitting veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificate.

From the week ended June 13, the total weekly amount of loans dropped from $10,407,000 to $4,353,000 in the week ended July 31. On August 1, the Veterans' Bureau had received 7,521 applications for loans upon which no action had been taken.

The total loans outstanding on July 31, including Government life insurance and previous loans on adjusted service certificates, amounted to $1,187,386,416.82.

Winds Hurl Flame Across Fire Lines

Priest River Forest Blaze Spreads as 3,000 Men Wage Fight.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Heavy winds hurled flames over the fire lines in the Priest River conflagration today, and the Weather Bureau here reported the situation hazardous. More than 3,000 men were in the trenches of North Idaho, Montana and eastern Washington, fighting fires.

The Priest River fire in the Kaniksu Forest reached the Quartez Creek road and again threatened the Federal experiment station at Priest River.

A plane took off from Missoula, Mont., today to rescue a fire fighter injured at the Dixie Creek station, in the Nez Perce Forest of Idaho. The man, whose name was unknown here, had a compound fracture of the leg. To date seven have been badly hurt and two have died in the fire zones.

THE IRISH BEAUTIES
by E. Barrington

Of course women prefer them they're FRESH!

NOTHING in a cigarette has ever appealed to women so swiftly and truly as the fresh mildness of Camels in the Humidor Pack.

To the delicate feminine throat the suave, cool fragrance of this perfectly conditioned cigarette comes as a genuine and welcome boon.

Now women smokers as well as men are learning what a throat-friendly joy a fine cigarette in prime, factory-fresh condition can be!

Now they can relish the satisfaction of expertly blended fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos free from the scratch-and-sting of parched and dusty dryness.

Camels in the Humidor Pack are just what good cigarettes should be—fine tobaccos kept fine, no matter where or when you buy them.

The scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the factory freshness and aroma, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

If your taste is jaded with the heat and sting of fast-burning dried-out cigarettes, try cool, humidor fresh Camels for a grateful change.

Give your throat a vacation—try Camels for just one day; then quit them—if you can.

CAMELS

Mild . . NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons — Columbia Broadcasting System — every night except Sunday

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked

MOLLISON LOWERS RECORD TO ENGLAND

Cuts Two Days Off Mark Set by Scott on Flight From Australia.

Croydon, England, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A young Scottish airman, James A. Mollison, landed at Croydon Airdrome tonight after having cut more than two days from the Australia-to-England record.

His time from Wyndham, Australia, to Pervensey Bay, Sussex, where he first touched English soil, was officially given as 8 days 21 hours 25 minutes.

This compares with the previous record, made by C. W. A. Scott, of 10 days 23 hours.

When he arrived at Croydon Mollison was delighted to receive from Scott a telegram reading: "Bravo, James; splendid achievement. Always knew you were the better man."

The weary new record holder replied with a telegram in which he said: "Thanks for delightful message. Latter part all tripe."

Mollison's flight was one of the most gruelling in the history of long distance aviation. Throughout it he averaged only two hours' sleep a night and when thoroughly worn out he had to face extremely bad weather on the final stage from Rome to England.

It was because of sheer weariness that he brought his plane down at Pervensey Bay, where he snatched a little hurried rest and a meal before continuing on to Croydon.

Friends of Mollison said tonight that he would certainly attempt to set a record on his return flight to Australia. But for the present all he wants is sleep.

The crowd pressed about his small ship so closely when he touched ground that he had difficulty getting out of the cockpit. Despite the fact that he was dead tired he managed to summon up a smile in response to the greetings of the crowd.

Maj. Doolittle Enters Air Race

Retired Plane Speed King to Seek Record Held by Williams.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Jimmy Doolittle is at it again. Thus did they herald the reentry of Maj. James H. Doolittle into air racing today.

Maj. Doolittle, who once "retired" from the dangers and rigors of speed competition, announced his entry today in the Thompson Trophy race, the American air classic at the national air races here August 29 to September 1.

One of the most colorful of American pilots, winner in 1925 of the Schneider Cup races, twice a member of the Caterpillar Club, and recipient of the Harmon Trophy here last April, Doolittle will bid for the American speed record now held by Lieut. Al Williams.

Underground Sprinkler For Lawns at Capitol

Work on an underground sprinkling system to keep the Capitol lawns green throughout the hottest summer months was started yesterday. A contract with the Munz Spralawn Corporation, of Detroit, calls for the installation of 2,600 spray heads within four months. The cost is $31,000, copper pipe being used throughout.

At the same time the office of the architect of the Capitol announced that bids on an additional portion of the grounds for a similar sprinkling system were being received and would be opened on August 19. This is expected to cost approximately $25,000 and will furnish together with the project now underway, a complete plan for sprinkling the entire Capitol grounds.

Chase Leads Man Into Rum Case.

Seized after a short automobile chase yesterday which started at North Capitol and M streets, William A. Edmonds, colored, was charged with illegal possession. Police reported that 18 gallons of whisky was in his car. The prisoner also was booked for speeding and driving with an expired permit. He said he is 27 and lives at 50 G street northwest.

DO-X Arrives at Natal.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Aug 6 (A.P.). The seaplane DO-X arrived at Natal today for an overnight stop on the way to the United States. She had flown from Bahia, 600 miles away. The next scheduled overnight stop is Para.

Drops From Inverted Plane.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Lieut. Harry Johnson, 37, commander of the Ninety-fourth Pursuit Squadron, Selfridge Field, saved himself from death today by leaping with his parachute when the Army plane he was flying upside down at a height of 3,000 feet went into an inverted spin near here.

Flying Cadet Killed in Crash.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Flying Cadet Paul E. Relerson, student pilot in the pursuit section of the Advanced Flying School, Kelly field, was instantly killed when his plane crashed near here today.

Search of Arctic Wastes Fails to Trace Amundsen

By DAN LEROY DRESSER.

Aboard Soviet Icebreaker Malygin, in the Polar Seas, Aug. 6 (Via Wireless to the United Press).—One of the last slim chances of revealing the fate of the famous explorer, Roald Amundsen, and others who were lost in connection with the polar dirigible Italia disaster in 1928, vanished today when we visited Rudolphs Island.

Our thorough search of the island, which lies in latitude 81.40, in the Franz Joseph land region, failed to reveal any trace of the missing men, and I am positive that they never reached the food cache there.

The unsuccessful search was another bitter blow for Gen. Umberto Nobile, the slight, wiry commander of the Italia, who has clung to the hope that the Arctic wilderness of snow and ice might yet surrender a clue to one of its greatest mysteries. Nobile joined the Malygin to test his belief that examination of the various isolated and barren islands of the Arctic might reveal some of the missing men still alive.

Because Amundsen, who was lost on an airplane rescue expedition to aid Nobile, was well acquainted with Rudolphs Island and knew there was a food cache there, the Italian general believed it was a logical place to search for him. As one of the party to go ashore, I examined the cache, which was easily found. It was left there a generation ago, but the little hut was still standing and in good condition.

I found a considerable quantity of supplies which were in fair shape, including canned corned beef which was edible. But there was no sign that any of the Amundsen party, or any one else, had visited the island in recent years.

The Malygin, which had been fog-bound off the island for some time before the landing, will not be able to proceed farther northward because of the ice blockade. The ship will return southward, where Nobile still hopes some trace of the six Italians lost in the disastrous dirigible expedition may be located.

ALIEN RACKET DATA READY FOR COURTS

Investigation Being Spurred, With More Arrests in Prospect.

(Associated Press.)

With confessions disclosing the operation of an alien return permit racket ready for presentation to court, Secretary Doak yesterday said the investigation was being carried further with other arrests in prospect.

Ten New York men, some reputedly wealthy, were under bond charged with complicity in the scheme. Immigration officials estimated it enabled 100,000 aliens to enter the country illegally. Three of those arrested were employes of the immigration and naturalization division of the Labor Department.

The ramifications of the ring apparently were Nation-wide, the Secretary said, but he believed leaders of the racket were included among those already arrested.

Murray W. Garsson, special Assistant Secretary of Labor; E. F. Brown, immigration inspector, and Carlo Devio and Capt. McDermott, of the New York police force, have worked day and night with little rest during the last two weeks in an effort to round up the gang.

Aside from such arrests as may result from leads disclosed in the investigation up to the present, the Secretary indicated yesterday that the next step would be trial of the men now on bond in the New York Federal courts.

Former Rich Publisher Files Bankruptcy Plea

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Eugene V. Brewster, former millionaire New York magazine publisher, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court today.

For some time he has lived in a small Hollywood bungalow on the rear of a lot and all but hidden by a larger house on the street. His wife is Corless Palmer, actress, who entered motion pictures by winning a national beauty contest conducted by one of his magazines. Brewster listed his assets at $500 and his liabilities at $17,396.

Indian Mound Found on Farm.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—One of the most important sites of Algonkian civilization ever discovered in New York State has been found on a farm at Castle Creek, Dr. William A. Ritchie, assistant director of the Rochester Museum, announced today. The site probably dates back to the ninth century and may be even older than that, he said.

of Herndon and Pangborn would not be confiscated because of their failure to obtain permission to fly over Japanese territory. They said they would consider the circumstances and not be technical.

A somewhat more serious view was taken, however, when a camera and a radio set were found on the Americans' plane, which was said to have passed over fortifications at Hakodate, on Hokkaido Island. The fliers were questioned for three hours and their camera was taken from them for examination of plates which might contain photographs. The ministry of communications reported they asked police to keep a watch over the Americans.

Weather Holds Lindberghs.

Aklavik, N. W. T., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Cold, winds, fog and rain, born in the Arctic, whipped up the waters of Peel Channel in the delta of the Mackenzie River today, holding Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife in this far northern trading post.

Col. Lindbergh announced at 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) that he would not take off until tomorrow unless the weather shows immediate improvement.

They had planned to leave today for Point Barrow, Alaska, 536 miles north and west.

The storm came up soon after they landed at 6:05 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday, preventing radio communication to the south for sixteen hours. The barren lands, great treeless plains, between Fort Simpson and Aklavik, were swept by violent winds.

to Denmark and Great Britain. During my last visit to Canada, I conferred with postal officials of that government regarding this very matter. If this route is to be selected as the first one over which mails are to be flown to Europe, and appropriations can be secured for such service, the governments of both the United States and Canada will cooperate in the establishment of such a route. The postoffice departments of both the United States and Canada have been working in the closest harmony throughout such negotiations."

It was stated by Mr. Glover that the idea of the inauguration of a southern transatlantic air mail line, which would go by way of Charleston, Bermuda and the Azores to Continental Europe had not been abandoned by the Department but that planes would have to be built which would insure a greater degree of safety in flying over such a long water hop before this route could be established. It was believed that the proposed Northern route could be flown the better part of the year and that the equipment was already on hand or could be procured with very little delay.

$50,000 Suit Is Filed After Auto Injuries

A suit for $50,000 damages against Edwin S. Walters, 1499 Irving street northwest, was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Rodney F. Keys, 1221 Irving street northwest.

Keys, through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, alleges that he was seriously injured May 4 last when an automobile said to have been driven by Walters struck him at Fifteenth street and Columbia road northwest.

Transoceanic Craft Talked As Giant Akron Is Finished

Ships Size of New Naval Dirigible, to Be Christened Tomorrow by Mrs. Hoover, Are Capable of Carrying 100 Passengers.

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The huge dock where Mrs. Hoover, wife of the President, will christen the Navy's new dirigible, Akron, Saturday, is expected in a few days to be the workshop for great transoceanic air liners.

In this dock, so gigantic that it has weather conditions independent of those outside, engineers putting together girders and fabric have created for themselves a new fund of knowledge of dirigible building.

This knowledge, accompanied by years of experience of veteran Zeppelin builders imported from Europe, will go into the new transoceanic air liners. According to Dr. Karl Arnstein, vice-president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, who is in charge of the construction, the structural design of the Navy ship may be easily adapted to the liners.

Ships the size of the Akron will be capable of carrying 100 passengers. They will have a total deck area of 12,000 square feet, with each stateroom occupying about 70 square feet.

Promenade decks and corridors about 5 feet wide will have a total length of about 900 feet, while about 3,500 square feet will be for public compartments.

There will be lounges, a dining salon and smoking room, galleys and storage places for food. Builders promise passengers wil not suffer from seasickness, noise or odors.

Because the ships are designed for passengers who desire more rapid ocean trips, the air liners are not intended for operation in competition with surface vessels.

As the ceremonies for the christening of the Akron begin Saturday the great "orange peel" doors of the dock, each of which weighs 600 tons, will be swung open by electric motors to permit the crowds to enter.

A crowd of about 100,000 is expected to mill through the docks to view the largest airship ever constructed, resting as a butterfly chrysalis ready to take flight.

As the ceremonies start exhibition flights over the dock will be staged by 150 Army, Navy, Marine Corps and private airplanes.

Helium was being pumped into the gas cells inside the 6,500,000-cubic-foot bag. As the helium was being pumped in the ship was being moored fast to the floor of the dock to prevent any damage. Great rings and cables were used to resist the 221,000-pound lifting power of the gas.

Man Is Given Life Term In Fatal Plant Bombing

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—R. A. Bridges was adjudged guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment late today for throwing a bomb which killed two persons and wrecked a milk plant here July 10.

Burge Gilpin, who admitted during the trial he drove the automobile involved in the bombing, will face a jury for trial tomorrow. The bombing was announced as a renewal of a milk price war which had resulted in other violence.

Navy Airplanes to Aid In Christening of Akron

(Associated Press.)

Nine planes from the naval air station at Hampton Roads, Va., were authorized yesterday to participate in the christening ceremonies of the Navy's new dirigible Akron, on August 8, at Akron, Ohio.

The planes are from Scouting Squadron 1, under Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Baugh, which is attached to the Aircraft Carrier Langley but is based temporarily at the Hampton Roads Station.

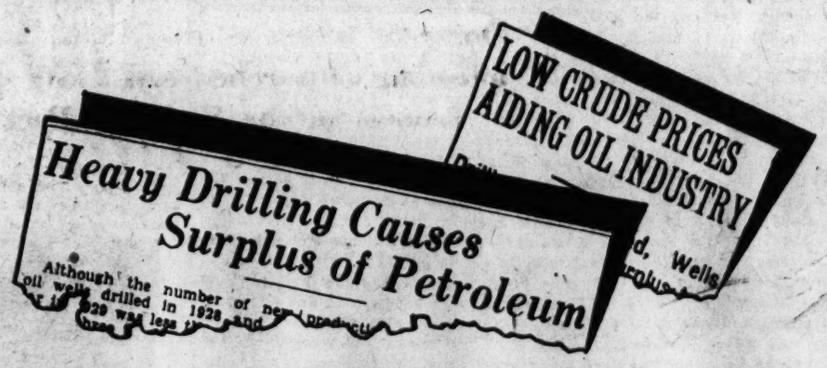
Oil Heat drops further below cost of other fuels!



LOW CRUDE PRICES AIDING OIL INDUSTRY
Heavy Drilling Causes Surplus of Petroleum
Although the number of new oil wells drilled in 1928 and 1929 was less

Permanency of cheaper oil heat assured by overwhelming world supply. New Petro-Nokol uses the lower-priced oils that make up the bulk of this great surplus!

Here are some facts about oil heat you should know about. They're amazing to those who still think that oil heat costs more than heating with other fuels.

Oil heat has cost less than other methods of heating for the last 3 or 4 years! In actual dollars and cents . . . to say nothing of the enjoyment of greater ease and comfort. Hundreds of thousands of home owners will tell you this.

OIL HEAT COSTS DROP STILL FURTHER

Two things have brought this about. The price of oil has come down. For the first time, more oil is available than can be used in a generation. So the permanency of cheaper oil heat is assured.

Next . . . Petroleum Heat & Power Company has perfected a new and better method of combustion. These new Petro-Nokols are designed to use the heavier oils that will always be lower in price. These grades of oil not only cost less per gallon . . . but every gallon contains more heating units. And it is these very oils of which there is the greatest surplus. In many cases, the saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

PETRO-NOKOL PRICES LOWEST IN HISTORY

Now . . . at prices as low as $295, you get all the engineering skill . . . all the latest scientific advances . . . all the fruits of our 28 years' experience . . . found in our burners now heating London Terrace Apartment building . . . the Cornell Medical Center . . . and Riverside Church . . . the three largest buildings of their kind in the world. These new models give you in your home the same dependability . . . the same service-free operation as the burners that made Petroleum Heat & Power Company, the world's largest oil heating organization.

SAVE ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

Right now . . . in the heat of August you can start saving with Petro-Nokol. A special heating element which operates with the oil burner, provides you with all the domestic hot water you can use for kitchen and bath. As hot as you want it . . . summer and winter . . . at a lower cost than any other automatic system.

A small down payment of $25 is all you need pay now. No further payments until October. Whatever the size of your house . . . whatever the type and size of your heating plant . . . whatever your heating problem . . . your Petro-Nokol dealer has a burner built expressly for your needs. You may have the fullest confidence in his unbiased recommendation. See these new models on display today.

Lowest Prices in History!

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

$295 is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ⅓ to ½ on fuel. See it today!

$25 THRIFT DEPOSIT

puts a new oil burner in your home with no further payments until October.

WE SUPPLY THE OIL, TOO!

By supplying both the oil burners and the fuel oil, our responsibility to you is undivided. This assures you of the right oil for your burner and the right burner for your home.

Our fleets of fast, modern trucks deliver oil from Boston to Washington, D. C., on a day and night schedule. See your Petro-Nokol dealer today for complete oil heating service.

KEEP CHILDREN IN SCHOOL.

President Hoover's job-creating committee is attacking unemployment with a two-edged sword. With the aid of numerous educational associations it has launched a campaign to keep children in school for a longer period so that they will not add to the ranks of the unemployed or deprive adults of opportunities to work. The movement deserves wholehearted cooperation from every educational agency as well as the support of public opinion.

The fact that thousands of immature children are regularly employed while millions of able-bodied adults are unable to find a means of supporting themselves and families indicates a serious maladjustment. It is not to be supposed that this can be fully corrected by a campaign to keep children in school during the depression. Unfortunately many of the youths who are toiling in factories and on farms are forced by circumstances to look out for themselves and sometimes for dependents. But there are thousands who leave school and seek employment simply because they do not understand the value of an education. When these young men and women are kept in school they not only diminish the competition for jobs but they prepare themselves for more important roles in the economic world.

American colleges and universities enroll close to 1,000,000 students every year. More than one-fourth of these young men and women leave school and take up economic pursuits every year. A large per cent of them take up their life's work without finishing their training and are handicapped throughout their careers. In many cases they find it difficult to finance themselves through four years of college, but almost invariably the extra sacrifice brings them commensurate rewards.

It is generally agreed that there is a limit to the advantages of large college enrollments. But that can not be said of high schools. A four-year training in high school is a heritage that should be denied to no normal child. If the committee could reach every young person who ought to be in high school and is not, it would render an invaluable service aside from ameliorating the unemployment situation.

Production has become easy in the modern world. There is no reason why children should be forced into routine toil when the economic machinery of the country is producing more than the people can buy. If the depression brings about a changed attitude with regard to child labor its influence upon the Nation will not be wholly bad. Certainly, there is no more appropriate time to make a drive for the elimination of children from the industrial system than the present. From both the economic and moral viewpoints there is no more important adjustment that could be made to meet the existing emergency.

GRASSHOPPER INVASIONS.

The unfortunate areas of the Northwest that are visited this year with a scourge of grasshoppers are entitled to all the active help in fighting the pests that the States and the Federal Government can render. This calamity is as much beyond the control of the residents of the afflicted regions as a flood or an earthquake. The losses suffered are sudden and irreparable at this time of year.

There appear to be all kinds of grasshopper except a good kind. The variety that is devastating crops in the Northwest is known as the short-winged locust. It can not fly the great distances that are covered by the long-winged travelers which invaded Kansas and other Midwest States more than 50 years ago. Its origin has never been definitely determined, though it evidently came from the distant mountains of Colorado, or even from the Canadian Rockies.

The short-winged hoppers are of more local origin, though when their wings are fully developed they can cover 40 miles in a day. The damage they have caused this year is not so complete, nor does the invasion cover nearly so much territory as the famous flights of the migratory grasshoppers during the last century. They first appeared in 1874, the worst plague having occurred in the centennial year of 1876. At that time great portions of Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas were invaded. There followed six more flights in successive years, diminishing in seriousness each year. At times the grasshoppers came from the South and at other times from the North, gradually growing less in numbers until it is believed this variety became extinct.

Canada suffers from occasional raids from grasshoppers and has spent millions in combating them. North Dakota had a serious invasion in 1919, when over $600,000 was spent in control work, utilizing more than 500,000 pounds of arsenic. It was estimated that crops worth $12,000,000 were saved.

The study of grasshoppers and their activities has become almost an exact science. Each brood of the cicadas is definitely located and referred to by number. The time of their next appearance and areas to be affected are carefully recorded.

MILITIA VS. ECONOMIC LAW.

Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma, has set out to regulate the law of supply and demand with martial law. He is shutting down Oklahoma's oil wells and says he will keep them closed until the price offered for oil by the buying companies is increased to $1 a barrel. The price is now 50 cents. Undismayed by the failures of price stabilization schemes for many commodities, even when undertaken on a national scale and by the Government, "Alfalfa Bill" tries to boost oil 100 per cent by controlling output in one State.

Of course, he will find out that it can't be done, that is if the courts give him time to demonstrate the futility of his scheme. It is more likely that his quixotic attempt will be declared an unconstitutional use of the military forces of the State. The governor has defied the courts to stop him and he doubtless would resist an injunction, but an unfavorable decision from a United States court would bring his rampage to a sudden halt.

By the governor's orders all the big wells in the Oklahoma City fields have been shut down and he is moving for similar action in the Seminole district. Oklahoma's great production will soon be cut in half at a time when, through voluntary reduction and proration, the daily output was less than the normal demand. Oklahoma is surrounded by other oil producing States. As they have not joined in the drastic curtailment, Oklahoma's action will bring them higher prices through increased demand from the companies that can no longer be supplied from Oklahoma wells.

Gov. Murray's impulsive action is futile and absurd. It can result only in dislocating industry, throwing thousands out of work and interfering with the orderly control of oil production just at a time when prospects were best for reaching amicable agreements and securing effective State legislation to handle recalcitrant districts. Gov. Bill has deliberately thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery of the oil industry.

"WINE BRICKS."

The raid conducted by Federal prohibition agents against a New York shop selling grape concentrates revives the smoldering controversy over the sale of fruit juices that may be converted into wine. In view of the attitude taken by the Prohibition Bureau in Washington, this sudden move on the part of New York authorities is surprising. It has been understood that the "wine brick" industry does not run counter to the Volstead act. In fact, the Government, through the Farm Board, has extended financial aid to the grape growers to the extent of $19,000,000. Can it be that New York has all of its real bootleggers behind the bars, and that prohibition agents have to turn their attention to the vendors of fruit juices to keep busy?

The legal foundation on which these agents built their case seems to be very flimsy. Compounds "intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor" can not be legally sold under the Volstead act. The New York authorities hope to prove that the concentrated juices which they confiscated were designed to violate the law. But they run against the fact that "wine bricks" are sold with elaborate instructions on how to prevent the mixture from acquiring an alcoholic content.

Section 29 of the prohibition act specifically provides for the manufacture of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices for home use. Possession of liquor in the home is also legal, if the liquor was lawfully acquired. Fruit juice is not intoxicating when purchased. It may not be intoxicating when used in the home. It is difficult to see how the prohibition laws can be stretched to cover the so-called "wine brick" unless it can actually be proved that the product is sold with intention of violating the law. Such proof is so difficult to obtain that a campaign against fruit juice vendors would probably be a complete failure.

Prohibition agents have a big job on their hands trying to stop the flow of liquor that is unquestionably illicit. Why should they meddle with fruit juice vendors? When New York has hundreds of speakeasies open and conducts an enormous wholesale trade in bootleg liquor a raid upon a fruit juice shop takes on the appearance of a cheap publicity stunt.

A ban against the sale and use of fruit juices would be carrying the prohibition experiment to dangerous extremes. With the same line of reasoning the sale of sugar, corn, barley and dozens of other commodities that can be used in the manufacture of intoxicants might be prohibited. Pressure from the Antisaloon League has brought some astonishing measures from Congress, but it is doubtful if even the drys would be willing to stand behind such unreasonable legislation.

MEXICO'S EXPERIMENT.

Assistance from the Bank of Mexico, a government institution, for the Banco Nacional de Mexico appears definitely to have saved this oldest of Mexico City's financial establishments from the fate of the Credito Espanol de Mexico, which was obliged to close its doors following the recent sudden decree that practically abolished the gold standard in Mexico by making silver pesos the only legal tender. The financial chaos that has followed this arbitrary and confiscatory action has precipitated an unsettled state of affairs that has adversely affected individuals, business houses and banks.

The situation is so unsatisfactory that the foreign banks, represented in the Mexican capital by branches, are considering the possibility of withdrawal from the Mexican field entirely. Following the silver decree the exchange value of the Mexican peso dropped 60 per cent. Later quotations show an improvement, but this result is to be credited not so much to any sudden return of confidence as to the scarcity of money with which to do business. The overnight reduction of the large amount of gold in circulation to the status of merchandise and the heavy withdrawals of silver from the banks have greatly restricted the supply of circulating medium and the government's decision to refrain from further silver coinage at present precludes hope of relief in that direction.

The only American bank conducting a branch in Mexico City is the National City Bank of New York, although other New York banks have agencies there. Other principal foreign banks having Mexican branches are the Bank of Montreal, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the Anglo-South American Bank and the Banco Germanico de la America del Sud. No concerted action has been taken as yet by these institutions with regard to retirement from Mexico, but New York bankers predict that such a course will be the inevitable result of the present situation, in which it is impossible to conduct ordinary banking.

Under the new decree depositors who had accounts in gold are entitled to receive only 30 per cent of their funds in gold, the bank being permitted to pay the balance in depreciated silver pesos. The banks also must accept silver pesos for full settlement of notes, mortgages or other evidences of indebtedness, even though the contractual terms stipulated payment in Mexican gold. It is apparent that the new conditions are highly unsatisfactory all around. The loss to those who are now forced to accept silver for gold deposits, or in payment of gold contracts, has varied between 25 and 50 per cent during the ten days that the silver decree has been in force.

One of the first results of making gold a commodity in Mexico was the shipment of millions of dollars in gold coin and bullion to the United States. The immediate uncertainty and the multitude of disputes over settlements caused a feeling that the revolutionary decree might be withdrawn, but bankers who have approached the authorities find Gen. Calles and the government determined to retain the new monetary law. Under the circumstances it seems probable that most of the foreign banking houses will withdraw their Mexico connections as soon as such procedure can be arranged.

All that remains to make the controversy over "wine bricks" complete is to have Senator Brookhart reveal the name of some host who has offered him a sip of fermented grape juice.

Oklahoma is trying to keep its people down on the farm with radio programs. That's what drives city folks to the farm.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN

From the Boston Transcript.

That alleged failure of the world in its twentieth-century output of geniuses is to be subjected to a test next fall by the newly organized "Aristogenic Association," which has planned to select each year for its "biological hall of fame" the greatest ten living men of America. The candidates chosen will be studied from the point of view of their ancestry, their anthropological characteristics and their life history; physical measurements are to be taken, with picture records of each man's anatomy and physiognomy, along with handwriting and finger impressions, the voice also going into the record. Each participant, moreover, will be asked to deliver a short address as "his message to the men of the world of today or his message to the men of a century hence." And the total outcome of the investigation, in addition to being preserved "for such use as the scientist of the future may see fit to make of it," is to be "delivered to the world by thousands of motion-picture houses through the United States, Europe and elsewhere during the latter part of 1931 under the auspices of the Aristogenic Association."

Concerning human greatness all sorts of definitions have been given, the commonest being that which sums it up in terms of "achievement." The association's criterion is that of "greatness of service to the human race." Yet if the psychological background is to be taken account of in the forthcoming examinations there will be wide scope for peculiarities that can not be called useful either for the possessor of them or for society. Lombroso, it will be remembered, daringly claimed that "the signs of degeneration are found more frequently in men of genius than even in the insane." Richelieu, he asserted, was subject to epileptic fits, Cavour twice attempted to kill himself, while other great men suffered from fits of vertigo, bad delusions, or sometimes ended their lives in suicide. Both Napoleon and his conqueror, the Duke of Wellington, had an inordinate fear of cats, Caesar hated roosters intensely, Voltaire was stricken with fright whenever he heard a rook caw, and Dr. Samuel Johnson "touched" all the posts he passed, and counted them; so Winston Spencer Churchill and Arthur Balfour are credited with the practice of "knocking on wood to ward off misfortune."

Meanwhile Dr. D. J. McCarthy, the University of Pennsylvania's noted neurologist, holds that "it is useless to look for truly great genius behind a weak body, a small head, a neurotic condition," at the same time admitting that eccentricities may go with greatness, and defining true genius as consisting in the discovery, recognition and assaying of vast numbers of facts, the sifting of them from speculation, and the fusing of the whole into "a correct conclusion of far-reaching importance." And the same expert, naming John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford as cases of "accidental genius," makes it more than probable that the Aristogenic Association will find many other Americans, with qualifications not at all "accidental," for the "biological hall of fame." How many notables are likely to respond remains to be seen; how many of those selected will consent to make speeches for broadcasting purposes is just as problematical. Yet there is a hopeful outlook for the new enterprise—the stimulus it is intended to give college and universities toward the encouragement of merit and of an advance in that development of leadership upon which, as the association believes, "the fate of the human race largely depends."

Gov. Murray's revolutionary methods of handling the oil situation with soldiers will be confusing to Latin-American insurgents. Why doesn't he let the students handle it?

The cotton senators are protesting sales to Germany from the Farm Board's stabilization bales. Are the wheat senators too hoarse to speak up?

"Mexican bank run broken." The recent excommunication of gold also caused a fracture in the value of the silver peso.

If Congress finds a way to relieve Porto Rico from the application of the Volstead act, which State will be first to demand a similar favor?

Don't let Alfalfa Bill's militia stop with oil. There's overproduction, also, remember, in wheat, cotton and grasshoppers.

An investigator for the World League Against Alcoholism decides that the scarcity of automobiles in France is due to the use of liquor in that country. It's different here, where liquor certainly would be scarce if it were not for the automobiles.

Senator McKellar might also include in his arguments to substantiate his assertion that Germany is as well off as the United States that German banks are paying 9 per cent interest on deposits.

Mexico has reduced gold to the status of merchandise and decreed silver dollars the only legal tender, but her finance minister in less than three columns explains that Mexico is still on a gold basis—theoretically.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FAMILY BRIDGE.

Three years ago she trumped my ace,
But, oh, so lovely was her face,
So fair she seemed to be,
I never said a word, but smiled
To such a blunder reconciled.
Just sweethearts then were we.

Later I well recall I made
A discard of a larger spade;
A diamond she returned!
Since she had named our wedding day
I did not criticize her play,
Though inwardly I burned.

Last night she did a foolish thing:
Three times she finderled a king.
"No brains behind the brow?"
I think it was I said, and she Came right back with a crack at me:
"Yes, we are married now."

When Arab Chiefs Boast of Their Raids, Every Boy in the Tribe Yearns to Be a Good Thief

By ROBERT QUILLEN

PRESS agents of the motion picture industry are now distributing propaganda to discredit the popular belief that youthful criminals are inspired by criminal heroes of the screen.

They argue quite plausibly that the guilt of motion pictures can't be established without evidence, and assert that no evidence exists.

No evidence, however, is required to establish an obvious truth.

All experience has shown that example is more effective than precept.

All experience has shown that youth mimics the example it considers admirable.

And all experience has shown that pictures are more impressive than printed words.

Every man who was privileged to read adventure stories in his youth will testify that the heroes of fiction filled him with ambition to follow their example.

When fiction heroes were gay and bloody pirates, youth ran away from home and went to sea; when the heroes were two-gun horsemen who shot from the hip, youth dreamed of going West to ride herd and be bad.

The heroes of boyhood in the 90's were quick on the draw, and the boy who didn't have a robbers' cave and dream of outlawry simply wasn't a regular boy.

Few of them "went bad," for the land of adventure was far away and the local environment offered no encouragement to desperadoes.

But fiction heroes at least shaped every normal boy's day dreams, and every man who can remember his boyhood will so testify.

If that is true, and if pictures are more impressive than printed words, who can be so simple as to doubt that the criminal of the movies shapes the day dreams of some modern boys?

If he doesn't, boy nature has changed.

The truth is that boys are natural rebels and natural adventurers, and the life that appeals to their restless spirits is one that opposes established authority.

If motion pictures or newspaper stories or books of adventure make the modern criminal seem admirable, their effect on improperly trained boys requires no other evidence than that afforded by your own common sense.

Motion pictures are the dominant influence in American life.

A Garbo hair bob is copied from Maine to Texas.

Movie heroines smoke and smoking becomes respectable; movie stars show their figures and nakedness no longer is immodest; movie characters serve cocktails and law-breaking becomes a fad; the movies make policemen ridiculous and the public hoots at all authority; the movies make sex adventure respectable and the land makes a joke of chastity.

Are boys the only members of society who escape the influence of thrilling example?

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Coolidge Economy.

Chicago Tribune.

When Calvin Coolidge was President he seemed at times a trifle odd with a wizened philosophy of economy. He was at high tide of the new era and there never was to be an ebb. Nevertheless, the Vermonter said that economy in Government was the requisite of its safety. He said it every time he saw an opportunity and that was three or four times a week. This was regarded as atavistic. A New Englander with billions of Government funds surging about him could not shake off the principles of the old order. He probably would be found making paper squibs to save the White House matches.

Mr. Coolidge now does not seem so odd. He has more the appearance of one of the world's most thoughtful statesmen. When prodigality was being advanced as the highest economic law of politics and when the country's income seemed to justify any extravaganza of expenditure he had his finger pointed at the danger spot. He was the only man in Government here or in other countries, with the exception of France, who kept his head and was thinking straight.

A Third Term for Cal?

Minneapolis Journal.

The country has it on the word of a former White House physician, vacationing at Lake Minnetonka, that Calvin Coolidge is willing to be a candidate for President next year, provided there is any overwhelming demand that he run. The physician goes to some lengths of casuistry to explain the motives that inspired the famous "I do not choose to run" statement of 1927.

No such labored explanation is necessary. The always shrewd New Englander, when he made his statement, left the door wide open for his candidacy at any time subsequent to 1932.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sportsman Calls Attention to Deplorable Conditions in Duck Country, Advising Hunters Not to Go Gunning This Season.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Representatives of the Bureau of Biological Survey who recently returned from an expedition in the northern areas of the United States and duck-breeding areas of Canada report that conditions for breeding are very unfavorable, as there has been a shortage of rainfall for the last ten years. During the last three years the persistent drought has caused the prairie sloughs and lakes of the region to disappear. In the delta regions of the Peace and Athabaska rivers there was a noticeable shortage of young ducks. After touring several thousand miles of territory that normally produces many million mallards, redheads, canvasbacks, pintails, teals and bluebills, only a few dozen small broods of young ducks were seen.

The largest breeding grounds for ducks are those of southwestern Manitoba, southern Saskatchewan as far north as Saskatoon, and Alberta westward to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains and northward to the vicinity of Edmonton. In this locality it was reported that there was almost complete absence of water during the breeding season. Not all the ducks that enter the United States when migrating to the South are bred in this locality, but a large majority of the migrants remember this part of the country as their birthplace.

Both the Canadian and United States governments are deeply concerned over these disastrous conditions which threaten the wild fowl. Means will have to be devised to save a sufficient number of breeders for next season. Definite plans will not be adopted until further information is received from the breeding grounds. Recently Federal regulations governing the shooting of ducks and geese were amended to reduce the open season throughout the United States this fall and winter by two weeks, but in order to keep the wild fowl from perishing at too great a rate, still further restrictions may have to be put into effect. The true sportsman will gladly refrain from shooting this season so that he may not be deprived of that sport in the future. A. W. K.

Failure of Communism and Prohibition Is Predicted Because, Writer Says, They Run Counter to Human Nature.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The leaven of socialism and communism is working in all nations today. The working classes of the world have become emboldened because Russia has set up a communist government. If the present government of Russia should prove a success, no doubt other communist governments would be established. When the present government of Russia fails—for fail it will—the communist movement will collapse everywhere.

Two nations—the United States and Russia—are trying experiments unique in history. The United States is trying prohibition. It has failed, and will fail. Russia's experiment will also fail. Both these experiments will fail because they go counter to fundamental truth. We can comfort ourselves with the thought that other nations will not try either socialism or prohibition until these experiments have been completed.

The fundamental principle of socialism—the equality of men—is false. Men are of different types. Different men have different needs. Men cannot be molded into the same type because nature herself makes no two things alike. Men are equal only in the sense that each man is entitled to justice—equal justice for one and all. When all men receive this equal justice, socialism will have no reason for existing. Inequalities in the apportionment of justice create socialists. No one can justly find fault with a man who amasses riches honestly and disburses riches for the good of mankind. No one can find fault with a good and just master except those malevolent persons who cannot bear to see others richer or better off than themselves.

Russia does not regard all men as equal, for she execrates the well-born and well-educated classes and hates every aristocracy except the aristocracy of manual labor. The present government of Russia will fail.

Washington Is Accused of Neglecting Its Trees; Visitor Suggests That Unemployed Be Set to Work Watering Them.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A lesson might be taken from our brown brothers in far-away Philippines. Do they let their trees die in the dry season? Not a bit of it! The trees in Manila are all bright and green, though the monsoon blows a drying wind. Night shifts of men are out all night watering, and it is no waving of a small garden hose with a small sprinkler—it is the fire hose, used without a nozzle. It is pulled along the ground, and pours out a large quantity of water for every tree and every bush. All the trees have small trenches around them.

What have we here? Nothing to brag about—though we hear a lot about "Our Beautiful City!" We have streets with dying trees. Contemplate the sad sight of Massachusetts avenue and Seventeenth street.

A burning shame—that's what it is.

What do we do? We contemplate a cloud in the sky. We say: "Well, we will get a big storm tonight," and we hasten home to close the open windows; and then we get the sun, and the stars following. We sit and wait for that thunderstorm, and the trees wait, and while we eat three meals a day, consume popsicles and such, the trees die.

We hear about all the unemployed. Why not set them to work with pickaxes, to loosen the soil round the trees, and put them to watering?

A VISITOR.

RETURNS CERTIFIED BY FAIRFAX BOARD

22 of 3,614 Ballots Void; Writing In of Names Is Confusing.

The Fairfax County Board of Election Canvassers met yesterday in the county clerk's office to certify the returns of the Tuesday Democratic primary. Members of the board are A. J. Kidwell, of Centreville District, chairman; Samuel H. Styles, of Falls Church District; J. C. Hunter, of Providence District, and M. D. McLean, of Mount Vernon District.

The board took until nightfall to check one of the largest primary election returns in the history of Fairfax County. A total of 3,614 official ballots was cast and 22 were found to be void. A question was raised when it was discovered that a number of candidates' names was printed on the ballots when they had no opposition. The State law provides that when candidates have no opposition they shall be declared nominees of the party and their names should not be on the ballots. The error was made by the county electoral board when they ordered the ballots printed. In Falls Church District there were three vacancies for justice of the peace, and only John B. Dowden, of Baileys Cross Roads, filed for nomination.

At its meeting several months ago the county Democratic committee passed a regulation which read that only aspirants who qualified and paid the necessary fee 60 days prior to the election date would be printed on the ballot and that names written in by voters would not be counted by primary election judges. The State law gives the local committees power to govern the county primaries and make regulations. Names can be written on the ballot during a general election.

Names Written In.

In Falls Church District, in addition to John B. Dowden, whose name was officially on the ballot, the voters wrote the name of B. G. Durrer on 28 ballots for justice of the peace. J. T. Morlon received 2 votes and Paul Hermann 2 votes for the same office. As there were only 3 vacancies the canvassers were in a quandary as to the proper procedure. It was finally decided to write the names of the two candidates who received 2 votes each on pieces of paper and let another judge select the winner, as in the general election in case of a tie. The winner was J. T. Morlon, whose name can not be found on the county records, but it was believed to have been meant for J. T. Moling, of Falls Church, who failed to qualify in time to have his name printed on the ballot. Moling is at present the justice of the peace in Falls Church.

Official returns by districts announced last night follows:

Centreville District—State Senate, John W. Rust, 289 votes and Charles T. Jesse, 101; House of Delegates, Edmund H. Allen, 145, John C. Mackall, 163, Herbert Williams, 71; Commissioner of Revenue, James U. Kincheloe, 307, A. Page Wrenn, 83; Commonwealth's Attorney, Wilson M. Farr, incumbent 211, Harold F. Hanes, 183; Sheriff, E. P. Kirby, incumbent, 226, Harvey M. Cross, 162; County Treasurer, Dr. F. W. Huddleson, incumbent, 156, C. C. Carr, 208, and Alton Money, 22; Supervisor, D. W. Buckley, 229, and Champ F. Hutchison, 165.

Dranesville District—State Senator, Rust, 608, Jesse, 131; House of Delegates, Allan, 293, Mackall, 283, Williams, 141; Commissioner of Revenue, Kincheloe, 415, Wrenn, 333; Commonwealth's Attorney, Farr, 271, Hanes, 472; Sheriff, Kirby, 505, Cross, 236; Treasurer, Huddleson, 326, Carr, 243, Money, 173; Supervisor, W. H. Ellmore, 380, and Mark Turner, incumbent, 362.

Falls Church Vote.

Falls Church District—State Senate, Rust, 379; Jesse, 76. House of Delegates, Allan, 146; Mackall, 192; Williams, 114. Commissioner of revenue, Kinchloe, 382; Wrenn, 65. Commonwealth's attorney, Farr, 293; Hanes, 160. Sheriff, Kirby, 332; Cross, 119. Treasurer, Huddleson, 255; Carr, 117; Money, 76. Supervisor, C. H. Powell, 181; J. W. Kerns, 161; Vernon M. Lynch, 90.

Lee District—State Senate, Rust, 221; Jesse, 56. House of Delegates, Allen, 168; Mackall, 69; Williams, 29. Commissioner of revenue, Kinchloe, 242; Wrenn, 32. Commonwealth's attorney, Farr, 186; Hanes, 88. Sheriff, Kirby, 203; Cross, 71. Treasurer, Huddleson, 103; Carr, 133; Money, 35. Supervisor, Kyle Davis, 259.

Mount Vernon District—State Senate, Rust, 330; Jesse, 131. House of Delegates, Allen, 381; Mackall, 31; Williams, 48. Commissioner of revenue, Kinchloe, 352; Wrenn, 105. Commonwealth's attorney, Farr, 701; Hanes, 490. Sheriff, Kirby, 829; Cross, 384. Treasurer, Huddleson, 496; Carr, 349; Money, 350. Supervisor, J. Wallace Carper, 488; Harry V. Leigh, incumbent, 405; James Dyer, 299.

Of the total vote cast in the county for State Senate, Rust received 2,773 and Jesse, 752; for House of Delegates, Allen, 1,416; Mackall, 1,360, and Williams, 704; commissioner of revenue, Kincheloe, 2,631, and Wrenn, 883; for Commonwealth's attorney, Farr, 1,974, and Hanes, 1,547; for sheriff, Kirby, 2,433, and Cross, 1,099; for treasurer, Dr. Huddleson, 1,575; Carr, 1,238, and Money, 686.

Montgomery Opens Bids On Road Resurfacing

Bids for the resurfacing of Leland street from Connecticut avenue in Chevy Chase west to Oak lane were opened yesterday in the office of Montgomery County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of the western suburban district. Four bids were submitted.

The low bid was offered by F. Irwin Ray, $4,730. Other bidders were: Raymond H. Burrows, $5,626; R. P. Smith, $5,858, and Carson-Gruver Co., $5,894. The contract probably will be awarded at the Tuesday meeting of the board of county commissioners. Leland street is to be resurfaced and widened to 27 feet. The job will take about fourteen working days.

Man Injured in Motor Accident.

Charles Smith, 18, of Camp Springs, Md., was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday for a possible fracture of the pelvis received in a motor accident on the Leonardtown pike. His condition early today was held favorable.

Montgomery County Plans Sale of $375,000 in Bonds

Clerk of Commissioners Is Authorized to Prepare Specifications and Advertisements for Four Issues; Boyd Man Fills Police Job.

Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday authorized sale of county bonds totaling $375,000. Berry E. Clark, clerk to the commissioners, was authorized to take necessary steps to float the four issues, such as advertisements and preparation of specifications.

The bond issues are as follows: Landscape work for the new courthouse and furniture for the new courthouse and new county building at Silver Spring $175,000; refunding issue for county buildings at Bethesda and Silver Spring, $30,000; roads already built in suburban districts, cost of which was paid one-half by the county and one-half by front foot assessments, $100,000; refunding issue for the police department, $70,000.

Gassaway Linthicum, 26 years old, of Boyd, Md., was appointed a member of the Montgomery County Police to fill vacancy created by death Wednesday of Policeman Robert S. Darby.

Appointment will become effective immediately. Mr. Linthicum is from the Clarksburg District, his home being about three miles from that town. He is at home recovering from an operation to remove tonsils which was performed Monday. He has been employed in a garage in Rockville.

Funeral service for Policeman Darby will be this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Colonial funeral home in Rockville.

CITY TO OPEN DRIVE TO COLLECT TAXES

Delinquencies Makes Drastic Steps Necessary in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

City Collector Purvis Taylor has announced that steps will be taken immediately to collect delinquent taxes on real estate. Under the existing city ordinance taxes on real estate may be paid in two installments. Mr. Taylor states he is now faced with the necessity of adding a penalty of 4 per cent to all unpaid taxes, with an additional penalty for each month's further delinquency.

The collection of taxes has been unusually slow this year and Mr. Taylor states that it will be necessary to take drastic steps in order to meet outstanding obligations of the city.

F. W. Tilghman, 23 years old, of 1114 Eleventh street northwest, Washington, and Calvin Pannell, 24, of 221 Lee Highway, Cherrydale, were each sentenced to six months on the State Road Force and fined $250 and costs by Police Justice William S. Snow in police court yesterday morning after they pleaded guilty to transporting liquor while armed.

The two men were arrested Wednesday night by Policeman Hawes in an alley in the 400 block north Henry street, with 12 gallons of liquor and a loaded shotgun in their automobile. Pannell, who was the driver of the car, broke away from Hawes and was caught after a three-block chase, in which Hawes was assisted by Policeman John Stewart.

W. E. Brayden, 46 years old, living at 801 south Washington street, was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $5 and costs in police court yesterday for his third violation of the prohibition law. In a raid on Brayden's home Wednesday Sergt. Lawrence Padgett and Policemen William Bayliss and Allie Jones found 21 bottles of beer on ice and 30 gallons of beer in kegs.

The work of painting the exterior of six of the public school buildings has been completed, while that on the Alexandria High School and the Jefferson School will be finished next week. The painting on the interior of the Lee School will be started the first of the coming week.

The Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, this city, was named moderator of the Potomac Baptist Association at the seventy-fifth annual session held in Purcellville, Va.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and S. Cooper Dawson, of Seminary Hill, have been appointed to represent Alexandria by R. A. Rouse, general chairman, at the celebration to be held on September 17 to mark the completion of the paving of the United States Highway No. 1.

The Friendship Veterans Fire Association, at its annual meeting, elected W. Clifton Cunningham president for the coming year. Other officers chosen are J. S. Hammersley, vice president; W. Milton Glasgow, financial secretary; R. A. Roseberry, recording secretary, and Claude W. Fletcher, treasurer. Samuel B. DeVaughan was elected trustee to serve for three years.

Arlington Health Head Approves Airport Pool

Returning to his office after his annual vacation, Dr. P. M. Chichester, Arlington County health officer, yesterday immediately made an official inspection of the entire plant of the Airport pool. He said the pool is being operated in accordance with health regulations.

"To insure the safety of persons who may use the pool I shall keep in close touch with its operation and shall at all times see to it that health requirements are complied with in every detail," Dr. Chichester said.

GRADING ON BRIDGE APPROACH STARTED

Washington Street Entrance to Arlington Memorial Span Under Way.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Actual grading and filling of deep cuts in the right-of-way for the Washington street approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge started yesterday, according to an announcement made by Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, in whose district the road is located.

As far as the rights-of-way are concerned, Mr. Hedrick stated that all have been obtained save the straightening out of a few curves in the roadway.

To avoid a deep cut and a dangerous grade, Mr. Hedrick stated that the plans now provide for the construction of an over-pass over the Military road. The building of the over-pass will be of far less expense than the deep cut and in addition, will do away with the deep grade that would have to result in meeting the crossing of the Military road, Mr. Hedrick stated.

The plans now provide for the grading of the roadway this year and completing it with a hard surface treatment early next year, in time for the opening of the bridge.

This road, when completed, will provide a direct approach for all sections of Arlington County north of Wilson Boulevard, as far as Falls Church. Residents of Lyon Park, Ashton Heights and Arlington will reach the road by way of Pershing drive, connecting with it at its intersection with the Military road in the direction of Roslyn. The road will intersect with what is known as the Oil Tank road about 300 feet off the southern wall of the Arlington National cemetery, thence direct to the bridge.

C. W. Clever, of Lyon Village, the Republican nominee for county commissioner of revenue, filed his intentions to become a candidate with the county clerk yesterday.

Clever will oppose Harry K. Green, incumbent, who seeks reelection.

An official canvass of the vote at the Democratic primary held on Tuesday, made yesterday in the office of County Clerk William H. Duncan by the commissioners of election, Mrs. Grace A. Donaldson, Mrs. Mary M. McIntosh and Henry Park, shows that the total vote in the county was 2,400, of which John W. Rrust, of Fairfax County, received 817 and Charles T. Jesse, of Arlington County, received 1,583.

James Anderson, colored, charged with mayhem in an alleged assault on Vincent Corbett with a dangerous weapon, was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. He bond was fixed at $1,000.

The August meeting of the auxiliary to the Clarendon Fire Department will be held Tuesday evening at the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

NEW SCHOOL ACTION DELAYED IN FAIRFAX

County Board Considers Bids Too High; Will Meet Again Tuesday.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 345, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Fairfax County School Board, at its regular meeting yesterday, postponed action on bids for construction of the new school building at Herndon and colored school buildings at Floris and Cub Run.

Raymond V. Long, State school architect, was unable to attend the meeting but agreed to meet with the board next Tuesday morning to consider the bids. The board was of the opinion that bids submitted were excessive in comparison with costs of construction of similar school buildings in other sections of the State.

Revised plans for construction of a four-room and auditorium school building at Franconia were received yesterday and Division Superintendent Wilbert T. Woodson, of Fairfax, was authorized to advertise for bids for its construction returnable to the board on August 27.

Trustee John T. Haislip, of Mount Vernon District, reported he had received a private bid for the abandoned school building at Springfield. The board voted to accept the private bid for $1,050, subject to approval of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. This building was sold two months ago at public auction for $900 but the amount was rejected as being inadequate.

Bid of Mrs. P. A. Gillingham for the old Franconia School Building was also accepted, subject to condition that the old building could be used for school purposes until the new school is completed, the time not to exceed one year. Contract for drilling a deep well on the site of the proposed Franconia School was awarded to F. N. Hagman, of Vienna, work to start immediately.

Miss Florence Fray was appointed assistant supervisor of rural education in the white schools of the county in accordance with recommendation to the board by Divisional Supt. Woodson, Supervisor Mrs. Elsie A. Davis and State Supervisor E. E. Worrell, of Richmond. According to an agreement made last month between the Falls Church Town School Board and the county board Miss Fray will supervise the schools of Falls Church and vicinity, dividing the work with Mrs. Davis. The town will contribute $300 toward her salary, the county $300, and the balance will be paid by the State Board of Education.

Members of the board expressed themselves as favoring employment of an inspector for the new school building projects. This position will not be filled until buildings are under construction. The divisional superintendent was instructed to advertise for new bids on furnishing paint for school purposes in an effort to secure lower prices.

75 Motorists Held On Wrong Licenses

Maryland Cars Stopped While Driving Into Washington.

Montgomery County police yesterday arrested 75 Maryland autoists on charges of operating automobiles on license tags issued in other States while they were residents of Maryland. Most of the arrests were made in the Silver Spring neighborhood. This brings the total number arrested to more than 100 in the Silver Spring-Takoma Park area.

Those making the arrests were Guy L. Jones, Sergt. Roy Bodmer, Sergt. Roy Snyder, Corpl. George Windham, Corpl. Harry Merson and Privates Joseph Nolte, Charles Barnes, Jerry Hobbs, Laurence Dixon and Paul Watkins, who were detailed to the duty from the various precincts of the county.

The policemen stationed themselves at the entrances to Washington and halted all District cars approaching from Maryland. Those arrested were forced to deposit collateral of $12.50. Most of them had recently moved to Maryland from other States.

Horse Races Attractive to Capital Folk

Saratoga Next Week Lure to Many; Hot Springs on Calendar.

Washington's two popular Undersecretaries, the Undersecretary of State, Mr. William R. Castle, jr., and the Undersecretary of the Treasury, Mr. Ogden L. Mills, have turned to the King of Sports this month as a diversion from the heavy duties of their departments. Mr. Castle, with Mrs. Castle, is among the boxholders for the annual Bath County Horse Show at Hot Springs, Va., August 14-15, and Mr. Mills and Mrs. Mills went to Saratoga on Wednesday for the racing season.

The horse show at Hot Springs is beginning to assume increasing importance as the colonists plan entertainment for the two days of the event. Prominent exhibitors with stables in various Eastern centers will be represented by entries, according to Mr. Andrew Cameron, chairman of the committee on admissions.

Mrs. Castle has been spending some time at Hot Springs and with her usual interest in the track will probably attend the show with a group of friends. Maj. and Mrs. Raymond E. Lee will attend and have taken a box. Others planning to witness the event from boxes include Maj. and Mrs. William McKee Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Leavitt, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ilsley, all frequent Capital visitors.

The "song of Saratoga" is the lure of the month for society and many smart Capital society members have taken cottages there for the August racing. Mr. and Mrs. Mills, who have been on their yacht, the Avalon, have deserted the sea for the track and will have guests through most of the season at the Northern spa. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Leiter will be at Saratoga, going on from their summer place at Lake Forest, Ill. They may enter some of their horses.

From this part of the world Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt and Mrs. Robert R. Hitt have gone to the New York sports center and only on Wednesday Mr. R. S. Reynolds Hitt and his daughter, Mme. Andor de Hertelendy, formerly Miss Elizabeth Hitt, went on from New York. Others who will be "among those present" include Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, and, of course, the John Hay Whitneys, whose absence from a genuine racing event would be signal for surprised comment from everybody, as they generally follow the track during all the seasons. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will occupy their house at Saratoga, which they purchased a year ago.

Dance Honors Louise Brooks At Bar Harbor

Stotesburys Entertain for Granddaughter, Who Is Coming Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury entertained at a dinner dance last evening at Wingwood House, their summer home in Bar Harbor, Me., in honor of their debutante granddaughter, Miss Louise Brooks, daughter of Mrs. Lionel Atwill.

The guests included members of Miss Elizabeth Kent's wedding party. Miss Kent will be married to Mr. William Laurens Van Alen in Bar Harbor tomorrow, and the wedding will be one of the outstanding events of the summer season at the fashionable resort, as Mr. Van Alen is a member of one of New York's oldest families and Miss Kent one of the country's wealthiest heiresses.

Many from the Washington colony in Bar Harbor will attend the wedding, including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell Sweeney and their son, Mr. John Sweeney; Mrs. James F. Mitchell and her son and daughter, Mr. James F. Mitchell, jr., and Miss Eliza Mitchell, and Mr. Edward de Selding Melcher, of New York and Washington, who has been residing in the Capital for over a year and left recently for a brief visit in Bar Harbor.

Mr. Robert Hitt, Mr. Malcolm S. McConihe and Mr. Randolph Burke, all of Washington, will be among the ushers at the wedding.

Bound for Bermuda

MISS LOUISE TURNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Turner, of 3316 Woodley road, who has sailed for Bermuda with her mother and will return to Washington the last of month.

New Diplomat Secretary Here From Panama

Mr. Merrill Looked Upon as Another Eligible Bachelor.

With the assignment of Mr. George Robert Merrell, jr., as diplomatic secretary to the Department of State, the Capital will count another "eligible" in its list of interesting bachelors. Mr. Merrell arrived in town on Wednesday from Panama, where he had been serving as third secretary of the United States legation. With a pretty well defined record of service behind him Mr. Merrell, who has been with the foreign service for ten years, will enter upon his new duties armed with information gathered through observation from various posts on both sides of the Atlantic.

The job of diplomatic secretary, requiring both tact and understanding of the intent and purposes of other governments, embraces a wide scope and knowledge of current affairs. The post serves, in fact, as a sort of go-between for envoy and the Department of State—the one conveying a resume of diplomatic developments in his country, the other acting as "interpreter" for the department.

Mr. Merrill, who hails from St. Louis, is a Cornell University man, who served as a lieutenant in the Army for several years and was then appointed to the Department of State.

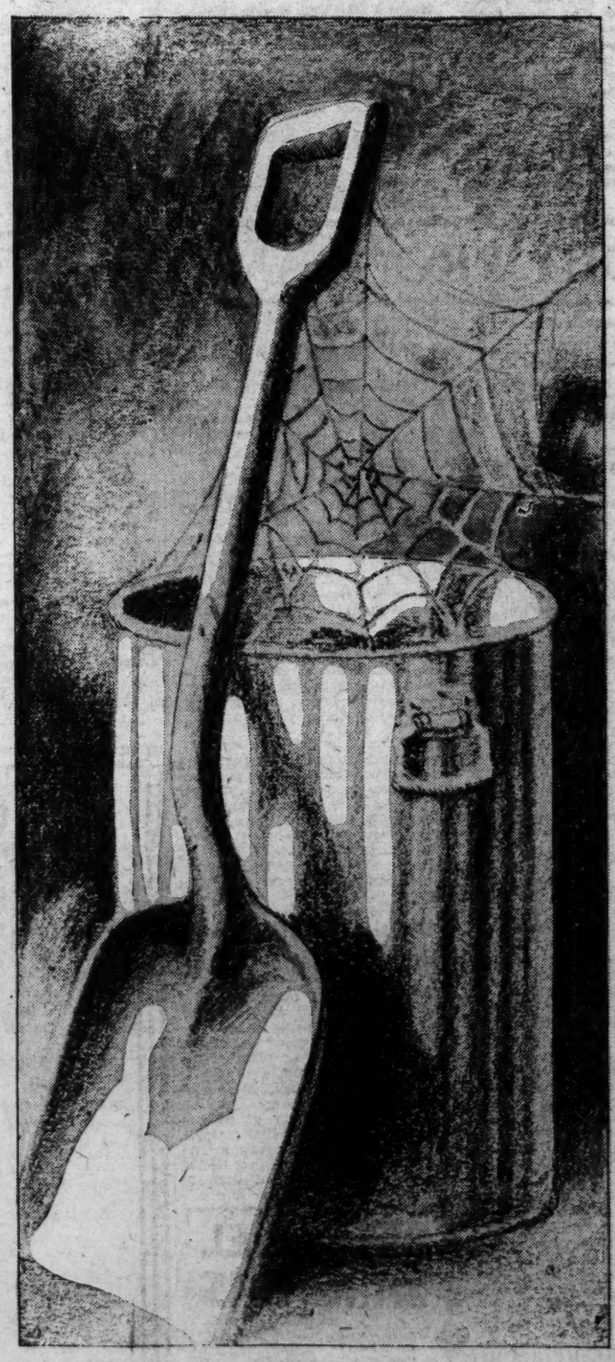
TEN CENTS A·DAY



. . . keeps the ash can away

It would be worth a good deal, wouldn't it, to have a half hour's extra sleep every morning next winter? — to have a warm house to dress in? — to have a cleaner, healthier home, always warm and cozy regardless of weather? — to be able to blissfully forget coal shoveling, ashes, fuel supplies?

How much would all that be worth to you — a dollar a day or so? You may have it for ten cents!

Automatic gas heating will give you all these comforts and many more, and the cost for the average home (6 or 7-room brick row) will be only about ten cents a day more than the old-fashioned work-and-worry method of furnace tending. Figure ten cents more for each day in the year against the added convenience of gas heat and you'll agree that it's not much.

But to get ALL the advantages of automatic heating be sure to specify gas. There are many so-called automatic systems, but only gas can give you the complete freedom from work, the cleanliness, the absolutely steady temperature, the lifetime service offer that is yours with gas.

Now is the time to get ready to really enjoy this coming winter. We can tell you in advance just what gas will cost in your home. Call your heating contractor or any gas company office for this free survey. Get set for a comfortable, easy winter — for ten cents a day.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

TWO WAYS TO MAKE IT!

Here's a cute idea, full of charm and youthfulness.

It's eyelet linen in aqua-blue shade, so entirely flattering.

The low placement of the circular skirt flounce, joined to the upper part of the dress in diagonal lines, is decidedly slenderizing.

Then again, if you want it strictly for sports, it could be made in pink cotton mesh and worn with a narrow pink leather belt.

As seen in the miniature view with the capelet, it's lovely in pastel washable crepe silk, chiffon prints, voile prints and printed crepe silk.

Style No. 829 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material with 2¾ yards of ruffling.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SHRUBS MAY BE STARTED AT THIS TIME.

OF course, when you are in a hurry it isn't practical to wait four years to propagate a shrub by layering, budding, grafting, by starting a cutting or from seeds. But where you have time to wait you will find the work of starting your own shrubs interesting and easy.

There are two kinds of cuttings, those made from hard wood and those made from soft wood. The hardwood cuttings may be rooted in sand in the winter in your cellar, but the softwood ones should be made in the summer. They are made from the new growth of the plant and are much like perennial cuttings as far as the growth is concerned. July and August are the months when we are told it is best to do this work, but experienced gardeners know that you can root shrubbery cuttings almost any time between May and October.

The easiest way to root a softwood cutting is to plant it in sand or soil and keep it covered with an empty glass jar while the roots are developing. Always use a sharp knife when making such a cutting. Choose wood close to the terminal end of the branch. You may include the end in the cutting if the wood seems to be perfectly healthy.

Make the cutting four or six inches long and cut the bottom just below a joint. Cuttings seem to root better when one or two leaves are left on the tip of the stalk. Where there are many leaves, remove some of the largest ones.

Never insert the end of the cutting into the soil or sand. First make a hole with a sharp-pointed stick or a lead pencil. Insert the cutting so that at least one inch is below the surface, then firm the soil or sand up against it. Before planting, the soil or sand must be moistened. It is necessary to use a glass covering to retain heat and moisture and prevent drafts. If you are starting the cutting in the open ground in your garden, choose a shady place. If you are starting it in a pot or box, keep the container under a tree. If you have to keep it in the sun, shade it with a burlap or lath shield.

When it is rooted, transplant the young plant to some shady place in your grounds. During the first winter keep it covered with the jar.

The third season it will be ready to be transplanted to some permanent location.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

LEO.

IF August 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:40 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:10 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:35 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Good and bad influences will operate side by side on this August 7, although neither one will cause much worry or excitement. Budding romances will be broken unless jealous emotions are not quickly restrained. A trying time for those with nerves.

The child born on this August 7 will be slow in its work, quick in its temper and require more sleep than other children. It will eventually outstrip the precocious geniuses, who burn themselves out in early adulthood. It will need prodding on, until its own ambitions are fully awakened.

If your birthdate falles on an August 7, you were born for leadership and not for the ranks in the procession of man. You can control others because of the magnificent control you have over self. Comradeship and understanding go hand in hand with your other major traits; you do not pose as a demigod; you are 100 per cent human. In small matters as well as large, you are known as one who "sees things through." You persevere with your ambitions; your kindly impulses do not peter out; and your hobbies and interests are not taken up and dropped.

Resentment is conspicuously lacking in your nature. You lose your temper and vow eternal vengeance when people wrong you, but your anger soon evaporates. It makes you miserable to be "on the outs" with anyone, and you are always ready to forgive and forget. You are materialistic enough and demand the creature comforts of life and to work for them. You set no store on wealth, except as a medium, and to do good with it. You are generous, when you can give others pleasure, even at the expense of personal sacrifice.

You have all the prerequisites essential to a harmonious life, in double harness, and the stars too have blessed your home life.

Successful people born August 7:

Robert B. Roosevelt, statesman and author.

Powell Clayton, soldier and statesman.

John F. Dryden, senator.

Charles W. Stoddard, author and poet.

Malvern W. Iles, metallurgist.

Billie Burke, actress.

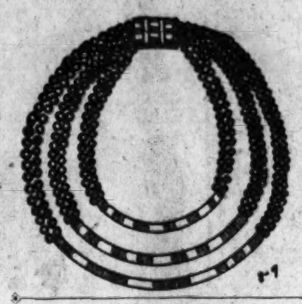
Dare Interprets the Mode

A tailored white crepe de chine lounging pyjama, with a black crepe jacket and trousers striped in black and gray. (Courtesy of David, Paris.)



New York, Aug. 6.

WEL-L-L-L, here it is again—that day we've set aside for our Busy Little Housewives and gay young mothers. And sister Dionne has sent us a letter with so many tricks to tell them that will save their precious time, their precious money and their precious loveliness, I hardly know where ta begin. She writes:

"Just as soon as our L'le Lovebug stands up on her hind legs and begins to walk, her clothing becomes our most serious problem. And when she reaches this age, we begin to consider panty dresses. And once considered and tried, we're sold, she and I, until her ladyship reaches the age of 6, and begins to rebel. And which, at her seventh birthday party, all her little guests bring gifts of silk underwear "just like mother's" we have to admit that we—I mean she—is getting older.

"What fun we have making these cuning two and three-year old dresses and panties. We chose the simplest patterns at first, just as we chose simple ones for our homemade housedresses at first. Then we stuck to pastel shades. One was a very small checked yellow gingham, trimmed with plain yellow. Another, in the same combination of checked gingham and plain material, but pink. And a third from the same pattern was plain pink with colored flowers appliqued on the wide hem. 'N' as we'd been uneconomical and bought too much of the yellow, we made a perky little sunbonnet of the leftovers—'n' all our hearts were broken when L'le Lovebug grew out of the yellow costume.

"And, finally, the reason for Wee Mamzelle's enthusiastic approval of panty frocks, was that she didn't have to wear slips or petticoats or other little panties with the panty frock—and no child is ever too small to love her coolness and comfort."

• • • •

No-o-o-o. You're wrong and I'm right. Not that I blame you for guessing the way you did—anyone might be fooled at the first glance. These are not beach pyjamas from David that I have sketched for you today, but lounging pyjamas. And I'm right in my surmise that tailored fashions, after their success on the sands, would enter the boudoir. These pyjamas are crepe de chine, the bodice white, the coat black with a white border, and the trousers striped in gray and black—the stripes being very narrow at the top, and wider 'n' wider as they descend. Aren't they an attractive change from furbelows?

• • • •

For variety, you investigate yourself the smartness of tailored things for intimate wear!

• • • •

And because gray and yellow is the very latest and smartest color combination, I've sketched you a necklace that might well be worn with this lounging pyjama. It's made of tiny yellow and green beads and yellow porcelain hollow tubes.

• • • •

It would make the loveliest gift—one that would cost a couple of hundred dollars if you bought it on the Rue de laPaix, let alone what the customs duty would be. For a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post you can find out exactly how to make a set with your own clever fingers, either for yourself or for a gift. And what I am talking about is a three-piece way to be lovely in bed and out of it for your morning coffee—in bed you wear two of the pieces, out of it you change one of them for—well, guess I'll be more explicit. The lace bolero stays put, but the darling georgette skirt is for sleeping, and for breakfast we have pyjamas, to wear with the bolero if your skirt is mussed. And, well, neither the skirt nor the pyjamas quite reach the bolero.

• • • •

Have you read Dare's weekly fashion letters in the Sunday Post? They're real interesting.

Au revoir.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

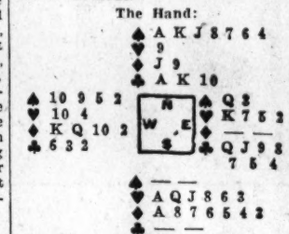
DISTRIBUTIONAL MONSTROSITIES.

HANDS that are void of two suits come in the type that might aptly be described as Distributional Monstrosities. The craze for goulashes prevalent in the early days of Contract has almost entirely died out. In few clubs nowadays are goulashes played, but the goulash, as such, taught us something about how to deal in bidding with hands apparently rich in distributional values, but which, when put to the test of play, prove sadly lacking in playing-tricks.

The rule to apply to deals of this type is to anticipate the unexpected. With goulash type of hands, the abnormal becomes the normal. Thus in bidding such hands players should take extra precaution in order to avert the disaster sure to follow when the assumption is made that the other three hands around the table will be entirely normal and that the only abnormal holding is that held by the player himself. With hands of the type held by South, below, most players are inclined to greatly shade their requirements for Opening with a Forcing bid of two, because they are afraid that otherwise a sure game will be passed out. Holding six hearts and seven diamonds, it is of course quite natural to wish for a second opportunity to bid, but such hands, in view of the dangers above alluded to, should be handled as though marked "Dynamite—Caution." An occasional game may be lost because all the other players pass, although this is extremely improbable, but on the other hand, hundreds of points will be saved which would be lost by more brutal methods.

The Hand:



The Bidding:

(Numbers after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♥(1)	Pass	2♠(2)	Pass
4♦(3)	Pass	3♠(4)	Pass
4♦(5)	Pass	4♠(6)	All Pass

1—Only with distribution 5-4 and 6-4 should one bid the longest suit first. With distribution 5-6 the higher ranking suit is preferred.

2—A Forcing bid, the object of which in this case is to find out from partner's response whether he holds any value in addition to his Opening bid and also whether by any chance he can support spades.

3—South now need not get unduly excited. After a Forcing two spade bid the bidding will automatically be kept open until a game is reached. Therefore, South responds with but three diamonds and thus economizes the bidding space.

4—North's rebid over South's suit after South's denial shows probably as much as a fairly good six-card suit.

5—South's rebid of the diamond suit denies any semblance of support even for North's six-card suit and inferentially shows at least a 6-5 distribution.

6—North's third rebid of spades in the face of South's persistent denials conveys a definite inference that his trump suit is very powerful and requires no support whatsoever from South. On the other hand he obviously prefers spades as the final bid.

In the play North, of course, can make five spades. South, despite his perfect two-suiter could not make game in either hearts or diamonds. Against a spade contract East's most probable Opening is the unbid club suit, but even should he open a heart, North will finesse the Knave, as he has nothing to lose even should the finesse fail.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Standard Table of Honor-Tricks is the best yardstick for measuring the value of the hand at no-trump bids. Cut this table out and memorize it.

The Culbertson Standard Table of Honor Tricks.

(Defensive Basis.)

Some honor combinations are obviously worth more than indicated in this Standard Table. The honor combinations printed in bold can be given their full value only when counting playing tricks for a rebid or raise. From the standpoint of defensive tricks, however, the possibility of a ruff on the third round of the suit must be proportionately discounted.

½ honor- trick	1 honor-trick
K x	A
K J alone	A J
Q J x	K Q
Q J 10	K x and Q x in different suits
Q x and J x in different suits	K x and K x
Q x and Q x	K J x
	K J 10
1-½ honor-tricks	2 honor-tricks
A Q	A K
A Q 10	A K J
A J 10
K Q 10
K Q J

When you have an uncounted honor in a suit that has yielded two honor-tricks you cannot combine this uncounted honor with a "plus" value in another suit.

Additional information disclosed during the bidding as to the more exact location of missing higher honors or the distribution (length) of suit modifies the estimate of honors in the table.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

They Have a System.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD:

There has been a lot of talk in your column lately about the chap that gave up his girl because he could not afford to entertain her "properly."

After his letter was printed there came a deluge of letters, mostly from girls, denouncing his attitude. Everyone had a different answer to the problem. The argument is still going round and round. Recently, "Coed" declared him a wash-out. Others have him listed as a coward, and as a self-pitied nit-wit.

This thing need not be made an insolvable problem. It can be figured out—and I think I know my own answer. One girl almost hit the nail on the head when she said she thought this boy lacked the necessary qualifications to do any entertaining himself, hence his reliance upon his money to purchase an evening's entertainment.

Now that girl had a good start toward the answer. A boy need not think he must spend a lot of money on a girl. A girl with any brains at all will never say that the best dates are the most expensive dates.

However, it depends entirely on two things. The boy and the girl. If the boy is blessed with originality, personality, humor, wit, and a lot of common sense, a girl will be interested in him, rather than in where they are going. Make a girl enjoy your company and you have the whole thing in a nutshell.

I take girls to dances, theaters, country clubs, but let me tell you right now that I have had the pleasure of hearing "thank you for such a wonderful evening" when I did nothing but grab a uke or a guitar, and perhaps a box of chocolates, and date up a girl for a quiet evening under the stars. Of course they enjoy it, so do I. It is great to discuss deep problems with intelligent girls in the great out-of-doors, with a smiling moon in the sky, and a few strains of music to punctuate each sentence.

I said it also depends on the girl. You can't expect an evening like this with some half-wit girl who thinks continually in terms of whoopee, night clubs and gin parties. If a girl wants a wild night, let a fellow who will, take her out.

But a real girl isn't hard on a poor man's pocketbook at all, and all these fellows who are afraid their income won't cover the entertaining for the girl friend, let them pick out a real girl who wants their friendship, not their money. The city is full of such girls, and I say God bless them.

YOUNG MAN FROM THE WEST.

Dear Frances McDonald:

I am one man who does not spend on a girl the money that should go in the bank. I offer a girl only very simple forms of entertainment, such as dances occasionally, or a show. I do not invite girls to dinner, as eating out is expensive and means nothing. Most of the food is cold and inferior to that served in one's own home, so why pay for it?

I bank half of my income and when I do see the girl I want I will be in a position to ask her to marry me without knowing in my heart that I am asking her to take a chance on the poorhouse.

These gay spenders hand me a laugh. Especially as I read what the fair ones thin' of them after all their spending. Any man is a fool to retard his own success spending money on any passing jane. And I am popular with the girls at that. I am a gentleman always, pay attention to the girl I am with, compliment her little perfections, and take an interest in her troubles. I have helped lots of girls out of annoying scrapes in business. Paid a $50 fine for one girl's kid brother—which was paid back in six months. But even if she had been unable to repay I would not consider stich a circumstance as money thrown away. I would not spend $50 on that girl or any girl but would hand over much more than that to help any friend in distress. That is what money is for—not to show off with.

Tall Cedars Plan Picnic and Outing

Band Concert and Ball Game to Feature Festival at Reservoir Park.

Capitol Forest, No. 104, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will hold its annual picnic and outing tomorrow afternoon, from 2:30 to 7 o'clock, at Reservoir Park, near Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. Committees on reception, entertainment, refreshments, baseball and athletic sports have perfected plans for the event.

The program will open with a concert by the Capitol Forest Band of 50 pieces under the direction of Junior Deputy Grand Tall Cedar Charles R. Brill. A ball game between two teams made up of members of the fraternity will take place at 3 o'clock. An elaborate program of athletic events, races for men, women and children also has been arranged by the chairman in charge of that feature.

Grand Tall Cedar John Q. Slye has extended an invitation to all members with their wives, children and families to participate in this annual outing and get-together event. Visiting Cedars also have been invited to be the guests of Capitol Forest on this occasion.

Southern Social Club Plans Outing.

An old-fashioned waltz competition, with a prize to the winning couple, will be a feature of the outing of the Southern Social Club, to be held tonight on board the Wilson Line steamer City of Washington. P. H. Spaulding, of 1520 First street southwest is in charge of arrangements.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE SPLEEN.

A. B. C. asks for an article on the spleen. She writes from a highly malarial region and she says her spleen is much enlarged, has been so for some time, and gives her much trouble. Her interest is not in the spleen itself but in her diseased spleen and in the disease behind it.

The spleen is a blood filter, the largest and most important in the body. As the blood flows into this filter it is in need of purifying in some particulars. When it flows out it has been cleansed. The filter may suffer from the ingredients it picks out of the blood stream.

When a wounded finger becames infected inflammation of the glands under the arm is expected. What has happened is that the gland there has filtered out bacteria that were sweeping toward the blood stream, and these have caused the swelling or the abscess in the axilla. In typhoid fever, pneumonia and other acute infections the spleen swells because it is doing its best to remove bacteria, or bacterial poisons, from the blood stream.

But A. B. C. writes that she has a chronic enlargement, and she writes from a malarial regions. There are several causes of chronic enlargement of the spleen, but the one that A. B. C. probably is interested in is chronic malaria. She should have her physician exclude leucemia and some other causes of enlarged spleen. The next step is to cure the chronic malaria.

As this is done the spleen will return to normal size and will behave in general. The cure of chronic malaria with enlarged spleen is not quickly accomplished. A lick-and-a-promise treatment will not do much good. A. B. C. should live in a screened house and she should stay at home after nightfall. For one thing, she is a malaria spreader and her neighbors should regard her somewhat as they do a case of smallpox. For another, if infected mosquitoes get at her they feed malaria to her as fast as treatment cures that she previously had.

She needs to get plenty of nutritious food. Good nourishment is necessary for care. She needs to live hygienically. Tonics she needs and they must be long continued. She needs quinine specifics, properly given. This means long continued as well as properly dosed. These specifics are quinine and plasmochin compound.

HOT GINGER FOR EPILEPTICS.

R. C. writes: I am an epileptic and have had attacks for 40 years. I am now 56 years of age. Through a long and sad experience I have found that a cup of hot ginger does more for me in the way of warding off attacks than any one thing I have in mind.

The time of deadliest danger for an epileptic is winter. Any before-breakfast chill means a fit after breakfast. Dressing in a chilly room, putting on cold underwear, eating in a cold room, or anything of the sort brings on the attack right after the meal. And, strange to say, I once got an awful attack from having stayed in the steam room of the gymnasium for an hour. As soon as I had gotten out of the room I began to get warnings and fell in the street before I could reach my hotel.

If you would slip into some one of your articles the tip that one epileptic has found safety in a cup or two of hot ginger the minute the auras begin to appear, you would help more than one wretched creature, and do a lot of good. An electric blanket accomplishes the same thing for me. The instant the ginger gets the gas off the stomach the aura begins to disappear.

I have kept a daily diary for 32 years and have missed only five days in all that time. I have now about three to five fits a year, but I have endless auras and the great weapon against these is ginger.

MAY NOT AFFECT CHILD.

Mrs. N. H. writes:

1. I have a husband who stutters. I am expecting a child. Will he also stammer?

2. My husband, 23 years old, would like to get rid of the habit, but has no money to go to a doctor. Do you know of a remedy?

REPLY.

1. Probably not. Certainly not at first. If your baby should inherit nervous instability begin early in training him to be quiet and calm. By doing so you ward off stammering.

2. A man who is set in his ways is not easily cured of stammering. The only cure is training. There is no medicine for it.

LEMON WITHOUT SUGAR.

J. W. R. writes: Is it harmful to eat a lemon every day without sugar?

REPLY.

No.

BUCK ROGERS, 2431 A. D. — On Toward Sumatra

More strange adventures in a full color page every Sunday. By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

How was I to know that Wilma—alone on the PIRATE CRAFT we had captured—had swung around and headed back for the stronghold of Black Barney, killer Kane and Ardala in an ill-fated attempt to rescue Ghindi and recover the Ranee's gold?
While I, on the gold ship, with automatic controls set for Calcutta dreamt of Wilma—
SN-Z-ZZ SN-ZZZ-
Lost in slumber I did not know that I flashed over the Ranee's palace in Calcutta.
Oh! Doctor Huer! Look! Isn't that the Atlantian gold ship?
Heh? Yes! Heading straight over the bay of Bengal for Sumatra! Heh! Something wrong here!
Doctor Huer leaped frantically for our battle cruiser—
Quick! Cast off! Get aloft! The gold ship from Atlantis—pointing for Sumatra! Chase it—Heh!

CHILD ENVOYS SEE SELVES ON SCREEN

Picture Shows Group Which Made Tour Sponsored by Flag Body and Post.

Seated in the presidential box at the Fox Theater, Washington's envoys of child friendship, who recently returned from a trip to Europe after winning the flag essay contest sponsored by The Post and the American Flag Association, last night saw themselves pictured on the screen, as they were presented to the public by Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association, in a talking news-reel.

The youngsters, Miss Dorothy Skirm, of 4304 Brandywine street northwest; Miss Helen Dettweiler, of 3545 Quesada street northwest; Thomas Hayes, of 3518 S street northwest, and Charles Holbrook, of College Park, Md., were taken to the theater by officials of the American Flag Association, as guests of the management. Miss Skirm and Hayes were winners of The Post contest.

Children Applauded.

As their pictures were flashed across the screen and they were announced as the local contest winners, a storm of applause swept through the audience. So eager were the children to see themselves in moving pictures for the first time they hardly noticed the enthusiastic reception.

Miss Skirm, who spoke in behalf of the group, telling of experiences aboard, sat wide-eyed and tense as she watched the talking-picture of herself.

Their visit to Europe, Col. Moss declared, created a lasting friendship between children of the English-speaking countries.

Met Prince of Wales.

"We had a marvelous time," Miss Skirm said, "and everybody was just as nice to us as they could be."

Asked what impressed them most during the entire trip, the children were unanimous in declaring it was the reception they received wherever they went.

The two girls said their most thrilling experiences were "having tea with Lady Astor and meeting the Prince of Wales."

Episcopal Bishop Under Knife.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Henry W. Hobson, of Cincinnati, Ohio, bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of southern Ohio, underwent an operation at Memorial Hospital Tuesday night for the removal of his appendix, it was announced today. He is resting comfortably.

Indianhead Men Held in Rum Case

Upper Marlboro Hearing Follows Capture of Still and Mash.

J. H. Jordan and J. Robert Briscoe, both of Indianhead, were held in $1,000 bonds yesterday after a hearing on charges of manufacturing and possession of liquor before United States Commissioner J. Frank Farran at Upper Marlboro, Md.

According to the testimony the two men were arrested yesterday by revenue agents near Indianhead, where a 500-gallon still and a quantity of mash was captured in a raid. James Holt, of Indianhead, who was said by the two men to be owner of the still, was also arrested but the case against him was dismissed because of lack of evidence.

The two men will be taken to the Federal Court in Baltimore for a hearing at a later date.

the Colonial Council to abolish the "poor farm" at St. Croix, cost for maintenance having greatly increased recently, and land is needed for the new homesteading proposition.

The banana crop on the islands has been exceptionally good this year. This is always noticeable, even to strangers on the public streets, where the bananas do not grow. The natives depend mainly on bananas for food, while the children eat them almost exclusively. These youngsters develop what is known here as the "banana belly," a protrusion on the front part of the anatomy which is always a sure sign that the crop is plentiful.

There is a strange brand of mosquito here that circulates only after midnight. It is about the size of a humming bird, and if it bites a human being on some certain part of the body elephantiasis develops. There are a number of cases here. One old lady grew until she weighed 756 pounds, the next best reached 692 pounds. Barnum & Bailey take all over 600 pounds.

Constant Training Is Cited by Butler

Marine Leader Says War Is Not All Brass Bands and Brass Buttons.

Quantico, Va., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—War is "not all brass bands and brass buttons," Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marine Corps, believes, and constant training is essential to preparedness.

He made this observation today after the Quantico Marine base had fallen before the simulated attack of several hundred sea soldiers, most of them veterans of the Nicaraguan campaign.

Marine planes laid down a smoke blanket over the waterfront to cover up the day's maneuvers, in which hidden batteries of artillery protecting a railway line were captured and the beach taken.

Gen. Butler said the imaginary battle represented part of the "Marine Corps policy of being constantly prepared for any emergency," adding: "It is the job of the Marines to protect American lives in foreign countries in time of peace and to be first to fight in time of war.

MONTGOMERY FUND SHORTAGE IS SHOWN

$2,477 Is Unaccounted For in County Books of Late Preston B. Ray.

Shortage of $2,477.73 in county funds in accounts of the late Preston B. Ray, clerk of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, is shown in the report of N. F. Rabner, special auditor, presented yesterday to the Montgomery County Commissioners.

Mr. Rabner had been appointed special auditor to audit county funds handled by Mr. Ray.

The report covers all tax sales unredeemed beginning with sales of property for taxes dated May 8, 1908, up to and including April 25, 1931, the date that the bank balance of $16,036.32 closed the account of Mr. Ray insofar as the accounts of the Circuit Court is involved.

The report shows various accounts of moneys received either through tax redemption sales or equity cases on order of the court and a complete analysis of each item involved. The report discloses that a balance of $13,514.05 should be on hand, whereas the bank balance shows $16,036.32 or a difference of $2,477.73 unaccounted for.

Mr. Rabner states that he found several items had been inadvertently entered in different accounts and these items have now been transferred to their proper places.

Mr. Ray died April 15 as a result of gas asphyxiation. His State accounts were found at that time to be $12,000 short.

William F. Prettyman, attorney for Mrs. Ray, last night issued a statement in which he said the audit report has been made without the production to the auditor of the canceled checks or other vouchers and that the statement had been made by the auditor to Mrs. Ray that every item with which Mr. Ray's accounts was chargeable was actually deposited to his account." It is said these vouchers are in the possession of the bank and are in the loft of the bank, where, because of the intense heat, it is almost impossible at this time to check them.

"These vouchers would demonstrate where the money went, and until these checks are produced an audit is valueless," Mr. Prettyman said. "The only thing the auditor can show is whether the funds have been collected and deposited."

R. G. Rankin & Co., certified public accountants, yesterday was retained by the Montgomery County Commissioners to audit the county's books for the past sixteen years.

FAMILIES OF MINERS ASK THEIR RELEASE

400 Women, Children March to Courthouse to Seek Liberty for 33.

Phillippi, W. Va., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Four hundred women and children came to the Barbour County Courthouse today from the mining town of Galloway to appeal for food and release of striking miners who are charged with violating an injunction prohibiting interference with the operations of a Galloway mine.

Carrying banners that read "Children are Hungry, Must be Fed," and "Our Fathers are not Criminals and we want them home with us," the group came to interview Judge Warren B. Kittle, of circuit court. Thirty three members of the United Mine Workers of American are in jail charged with violating the injunction issued in Judge Kittle's court on petition of the Simpson Collieries Co.

The vanguard of the women and children—19 miners' wives and 43 children—arrived last night. They were quartered in the county jail until today, imprisoned miners and other prisoners giving up their beds to them. The rest of the delegation arrived today in trucks and automobiles.

There was no disorder or noise-making as the crowd waited for Judge Kittle. Some members of the group said they were starving; that they had not eaten for 24 hours, and all of them said they would remain until they obtain help.

Those who were here all night said they received nothing to eat at the jail.

Why not swim, too?

A clear skin and a strong body add a touch of loveliness to any man or woman

Regardless of whether you swim or not it is human for one to want to be more attractive. Often one can gain a clear skin and a strong body—the kind that makes you feel like your natural self again—simply by adding New Strength to the blood.

When your vitality is low and you feel weak, don't care to eat, have lost weight, your skin is sallow, pale or broken out with pimples or boils, you may be sure that your blood is in need of New Strength.

Rich, red blood for New Strength

Rich, red blood plays a dominant role in maintaining health. It builds and sustains!... removes impurities from the tissues... gives strength. When you add New Strength to the blood and bring it back to normal, your whole body is invigorated and strengthened... you are better able to resist infection and disease... your skin clears up... your cheeks become rosy... more vitality and pep naturally follow. You know a clear skin comes from within.

S.S.S. makes rich, red blood

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to build New Strength in the blood. It does it safely and effectively. One of its distinct advantages is that it is composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form. Indeed, it is Mother Nature's formula. It has an enviable record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality in the blood—this New Strength naturally makes for better health and happiness.

S.S.S. is sold in two sizes. The larger size contains 20 oz. and represents a price saving.

WHERE—at these prices can you acquire a permanent summer home?

The Washington Post, keeping in mind its policy of being of the greatest possible service to its readers, offers you this chance to have your own Summer home at a ridiculously low cost. The site of this offer is Woodland Beach, on two beautiful coves of the famous South River, an arm of Chesapeake Bay. The Washington Post has not taken into consideration the value of property in the vicinity. It has been selling at much higher prices for years. Thus, aside from the other benefits you derive, you will be making a sound investment.

CLUBHOUSE FREE

The beautiful Colonial Clubhouse erected and furnished throughout by The Washington Post is to be given free to an association of lot owners to be formed. Ownership of property at Woodland Beach entitles you to become a member of this association with all its rights and privileges.

Woodland Beach is one of the loveliest vacation resorts in this part of the country. The property, covered with stately trees, slopes gently down to a beautiful shore and sparkling, cool, clear water. Here, at only $93, you can buy a lot for your own home. Think of it! A place where you and your family may enjoy every summer recreation and sport at its best and escape from the summer heat of the city.

How to Get There

Woodland Beach is only 32 miles from Washington and 30 miles from Baltimore. It is reached from Washington via the Defense Highway (U. S. No. 50) to Camp Parole, then south across South River Bridge to Mayo Road, and follow signs direct to property.

CHACO EVACUATION OF TROOPS URGED

Bolivia and Paraguay Asked to Take Step Pending Settlement of Row.

(Associated Press.)

Five governments of North and South America yesterday suggested that Bolivia and Paraguay evacuate troops from the long-disputed Chaco boundary area and enter a nonaggression agreement pending final settlement of the controversy.

The proposal was forwarded to Paraguay and Bolivia and their attitudes asked. While Paraguay has not replied to a note from the neutral countries dispatched in June asking if they were ready to renew diplomatic boundary negotiations in Washington, Paraguay earlier had expressed her willingness to accept the good offices of the neutrals.

The neutrals are the United States, Mexico, Colombia, Cuba and Uruguay. The dispute is one of the oldest boundary questions remaining in the Western Hemisphere.

The Chaco principals broke off diplomatic relations recently as a result of an exchange of statements by their Washington representatives over each other's military establishments.

The neutrals, who in 1929 effected conciliation of Bolivia's and Paraguay's differences, speeded up the June note, it is understood, in an effort to avoid the break which came after the Bolivian Legation here issued a statement calling attention to Paraguay's purchase of two war vessels and to Bolivia's own military economies.

Charge d'Affaires Ynsfran of Paraguay promptly replied that Bolivia's reductions were prompted by economic necessity rather than by pacific motives.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

NOW that the court procedures are over, at least for the time being, it might be well to examine the script of Paramount's screen version of Theodore Dreiser's bulky tome, "An American Tragedy," and see what manner of document it is; and, if possible, what the shooting was all about.

This script, said to be the most interesting ever prepared for a motion picture, contains 34 sequences of various lengths and is the work of Josef von Sternberg, director of the picture, and Samuel Hoffenstein, author of "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing."

The entire alphabet was exhausted once and the double letters carried to HH in designating the sequences in this unique scenario. Most talking pictures are made up of from four to ten sequences. The manuscript for "An American Tragedy" carries no more film material than the average de luxe picture, but, paradoxically, covers more territory than the majority of productions.

The 34 sequences are said to be so blended as to provide a smooth execution of the dramatic story. In several of them no word is spoken. Two of them employ written notes and a party invitation as the only explanation—after the manner of the old-time subtitles. Several sequences have only a few lines of dialogue, the shortest being the scene in which only two words are spoken. Others range to greater lengths, the BB sequence, which carries the trial of Clyde Griffiths, being 44 pages in length and containing 301 speeches varying in length from the mere affirmative of Clyde to a lawyer's questions to the preliminary addresses of the attorneys to the jury, in which each states his case for and against the prisoner.

The entire script is precluded by chapter synopses of each of the two volumes comprising the Dreiser novel. The author wrote "An American Tragedy" in 100 chapters, covering 840 pages.

Thus does it appear that Paramount did, in all good faith, make a diligent and honest effort to preserve, as well as might be in so totally different a medium, the identity and the integrity of the Dreiser master work. To hold that the author's every shade of meaning and every nuance should have been captured by the cameras and microphones would be to profess a profound faith in miracles.

However, the boys and girls of the local dramatic desks will be in an infinitely better strategic position to discuss these matters of adaptation, fidelity to text, &c., &c., the first of next week.

Handsomely embossed invitations are out for the screening of five of Paramount's 1931-32 major productions in the Ambassador Theater on Monday and Tuesday, beginning at 11 a. m. each day—just at sun-up! "An American Tragedy," "Silence," "Huckleberry Finn," "The Smiling Lieutenant" and "Secrets of a Secretary" form the quintet to be previewed by us gabby gazetteers.

And besides that, we meet so many interesting people!

By the way, speaking of Paramount releases, it is in "Murder by the Clock," opening tomorrow at the Earle, that Leneta Lane, late defecting leading woman of the National Theater Players, makes what is, to the best of my knowledge, her first local screen appearance under the picture contract that caused her to desert Mr. Cochran precipitately at the very beginning of his early summer season. She appears, as I understand it, in scarcely more than a "bit," as a nurse.

Before leaving the Earle you might like to know that yesterday the management played host to the youngsters of three of the Washington orphanages as a part of its observance of the spirit of "Family Week." They were afforded free transportation to and from the theater through the courtesy of the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., the Capital Traction Co. and the Rotary Club.

And don't think there are no large families in or about the National Capital. Having made the offer to entertain the five largest families registering for "Family Week," the Earle found it necessary to increase the number to seven.

The family of Mrs. Crult, 14 Poplar avenue, Takoma Park, and that entered by Miss Katherine Achstetter, 1818 Lamont street northwest, numbered fourteen each. Two families, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andre's, of Anacostia, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Patterson's, 77 Seaton place, have twelve immediate members each.

Three families with eleven members each were entered, those of Mrs. D. M. Gaines, 907 M street northwest; Mrs. Rush Buckley, Clifton Station, Va., and Valentine Falcone, 5337 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Entertaining seven families doesn't sound like so much, but 85 people—and you had better audit that, my mathematics being what they are—are quite a lot, as the old lady who lived in that shoe will tell you!

If you should happen to get hold of an August 1 issue of the Buffalo Times you would find something over a column of adulatory comment upon the pep, personality and punch of one Wesley Eddy, who is currently prevalent in the city on the lake at the theater presided over by Charlie Raymond, formerly managing director of the Rialto here. They don't seem to care much for Wesley in Buffalo, apparently rating him way down next to George Washington and Abraham Lincoln!

That Wesley Eddy Club, at the Palace, was only hissing him in comparison!

That breeze that sprang up yesterday afternoon is no doubt to be attributed to the annual convention of RKO division managers at the Hotel Pierre in New York, where all of the executives are sounding off with utmost gusto in circumlocutionary and windy speeches, confidently relied upon to accomplish something or other, I forget just what. And they probably will, at that!

Times being as they are, I have decided that it would be the part of economic sound sense to give up the long trip to Hains Point this year and go camping modestly instead. So, come mid-August, I'll likely be found roughing it in the wild country along the south rim of the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool!

Provided, of course, we're not stormbound on the Tidal Basin, en route, or marooned without fuel on the south diamond.

Me and Byrd and Bob Bartlett!

BRITISH GOLD FLOW TO FRANCE SWELLS

Sterling Drop Is Blamed as $10,000,000 Goes by Air, Land and Water.

Paris, Aug 6 (U.P.).—Another $10,000,000 in gold, largest withdrawal of the recent "run," flowed out of the Bank of England today by land, by air and by water to swell reserves of the precious metal in France and Holland.

In airplanes, trucks and boats the hundred-pound boxes of gold moved secretly over regular commercial routes protected by heavily armed escorts and hidden from chance observers.

Today's continuation of the gold flow was attributed in part to the temporary drop of the pound sterling on the exchange yesterday and lesser market fluctuation today.

In Paris the gold was stored in the underground vaults which the Bank of France built with such care that they will withstand even a bombing attack by war planes.

Any unauthorized invader of the underground passages would be forced to overcome such obstacles as an electrified fence, a gas chamber and thick double doors of steel and concrete. Even should any reach the vaults without permission he would be trapped underground by electrical alarm systems, which automatically close all exits.

French sources said the withdrawals, which recently alarmed the Bank of England, would continue for the next few days in increased amounts. It was presumed the use of credits advanced by the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York would prevent any serious developments threatening the stability of the pound sterling.

Turbaned Soothsayer Ejected From Building

Garbed in turban and tunic and claiming to be a Hindu fortune teller, an unidentified man was ejected from the War Department Building yesterday. The Oriental habiliments of the would-be seer gained him the stares of many clerks as he passed through the stately halls of the military establishment.

Building authorities, however, were deaf to the pleas of the prophet from far away that he be allowed to gaze into the futures of the War Department employes who so desired. The regulation against soliciting in the Government buildings was evoked and the turbaned visitor was courteously but firmly escorted to the portals of the structure.

WOODLAND ANSWERS SUMMER PROBLEMS

Post's Summer Refuge on South River Will Wipe Out Heat Worries.

Have you suffered from the heat this summer? Would you like to look forward to following summer seasons without fear of what the weather will do to your health and your temper? Certainly you would, and The Washington Post is offering you the answer to your problem.

Woodland Beach is the answer. Here is a summer resort which has everything for which you have been searching. It is ideally located, just 32 miles from the Capital, and reached over excellent roads, all the way.

It has 4½ miles of waterfront property where you may build and enjoy cooling breezes off the South River of Maryland on which the beach is situated. It has shallow coves in which your children may wade and splash without worrying their mothers.

Already it has an imposing array of excellent cottages scattered along the shores and through the wooded areas which make the beach so attractive. There is a community clubhouse on the main road, which will be turned over to lot owners when they are ready to form an association to regulate the development.

Low cost is another factor which has made Woodland Beach popular with residents of the Capital. All lots at the beach are priced alike—at $93. And even this small amount need not be paid in cash. All that is necessary to make a selection is to pay $9 together with the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post. The rest may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50 and all the while you may be enjoying the advantages of the resort.

Never Before has genuinely FINE CLEANING been done at Such Low PRICES

FIRST CAME C. T.

When we first announced C. T. Cleaning to Washington the response overwhelmed our facilities. Equipment which we expected would take care of our needs for at least a year was inadequate at the end of a week. All of this proved that YOU who helped build our new plant had been waiting for a new and better cleaning process, proved that C. T. made good with you.

Now come the lowest prices ever quoted on genuinely fine cleaning . . . prices made possible because we have added two new cleaning units to take care of your demands . . . prices which we can offer you on the very highest grade of dry cleaning because we have perfected our organization and can now handle the extra volume which these new prices will bring.

HENRY THOMPSON, ATTORNEY, IS DEAD

New York Bar Member Dies in Takoma Park After Long Illness.

Henry Thompson, a prominent member of the New York bar, died yesterday at the Takoma Park Sanitarium after an illness of several months. He had been a patient at the sanitarium for several days. He was born in Binghamton, N. Y., 82 years ago.

He first became a member of the firm of Brown, Hall & Vanderpool, in New York, and later was a member of the firm of Freedman, Cook & Brown.

Mr. Thompson graduated from Cornell University in 1872, before he attended New York University, where he obtained his law degree in 1874, and in 1906 he was elected a trustee of that institution and received the honorary degree of doctor of laws there in 1913. In 1926 he gave a series of Thompson scholarships to Colgate amounting to $50,000.

He was a member of the Manhattan Chess Club, the Bankers Club, Delta Upsilon Fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa. He married Miss Ellen O'Connor in 1879. She died in 1925. Survivors include two sisters, Miss Theresa Thompson and Miss Grace Thompson, of Washington, and a nephew, Arthur Lee Thompson, the present manager of Thompson Dairies here.

Funeral services were held last night at the Nevius funeral home, 924 New York avenue northwest, the Rev. William E. La Rue, pastor of the Takoma Park Baptist Church, officiating. The body will be sent to New York today for interment in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Bribe Charge Laid To Virginia Man

Du Pont Officials Claim Secrets of Manufacturing Process Were Sought.

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Waynesboro News Virginian in a copyrighted article this afternoon says that officials of the DuPont Rayon Co. here and in New York have revealed that since early May repeated attempts have been made to secure information on secret manufacturing processes, presumably for the benefit or for sale to a rival company.

The matter came to light today with the arrest of John H. Brooks, of Petersburg. Brooks was charged with "giving and promising gifts of money and other things to employes of the DuPont Rayon Co., without the employer's knowledge, with the intent to influence the employes' action to the prejudice of the employer's interest obviously to secure information on a secret manufacturing process employed by the DuPont Co. in manufacuring 'acele,' a high-grade patented rayon yarn."

Murky Beer Graces Table As Diamond Goes on Trial

Militant Kansas Prohibitionist on Bench Hears of Alleged Attempts of New York Gangsters to Control Beer Racket.

New York, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Four half-filled bottles of murky beer stood on a table in Federal Court today, directly below Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins, militant Kansas prohibitionist.

Behind the beer, in a direct line with the judge, sat Jack "Legs" Diamond, the East's most notorious gangster, standing trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and possession of a still.

And on the witness chair sat Arthur Pacini, a red-headed Italian in horn-rimmed spectacles.

Arthur, speaking in a high, squeaky voice, was trying to show Judge Hopkins and the jury how members of Diamond's gang made him buy their beer.

He placed his index finger to his temple, in the manner of a pistol, and wiggled his thumb. "They tell me," said Arthur, "if I don't buy their beer, they pulla da trig. So I buy."

As he had a dozen times before during the day, Judge Hopkins raised his eyebrows in surprise at the beer peddler's casual admission.

The judge came East to occupy the bench during summer session and, strangely enough, has suddenly found himself presiding at the hearing for New York's public enemy No. 1. He is a director of the Antisaloon League and has long been associated with the dry cause.

Throughout the day, proprietors of various resorts in the Catskill Mountains, where Diamond and his mob allegedly tried to establish a New York equivalent of Cicero, Ill., stepped to the witness stand to tell of Diamond's high-handed methods in gaining control of the upstate beer racket.

There was William F. Shields, admittedly a bartender and one of the old school, with hair sliced in a curly curve down over his forehead and a gold log chain across his vest. Shields swore that he doesn't sell liquor. "I sell applejack," he explained.

And Charles B. Hasselman, who runs a restaurant in Catskill, in which he admitted he sells beer. "You're running wide open now, aren't you?" demanded Diamond's attorney.

"Why, I should say not!" indignantly replied Hasselman. "I don't stay open on Sundays!"

Long Illness Fatal To John H. Nelson

Capital Lawyer Dies at Home in Manassas; Rites Tomorrow.

John H. Nelson, 65 years old, long a practicing lawyer in Washington, died yesterday at his home in Manassas, Va., after a prolonged illness, caused by two strokes of paralysis.

Mr. Nelson was for many years associated in a law office here with Frank Lyon. He was a bachelor, a graduate of the School of Law of the University of Virginia, class of '88, and a prominent and active member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

He was for some time employed by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a traveling lawyer. He had lived at Manassas for the last three years, after his health failed.

Survivors include two brothers, C. P. Nelson, of Huntington, W. Va., and James E. Nelson, of Washington, and two sisters, Mrs. Albert Speiden and Mrs. Austin Weeden, of Manassas. Funeral services will be held at the Primitive Baptist Church, Manassas, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Elder R. H. Pittman, of Luray, officiating. Interment will follow at that place.

School Job Bids Opened.

Fourteen bids were opened yesterday afternoon for construction of a wing addition to the Macfarland Junior High School. The lowest estimate was submitted by Lee Paschall, of Richmond, Va. It was $167,000.

Tired of Auto, Owner Runs It Into Potomac

Having tired of his car and not caring to drive it to an automobile "graveyard," a young man named Carlin Peyton, living at 7 Glendale avenue, Alexandria, Va., yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, took the license tags off and drove the car down Cameron street in Alexandria, and when it was going at a good speed nearing the foot of Cameron street, he jumped out and the car splashed into the Potomac River.

As it is blocking the wharf, Mayor C. E. Tiver has given orders that the young man must get the car out of the river this morning, or else—.

Arkansas Bank Robbers Get $6,600 and Escape

Lockesburg, Ark., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Two youthful robbers held up three officials of the Bank of Lockesburg here today and escaped in an automobile with $6,600 in cash.

Dr. M. L. Norwood, president; R. S. Hunsucker, cashier, and R. C. Norwood, assistant cashier, were alone in the bank.

Russell A. Oakley Dies in California

Scientist in Agriculture Department Was on Duty in Western State.

Word received yesterday afternoon from Monrovia, Calif., brings the announcement of the death there yesterday of Dr. Russell A. Oakley, of this city, who for several years past has been on duty in California for the Department of Agriculture. Dr. Oakley was a native of Kansas and for many years had been connected with the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture, being regarded as one of the foremost authorities in the science of agronomy.

Several years ago, during the administration of Secretary Jardine, he was delegated to represent the United States in the International Agricultural Congress in Italy.

Dr. Oakley is survived by his widow, formerly Bessie Bell, daughter of the late William R. Bell, a member of the corps of newspaper correspondents. So far no word has been received as to the obsequies, but it is assumed that interment will be in Kansas, the former home of Dr. Oakley.

MARBERRY HOLDS BOSTON TO 4 HITS IN 15-1 WIN

Bluege Leads Attack on Russell

Knocks 2 Triples and Single as Share in 20-Hit Assault.

7 Runs in 8th Clinch Game; Marberry Works Easily.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

COMING back to the races following a two-day lay-off, the Nationals found their bats loaded with extra-base blows, the result being the easiest kind of a victory over the Boston Red Sox, especially as Fred Marberry had one of his best days and pitched four-hit ball. The final check-up showed that the natives won the game by a 14-run margin, 15 to 1.

While the Nats were enjoying themselves, so were the Yankees, who beat the Mackmen in New York, the result being that Washington and New York remain three games apart, while the A's leading margin over Johnson's charges was reduced to eleven games.

Twenty hits bounded off of the Washington bats, these including eleven doubles and two triples, for a total of 32 bases. All except Joe Kuhel participated in the attack on Jack Russell, who holds two previous 1931 victories over the Nats, and Ed (Bull) Durham.

Two Triples by Bluege.

Roy Spencer was satisfied with one hit, a triple, but the others gathered their bingles in bunches. Ossie Bluege, with two three-baggers and a single, and Joe Cronin, with a trio of doubles, were high guns in the attack, although Sammy West, with two two-baggers and a one-shot, and Sam Rice and Buddie Myer, with a double and two singles, pressed them closely for honors. Marberry helped along his cause with a double and single.

And the runs seemed to come almost as easy. After two were out in the first, Manush's single, doubles by Cronin and West and Bluege's single netted three runs, and the Nats continued to add to their total. A brace of extra-basers in both the third and fourth scored a run in these sessions, West's double, Bluege's triple, Spencer's safe fielder's choice, and one-shots by Myer and Rice were good for three more in the fifth, while the resistants hopped on Durham's slants in the eighth for seven hits and many more useless runs.

Marberry Baffles Sox.

While all this was going on, Fred Marberry literally was making monkeys of the Red Sox swatsmiths, holding them to but four scattered hits. They received a touch of the "extra-base" fever, for half of their safeties were good for more than one sack. Marbrry retired the first nine to face him in succession and then Rothrock opened the fourth with a triple. He held third while Cronin was tossing out Rhyne, but brought home the only alien run after Rice's one-hand reaching catch over the rail of one of the field boxes on Miller's foul fly.

With one dead in the sixth, Van Camp, hitting for Russell, singled to center and was left, while Oliver beat out a scratch hit in the eighth, only to fall a double-play victim a moment later. Winsett went to the bat in Durham's place in the ninth and doubled, but got no farther than the keystone sack while the next three were being retired.

Keeps Steady All the Way.

While Marberry pitched steadily all the way, he never had to bear down at any time. His control was perfect, as he issued no passes, but he fanned only one, something unusual for him. It was his second brilliant effort in as many starts and bodes ill for the Western clubs who will face him during the coming Western invasion.

For those who like brilliant plays, Cronin gave the small gallery plenty of chance to applaud in the fourth, when he robbed Webb of what appeared to be a sure hit as the ball left the bat. The short-fielder raced over directly behind second to snare a hard-hit grounder in the fingertips of his gloved hand and followed through with a rifle peg which was a pretty a play as has been seen here this season.

Robins' Four in First Overcomes Braves

Boston, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Brooklyn's four-run foray against Ben Cantwell in the first inning today gave the Robins the margin of victory in a 7 to 3 triumph over the Braves. Cantwell steadied after the first and went the route while the Braves drove Babe Phelps from the hill, but they could not overcome the early lead.

Singles by Frederick and Finn, Bissonette's double, a walk, a wild pitch and an error by Richbourg in short right were the Brooklyn run-making gems in the big first. Dolf Luque received Phelps with two Boston runs in and the bases full in the fifth and stopped the rally. He pitched shutout ball for the next four frames and gained credit for the victory.

COAST KEEPS 3 IN MUNY TOURNEY

8 Survivors Are All Outsiders; Mitchell, Medalist, Bows.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

KELLER CLUB, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Golf as played over the public fee courses of the Pacific Coast triumphed on the battle ground of the national public links championship today as the tournament medalist fell and eight shot-makers from as many different cities passed into the quarter-finals.

Leading the brigade of sharpshooters from the Far West was Charles Ferrara, a steel worker from San Francisco, who eliminated the medalist, Dave Mitchell, of Indianapolis, 4 and 3, with almost perfect golf on his first round and then came back in the afternoon to defeat Bob Gourlay, of Seattle, 1 up, in a stirring battle that ended when a birdie clattered off his war clubs on the final green.

Ferrara was joined by two other Coast golfers—Hoe Nichols, 15-year-old high school sophomore from Long Beach, Calif., who had the easiest sailing of the day's struggles, and Ed Greenway, of Seattle. The other five quarter-finalists represented St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Little Rock, Ark.

Mitchell Last Favorite To Fall.

The fall of Mitchell, who captured the medal with 148 shots, removed the last favorite from the field as the defending champion, Bob Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., and the three-times title holder, Carl Kauffman, of Pittsburgh, failed to qualify. As a result the big fight for the championship, which ends Saturday night, was a greater free-for-all than even.

Nichols, qualified with a 155 score, swept aside his opponents with ease today, defeating Bob Isherwood, of St. Louis, 4 and 2, on the first round

Tribe Beats Tigers, 4-3, On Sorrell's Wildness

Detroit, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians literally walked to a 4-to-3 victory over Detroit today in the second game of their series.

Victor Sorrell, who pitched the ninth inning after a pinch-hitter was sent in for Arthur Herring, walked four men to force in the winning run. Previously five bases on balls off Herring and four misplays had aided the Indians.

A home run by Averill in the fifth, scoring a runner ahead of him, tied the score. McManus also hit for the circuit, in the second with the bases empty.

Yanks Subdue Athletics By 5-3

Johnson Turns Back Rally in 9th; Fans Two in Pinch.

Mahaffey Allowed to Bat for Self With Bases Full.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Aug 6 (A.P.).—Young Henry Johnson bore down when the bearing was good today, striking out two batters and forcing another to pop weakly to the infield with the bases crammed in the ninth inning, and the Yankees staggered through to a 5-to-3 victory over the champion Athletics in their series opener.

Things were looking dark for Joe McCarthy's troops when young Henry arrived on the scene and they immediately looked darker, but he pulled through. Two Athletics had crossed the plate and another was on first with none out when Johnson hustled out to relieve Lefty Gomez in the final round. The first thing he did was to walk Bing Miller, putting the tying run on base.

Mahaffey Allowed To Go to Bat.

Then young Henry started pitching. Phil Todt went down swinging at a third strike, but Williams singled over second to fill the bases. At this crucial stage, Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics chose to let LeRoy Mahaffey, a .233 hitter, do his own batting, and Johnson promptly slipped three fast ones by him. McNair, another of the Athletics junior varsity, had the final opportunity to do something about it. He lifted a weak fly to Joe Sewell at third base for the last out.

Up to the time they staged their ninth-inning uprising, the American League leaders had spent the afternoon trying to do something with Gomez. They had managed only three hits, including a triple by Jimmie Foxx, and had scored their only run as the result of an error by Babe Ruth in the fourth. But they fell on the young southpaw with gusto in the ninth, doubles by Cochrane and Simmons and Foxx's single causing Manager Joe McCarthy to pop hurriedly from the dugout. It was at this juncture that Johnson took over the situation.

The Yankees wasted no time piling up a winning margin off Rube Walberg, ace left-hander of the champions. Four runs crossed the plate in the first inning, the result of Sammy Byrd's triple to left, successive walks to Gehrig, Chapman and Lary and singles by Dickey and Lazzeri. Dickey's hit, the first of two he blazed off Walberg's delivery, drove in a pair of runs.

The winners' fifth and final run came when Babe Ruth parked his thirtieth homer of the year in the fifth inning. It landed high up in the right-field bleachers. Walberg escaped further damage through the seventh round, when he was relieved for a pinch hitter, and Mahaffey retired the Yankees in order in the eighth. Some 15,000 saw the two clubs open the current series.

Kilmer to Put Sun Beau in Stud After 3 or 4 More Stake Races

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, world's leading money winning thoroughbred, is near the end of his racing days. After filling three or four more stake engagements the 6-year-old son of Sun Briar and Beautiful Lady will go into stud, Kilmer said today.

Sun Beau is now at Chicago, being pointed for the Hawthorne Handicap there Saturday. On Monday he will be shipped here and enter training for the Saratoga Cup, 1¼-mile feature of the final day of the meeting. This race looms as the greatest all-age contest in several years, with Twenty Grand, Mate and Questionnaire expected to start. The Gold Cup at Belmont Park is expected to be his last race.

SMITH TIES NEW BALL RECORD

"Mac" Shoots 278 to Win Long Island Open Crown.

BAYSHORE, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—With a score that equalled the best 72-hole performance with the new ball, MacDonald Smith, famous Scottish-born pro from Great Neck, N. Y., captured his third successive Long Island open golf championship over the Southward Ho course today.

Smith, recent winner of the Metropolitan open, posted a 69 and a 72 for the final 36 holes today for a 72-hole aggregate of 278, a score that duplicated the one he made in winning the Metropolitan open at Scarsdale 17 years ago and that tied Horton Smith's recent achievement with the balloon ball in the St. Paul open.

So far superior was Mac Smith's play to that of any one else in the championship that he won by a margin of six strokes over W. H. (Wiffy) Cox of Brooklyn, and by nine from Willie Klein. Wheatley Hills pro, Long Island open champion in 1922 and 1923, first two years of the competition.

The leaders with their scores by rounds were:

MacDonald Smith, Great Neck	68, 69, 69, 72—278
Wiffy Cox, Dyker Beach	70, 71, 70, 73—284
Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills	72, 71, 70, 74—287
Walter Kozak, North Hills	75, 77, 72, 78—302
Walter Schrieber, Hillcrest	75, 78, 73, 78—304
A. E. MacDonald, Lenox Hills	71, 76, 79, 79—305
George Voigt, unattached	77, 78, 74, 78—307
A. S. Wood, unattached	74, 76, 80, 77—307

CARNERA ADDS ANOTHER.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian, added another knockout to his string tonight by disposing of Armando de Carlos, of South America, in the second of a scheduled eight-round battle. Carnera weighed 272½ pounds; De Carlos, 187.

Guardian of Pass Gate For Macks No Reflection On Integrity of Yanks

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Old Judge Von Ohl was sitting by the pass gate of the Yankee Stadium representing the management of the Philadelphia Club. The baseball magnates trust one another fully, you understand, but still it is customary for the visiting ball club to keep a representative on the pass gate, possibly for no more actual reason than the Government keeps an inspector in Col. Jake Ruppert's near-beer plant. Col. Jake would not cheat, but still the Government keeps the inspector in his near-beer plant and the visiting ball clubs keep a man on his pass gate and he keeps a man on theirs.

Sailors and priests and baseball writers and other unclassified customers were trickling through the pass gate, and Judge Von Ohl seemed to be paying no close heed as the man on the gate called them off to the checker who sat with a big board, writing them down, "two on the Navy," "two on the head," "one B. B., &c.

Traffic Manager For Athletics.

Judge Von Ohl is traffic manager, road secretary or something of the kind for the Philadelphia Athletics, a man somewhere between 60 and 105 years, who lives down on the Jersey shore, not in the hotel belt, but in the fish and game country. He raises bird dogs and sometimes judges field trials, so people call him Judge. He is also a very good judge of Jersey applejack and Maryland corn products. He can handle those boys on bound ball-club trunks with the nimble ease of a grocer's boy juggling a box of crackers.

"I heard of a row a couple of years ago in which he walked up, every one of his quarter-inch gray wire whiskers twitching like a porcupine's quills and backed a big young ball player around a room, threatening to do him serious bodily harm in an argument about something.

His Jack Settles All Your Troubles.

"I thought you was coming down to my shack," the old judge said. "Better come down this fall. I can show you some of the best dogs you ever saw, and we can get some birds and do a little fishing. Fall time is the time to have fun, anyway, and when it gets cold I've got me some jack that's been hid away in the woods for five years, as smooth as oil now and one slug just settles all your troubles."

About 15,000 people were passing through the gates to have a good time at the ball game, but every man to his own pleasure and Judge Von Ohl, who looks at 200 ball games a year, was pining for the end of the season and the Jersey coast.

"Connie ought to be along any minute," he said. "He's got his family along with him this trip. There's Mrs. Mack and his daughter and some friends of the daughter's. He generally comes in the pass-gate and sets around in the back row of the stand for fifteen minutes or so before he goes down with the boys."

Connie Mack's Handshake Retains Sincerity.

Connie Mack came in just about then with his family. They went to their seats and the boss went up the ramp to sit in the back row a spell. He was dry and cool on a muggy day. A kid tearing blindly

U. S. WOMEN IN NET TEST TODAY

Mrs. Moody Meets Miss Mudford in First Cup Match.

NEW YORK, Aug 6 (A.P.).—With Mrs. Helen Wills Moody carrying the burden and playing in three of the seven matches, the United States tomorrow will launch a determined offensive at Forest Hills to regain the Wightman Tennis Cup, symbol of international team supremacy, from England.

Mrs. Moody will open the filing against Phyllis Mudford, who defeated Sarah Palfrey in the series at Wimbledon last year. The California star will play Betty Nuthall, England's number one and American champion, Saturday afternoon, and will then pair with Mrs. L. A. Harper against Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall in what may be the deciding doubles encounter.

The two other singles matches tomorrow will see Helen Jacobs playing Miss Nuthall, whom she defeated at Wimbledon, and Mrs. Harper arrayed against Dorothy Round, the number three player of the English side.

Miss Jacobs Meets Miss Mudford.

Miss Jacobs will play Miss Mudford in the fifth of the singles matches Saturday and Miss Palfrey and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, captain of the American side and donor of the cup, will play Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barron, the English captain, and Miss Mudford in the other doubles encounter.

Misses Nuthall and Mudford both will play three matches for the English team, but Mrs Moody is the only one of the American players attempting that feat.

This is the ninth time the cup has been competed for with the score standing four each. England won at Wimbledon last year, four matches to three, Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs losing the final and deciding match to Mrs. Phoebe Holcroft-Watson and Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, neither of whom is on the English team this year, 7—5, 1—6, 6—4

Mitchell and Yeomans To Play at Detroit

Dooly Mitchell and Eddie Yeomans will represent Washington in the national public parks tennis championship, along with Bud Markey, Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker. Mitchell and Yeomans were uncertain until yesterday whether business, in Mitchell's case, and a chance to play at Newport, in Yeoman's case, would permit them to participate at Detroit during the week of August 17.

Mitchell yesterday notified the local parks net association that he would be able to compete, while Yeomans, who was eliminated from the doubles tournament at Southampton yesterday, wired that he would forego the Newport tournament and journey to Detroit directly from Rye, where he will play next week with a galaxy of nationally known stars.

Jersey Body Warns Promoters Of Future Foes for Carnera

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The State Athletic Commission today advised boxing promoters of New Jersey to sign Primo Carnera, Itzlian giant, for no more bouts in this State except with the express permission of the commission.

Abe J. Greene, secretary of the commission, said the order was not to be considered a ban on Carnera, but the commission reserved the right to decide whether prospective opponents were capable of giving the Italian man mountain a scrap.

In view of Carnera's proposed bout with Jack Sharky, Greene said, "It is evident that neither he nor his manager will risk spoiling a 'big shot.' Any match Carnera may be engaged in between now and the bout with Sharkey must smack of the build-up."

Van Ryn and Allison Bow In Upset

Hall and Feibelman Eliminate Pair, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

3 Other Seeded Teams Gain Semifinals at Southampton.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A. P.).—Three of the four seeded teams in the Meadow Club's Annual Invitation Doubles Tournament survived the day's play here today as the No. 2 seeded combination and former international championship team of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, was eliminated in the quarter-final round.

The unseeded pair of J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and E. W. Feibleman, of New York, pushed through to the semifinals by beating the Allison-Van Ryn combination in a stirring match by scores of 1—6, 6—3, 6—4.

The national championship combination of John Hope Doeg, Newark, N. J., and George M. Lott, jr., Philadelphia, put in a busy day winning two matches. In the morning they scored over Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., 6—1, 6—8, 6—1, and then went on to beat Jack Tidball and Lester Stoefen, the Los Angeles pair, by scores of 5—7, 7—5, 6—4 in the quarter-final.

Mangin and Bell Survive.

The other teams successful in gaining the semifinal brackets were Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., and the Californian team of Ellsworth Vines, jr., Pasadena, and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara.

The Mangin-Bell duo turned back Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, and Wilbur F. Coen, jr., Kansas City, in a scintillating set-to, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4. Tomorrow afternoon they will meet Feibleman and Hall, while the upper half semi-final brings together Doeg and Lott against Gledhill and Vines.

The latter team encountered stiff opposition as they played 58 games to gain the semi-finals. In a second-round match Gledhill and Vines were hard put to win from the Southern youngsters—William B. Reese, Atlanta, and Edgar Yeomans, Washington, D. C. by 7—5 3—6, 6—0, and in their quarter-final round clash they beat Bryan Grant, jr., Atlanta, and Karl Kamrath, Austin, 2—6, 6—4, 8—6.

The eagerly awaited semi-finals in men's singles will be played here tomorrow morning, featuring four of America's first ten stars. Mangin will oppose his old rival, Sutter, in one five-set match while Lott opposes Vines, who holds major victories at Seabright, Longwood and St. Louis to his credit this year. The singles final will be put on Saturday morning while the doubles finals will be staged Saturday afternoon.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

SECOND ROUND—John Hope Doeg, Newark, N. J., and George M. Lott, jr., Philadelphia, defeated Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., 6—1, 6—8, 6—1.

Jack Tidball and Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles, defeated S. Howard Voshell and Jerome Lang, New York, 6—2, 8—6.

Bryan Grant, jr., Atlanta, and Karl Kamrath, Austin, Tex., defeated Fred Baggs and Dr. William Rosenbaum, New York, 6—2, 6—4.

Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, and Wilbur F. Coen, jr., Kansas City, defeated Harold MacGuffin, Philadelphia, and Edward Burns, jr., New York, 6—2, 4—6 6—4.

Ellsworth Vines, jr., Pasadena, Calif., and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, defeated William B. Reese, Atlanta, and Edgar Yeomans, Washington, D. C., 7—5, 3—6, 6—0.

QUARTER-FINAL ROUND—J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and E. W. Feibleman, New York, defeated Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, 1—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Anderson, Notre Dame Coach, Leaves Hospital

IRENE'S BOB WINS FLASH STAKES, SARATOGA INAUGURAL

Gelding Best Of Juvenile Field

Stands Hard Drive to Stall Off Polonaise by Half Length.

St. Brideaux Outruns Reveille Boy in Old Saratoga 'Cap.

SARATOGA SPRINGS RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—This picturesque and historic course threw open its gates for a 27-day session this afternoon with perfect weather and an excellent program attracting about 15,000 turf fans. The Flash Stakes, at 5½ furlongs, drew thirteen well-matched juveniles to the post and the $5,050 winner's share went to James E. Gaffney's game gelding, Irene's Bob, which beat Polonaise, from the W. R. Coe Stable, by half a length in a hard drive. The Sage Stable's Microphone was third, beaten a head for the place.

Irene's Bob was quoted at .5 to 1 and covered the distance in 1:06 over a fast track under McAtee's hustling ride. Makalu was favorite and finished fifth after being well up all the way. There was plenty of crowding in the event, but the winner never was in trouble.

Irene's Bob Takes Command Early.

McAtee shot Irene's Bob into command early and the Gaffney gelding drew into a lead of two lengths, saving ground. Microphone forced the pace, with General Advance, Makalu and Polonaise close up. Microphone was forced back at the three-eighths pole, but recovered quickly. Lucky Tom, forced wide around the turn when he was looming up as a strong threat, flattened out after losing that ground.

Mack Garner called on Polonaise after straightening out and the filly closed with a rush on the outside, but McAtee rode Irene's Bob hard and he held on tenaciously to maintain his slight margin of victory. Despoil stole through rapidly on the inside in the final stages but just failed to catch Microphone at the end.

St. Brideaux Takes Historic Handicap.

St. Brideaux, stablemate of Twenty Grand and a son of the same sire, St. Germans, raced to an exciting victory in the time-honored Saratoga Handicap, at a mile and a quarter, beating seven other members of the handicap division in impressive style. Well ridden by Charlie Kurtsinger, the Greentree Stable's handsome colt swept past the wire two lengths before J. A. Best's Reveille Boy to pay his backers even money and earn for his owner the sum of $7,700. Quarter Deck, representing Morton L. Schwartz, was third, another four lengths away. The time was 2:04.

Quarter Deck was again fractious at the stall gates and delayed the start ten minutes before the field got off to a good start. Sandy Ford led for half mile or so, when Reveille Boy collared the one-eyed gelding. Kurtsinger had St. Brideaux right up close and rated him under restraint a little more than a length off Reveille Boy, until they turned into the final straightaway. Quarter Deck was alongside the winner, but when Kurtsinger called on St. Brideaux that fellow responded quickly and darted away from Quarter Deck in pursuit of Reveille Boy. The latter was unable to withstand the challenge and St. Brideaux took command near the sixteenth pole to draw away.

No More Always Ahead At Hawthorne.

Hawthorne Race Track, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—In front all the way after getting away best, C. E. Davison's 3-year-old gelding, No More, proved the best of a field of seven in the six furlong LaSalle Purse at Hawthorne today.

No More, hard urged only in the last few strides, ran the distance in 1:12 2-5 to hold three-quarters of a length over the Nevada Stock Farm's fast closing Siskin, while the Coldstream stud's filly Sweet Scent was two lengths back for third. The Warm Stables' Epithet, which ran the fastest six furlongs of the year in 1:10 1-5 to beat No More in their last meeting at Arlington, was prominent in the early running but dropped back steadily in the stretch to finish fifth. No More paid $6.58 to win.

The Cuddler Purse at six furlongs brought out seven good 2-year-olds, with J. W. Marchbank's Giavanna taking a long, early lead and holding it to win by two lengths. Shaker Lady was second and the well-backed favorite, Oscillation, third, in a race run in 1:13 1-5. Giavanna, an outsider in the wagering, paid $19.14 to win.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Hawthorne Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6.—The LaGrange Purse, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds exclusively, which received five entries in the overnight list, is the best offering on the Hawthorne program today. The feature will be decided over the mile and one-sixteenth route and carries a purse value of $1,400. Four claiming events, a maiden race for juveniles and a maiden number for 3-year-olds at a distance, will round out the card.

In the feature, fourth on the card, QUATRA BRAS II, from the Three D's Stable was impeded in his last start and with better racing luck figures to show the way to his four rivals. DEWASEY is attaining his best form and will be the one to fear. MAD CAREER, an erratic performer from the Walter Salmon string, is favored for the show. LADY DEAN and MICHIGAN GIRL will complete the field.

FIRST RACE—Of the eighteen maiden juveniles named to start in the 5½ furlongs of the opener, CHATTER QUEEN appears ready to graduate. The Northway Stable youngster finished second to All Rowes last outing and has trained well.

SECOND—BUGS LEARY turned in several clever performances over at Arlington Park and on his recent efforts must be given the call in the 1 1-16 miles of the second. ATLIL closed considerable ground last start to finish third and figures to improve off that effort.

THIRD RACE—Thirteen 3-year-olds will contest the purse in the six and a half furlongs of the third. DICK MORRIS, a recent winner at this track, defeated a similar field and under the conditions should repeat.

FIFTH RACE—SHOW DOWN appears best of the twelve slated to go in the mile and a sixteenth of the fifth. The Ultimatum colt faltered in his previous race after setting the pace and with that effort as a conditioner, he should annex the purse. MACEDON has displayed ability to negotiate a route and at the distance will furnish stern opposition. PRINCE TOKALON has several clever victories to his credit and in this class must be considered.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth event, which is fashioned for the older platers, attracted thirteen to contest the purse over the mile and a sixteenth route. PAULA L. and ANNAN, two consistent distance runners, will battle it out for the major share of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—DUSKY BOY has shown improvement in recent starts and his second to Thinwin last outing places the G. Mann racer in a position to score over his seventeen opponents in the mile and a sixteenth of the final event. FLAGG PORTER has trained briskly since his last start and should finish in the runner-up position. AUSTERLITZ turned in a splendid performance recently and figures best of the others for the minor award.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UMA, $86.68, $30.14, $16.18; CRYSTAL PRINCE, $9.46, $6.54; LEJOY, $16.40.

UMA, showing much improvement, was close up from the start and, racing well to the finish, held CRYSTAL PRINCE. Latter came fast through the stretch and was going gamely at the end. LEJOY made up ground steadily on the outside. I SAY was used up following WITEON in the early running and was tiring at finish. WITEON outbroke the others and set the pace, but tired and met with interference near the end. BRAVE AND BOLD, after hugging the rail most of the way, was blocked in the final eighth. LOVE OFFERING was in close quarters on the back stretch. TOMMIE KIRNAN could not keep up.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (Hawthorne course, out of chute). Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:45. Off at 2:49½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRAND PRINCE, $8.78, $5.08, $3.68; HAMILTON, $9.88, $5.72; PHANTASIME, $4.94.

GRAND PRINCE, never far from the pace, came gamely in the stretch to take command in the final eighth and held sway to the finish. HAMILTON had the most early speed and set the pace, but while holding on fairly well, could not resist winner. PHANTASIME was going gamely at end. CROSS BONES weakened after challenging briefly at stretch turn. AMERICAN THUNDER tired.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:19. Off at 3:22. Winner, H. T. Hatch's ch. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN FIRE, $4.48, $4.12, $3.54; CAIUS, $10.54, $6.08; GOLD MINT, $6.98.

SUN FIRE, in close quarters in the early running, was shuffled back in the first half mile, then came to the outside and racing fast through the final quarter, went down the center of the stretch and was going away at the finish. CAIUS set most of the pace and had a good lead turning for home, but could not hold winner. GOLD MINT made up ground and finished fairly well. DEVON was in close quarters after the start. ONE LONG HOP acted badly at the barrier and tired. PRINCESS EDITH also tired.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:49½. Off at 3:52. Winner, W. L. Johnson's br. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAGGADOCIO, $24.24, $12.40, $5.20; ELLEN N., $6.06, $4.22; THE SOUTHERNER $4.02.

BRAGGADOCIO was blocked rounding the first turn and was in close quarters during the back stretch run, but came gamely when clear and, catching ELLEN N. an eighth from the finish, was in front in the final drive. ELLEN N., after being headed the field at the stretch turn and held on fairly well when challenged. THE SOUTHERNER was in a pocket during the back stretch run, but was going well at the finish. HARPOON broke well, but could not keep up. NORTHAMPTON ran in four bandages and tired in the run home. SIR JOHN K. was shut off during the back stretch turn. WOLFY GAP showed some speed for six furlongs on the outside, then tired. STOP GAP went wide on first turn and was on the outside most of the way. TRUDGEON and WOLFY stopped badly.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Cuddler Purse. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:19. Off at 4:23. Winner, J. W. Marchbank's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GIVANNA $19.14, $7.28, $3.58; SHAKER LADY, $4.44, $2.78; OSCILLATION, $2.50.

GIVANNA, away to a quick to begin and, opening up a long lead after leaving the back stretch, showed the way to the finish to win easily. SHAKER LADY went well and, responding gamely to punishment, held OSCILLATION in the final drive. OSCILLATION was in close quarters in the first quarter, came to the outside and made up ground when clear and was gaining at the finish.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:48. Off at 4:48. Winner, C. E. Davison's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NO MORE, $6.58, $3.96 $2.80; SISKIN, $9.20, $5.78; SWEET SCENT, $4.04.

NO MORE, showing good speed from the start, held SISKIN safe throughout and was slowly drawing away at the finish. SISKIN displayed a return to good form and, after pressing the winner in the early stages, held on fairly well. SWEET SCENT saved ground around stretch turn and was going gamely at the end. LADDER, in close quarters after the start, was outrun all the way, although making up some ground in the stretch. EPITHET was prominent on the outside for a half, then tired.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SHADY REST, $69.46, $25.06, $15.06; MAECENAS, $8.10, $6.46; DELMONICO, $9.96.

SHADY REST headed the field during the back stretch run and, taking a good lead, was an easy winner. MAECENAS raced into contention after going a half and was good enough to hold others. DELMONICO made up ground in the stretch. SEARINGTON met with interference soon after the start, was shut off and forced to pull up while racing well at the far turn and could not overcome the handicap. AVIATOR weakened after reaching a contending position.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:44½. Off at 5:48. Winner, br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MODERN TIMES, $6.24, $4.18, $2.82; ALBAZANO, $4.94, $3.40; WATERPORT, $3.16.

MODERN TIMES went to the front at once and, racing well, showed the way throughout to win easily. ALBAZANO was off slowly, but soon reached a contending position, bore out on the back stretch and around the far turn and weakened slightly after challenging the winner in the stretch. WATERPORT could not keep up, but outgamed the others in the final drive. HIS LAST tired after challenging on far turn.

SAKS AND DIXIE PIGS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY ON SUNDAY

Neutral Field Is Scene of Contest

Capital City League Unlimited Title to Winner.

Payne and Jones to Meet on Mound at Maryland.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE Dixie Pigs and Saks Clothiers will clash in the third and deciding game of their series to decide the District championship of The Post's Capital City League Sunday at 3 p. m. in the University of Maryland Stadium. The winner meets the champion Takoma Tigers for the Metropolitan championship.

The Dixie Pigs are beginning to wonder if the old phrase, "always a bridesmaid but never a bride," will sum up the story of their second quest in search of The Post's Capital City League championship, for just when it looked like a walkaway with the District honors and more than an even chance of stopping the champion Takoma Tigers, the Saks corpse resurrected itself and provided a real nightmare for the Marylanders in the form of a 5-4 defeat.

Hugh Waldrop frankly believes he has r nded up the bes sandlot talent available for his team this season, and with the breaks of the game evenly divided he is positive in his assertion that the team can take the measure of any of them. The so-called "breaks" are what worry energetic Mr. Waldrop, and he is fearful lest his team lose its chance to battle the Tigers for the right to the crown were on the receiving end of all of the Waldrop still thinks the Clothiers "breaks" in Sunday's game, and that his team outplayed its rival.

Saks Won on "Home" Diamond.

To begin with, the Clothiers played on a field which was more familiar to them than to the Dixies. Saks had played the majority of its independent games on this diamond, the South Ellipse, and one or two league games, whereas it was only the Pigs' second visit to the city this season and their first on that particular diamond.

Waldrop consented to playing the game there merely for the benefit of the fans who would have been unable to make the trip to Maryland U. to witness the struggle. With the game back on the university field, however, Waldrop states that there will be no doubt about the winner this time, for his nine is going to win and by a large score.

Dick Mothershead, however, voices the opinion that his city slickers are going to put another one over on their opponents Sunday. Dick is proud of the fact that his team was the first to defeat the Pigs, but he regards it as nothing unusual, for he set out to win a championship and he is determined to realize this ambition.

The Clothiers demonstrated their fighting ability to the satisfaction of some 5,000 fans in the last game, and, take it from Dick, they have just begun to fight.

Jones and Payne To Pitch.

The Dixies' chances of winning Sunday will rest with "Lazy Lefty" Jones, who probably would pitch sitting in an armchair if permitted to use such a convenience. Lefty regards the Clothiers with disdain. "Why, they're just a bunch of lucky kids," he remarked. "I'm not pitching my head off to beat them. I want a crack at the Tigers."

Lefty may be right, for he stood the Saks batters on their heads when he took up the hurling duties in the second game, and in the first they couldn't touch him with a canoe paddle.

"Wild Bill" Payne, the lanky kid who pitched for Saks in that memorable second game, may toe the mound in the series final, and he will be ready for the game of his life if he does. Right now Payne's big ambition is to set the cocky Section A champs down with only one or two hits. Up until the sixth inning of the last game he had a no-hit, no-run game, but then he became erratic. Sunday, however, he will either shut them out or be knocked out, he says.

VICTORIOUS RELAY IN PLAYGROUND SWIM

M'LEAN BOWS IN WESTERN TENNIS

Capital Youth Loses in Singles But Gains Doubles Crown.

DELAFIELD, WIS., Aug. 6.—Jock McLean, of Washington, fourth ranking boy player in the country last year, was eliminated in the boys' semifinals of the Western junior and boys' tennis tournament of the courts of the St. John's Military Academy here today. McLean lost to Gene Mako, Glendale, Calif., 6—1, 6—1.

The Washington boy put up a hard battle, but could not match his skill and speed with that of the Pacific Coast player. Mako outdrove McLean and passed him with beautiful placements. Mako breezed through the first set with ease, but had to fight hard to wrest a victory from the Washington youth in the second set.

Before losing to Mako, McLean had disposed of Robert Brumder, Milwaukee, and Willard Stafford, Oshkosh, Wis., by one-sided scores.

Pairs With Parker To Win Doubles.

Paired with Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, J. McLean won the boys' doubles championship in the Western Junior and Boys' Tennis Tournament today by defeating Richard Weigler, Milwaukee, and John Shostrum, Chicago, 6—0, 6—4. The victory of the Parker-McLean combination was decisive. In a semifinal match, Parker and McLean won from Paul Rubin, Milwaukee, and Everitt Holden, Austin, Tex., 6—0, 6—0.

Burroughs, D. C. Golfer, Beaten in Consolation

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—Bradley Burrough, Washington representative, lost in a 36-hole play-off for the public links consolation tournament championship here today. Don Spratfaci, of Brooklyn, carried off the honors, scoring 153.

Diamond Dust

BILL M'CREA'S Auth unlimiteds are down on the books for a game with the Del Ray A. C. Saturday at 3 p. m. on Diamond No. 9 of the Monument Grounds. The Southwest gang will attempt to make it two straight Sunday (Bill says his team will win Saturday) when they face the jinx of all District teams, the St. Mary's Celtics, at 2:30 p. m. on Baggett's Field. McCracken probably will hurl against the Celtics.

Jim McNamara's Jewish Community Center nine, undefeated to date, will tackle Tony Burruto's Italian Villagers Sunday at 3 p. m. on the Center's Field. Members of both teams are requested to report on the field at 2 p. m.

The Kanawha A. C., boasting a record of seventeen wins in twenty-two games, would like to add another game to the right side of the ledger. All unlimited teams are challenged for a game Sunday. Manager Sam Jeweler is doing the booking at Decatur 1982.

"Wee Willie" Glascoe's Griffith-Blue Coals will oppose the Capitol Heights A. C. Sunday at 3 p. m. on the Seat Pleasant diamond.

The Skinker Eagles are without a game for Saturday and are anxious to play a strong unlimited team. Manager "Ham" Clipper can be reached at Emerson 7474 after 6 p. m. Sunday the Eagles play host to the Washington Terminal team at 3 p. m.

The North View A. C. has a diamond but no opponent for a game Sunday. Manager Tracey would like to hear from a strong unlimited team at Decatur 5773-J after 6 p. m.

In preparation for Sunday's Capital City League game the Franc Jewelers will drill tomorrow afternoon at 3 p. m. on diamond No. 3 of the Monument Grounds.

The Ross Jewelers will meet today at 4:30 p. m. on diamond No. 1 of the Monument Grounds. All players are requested to report promptly. The Jewelers want an out of town game for Sunday. Manager Lawrence can be reached at Atlantic 0767 after 6 p. m.

Manager "Connie" Wyche's Majestic Radio tossers will attempt to gain their second win of the season over the Chevy Chase Grays when they meet on the latter's diamond Saturday at 3 p. m. Sunday the Majestics will go to Winchester, Va. for a pair of games with the home team. All members of the team are requested to meet at 9 a. m. at 932 H street northwest before leaving for the game.

The City View Heights team is anxious to schedule a strong unlimited nine for a game Sunday. Manager Norris is arranging the schedule at Lincoln 7730-W after 6 p. m.

The Fairlawn Midgets are looking for a game with a strong midget team for Sunday. Teams interested should call Manager White at Atlantic 1581-W.

The Isherwood A. C. is without a game for Sunday, due to a cancellation. Manager George Honey would like to book a strong unlimited opponent. He can be reached at Lincoln 5233.

"Snitz" Nau's Olmsted Grill Team has another busy week-end on the diamond ahead of it. Saturday the Grillmen meet the Nation-Wide Grocers of Alexandria at 3 p. m. on Hayden's field, while on Sunday Brooke Grubb's Howitzer Giants are booked for a game at Garrett Park.

The reorganized Foxall A. C. is seeking games with strong unlimited clubs. The team has won twelve of its last seventeen games. The squad now playing in Foxall livery is composed of the following: H. Dixon, L. Dixon, Mattare, Pennyfield, Harrington, McGeever, Trilling, Tompkins, Gartland, Gold, Ready, Wynne, W. Woody and Smith. Sunday the German's Bakery nine will be met on the Foxall field at 3 p. m.

and conquering Wesley Casper, of Louisville, in the afternoon by the same margin.

Greenway, rated from the start as a contender because of his form in practice and qualifying rounds, had a stirring fight in the morning before he disposed of Bill Heinlein, Indianapolis, 1 up, but breezed to a 3-to-1 triumph on his second round over Harry Ramsay, of Pittsburgh.

House Painter Among Survivors.

The other quarter-finalists were Joe Merola, a house painter from New York, who defeated Johnny Banks, Chicago, 2 up, and Spencer Overton, Baltimore, 3 and 2; Charles Albertus, of Philadelphia, who dropped George Meade, Portland, Oreg., 1 up, and Joe Fabrizio, Brooklyn laborer, 2 and 1 after an uphill fight in which he came from behind to win by taking three holes in succession; Joe Bommarito, a Detroit plumber, who eliminated Art Nutting, Louisville, 3 and 2, and Edgar Bolstad, hope of Minneapolis, 2 and 1, and Horace Lacey, Little Rock, who tripped Ralph Sigler, Baltimore, 5 and 4, and Howard Pousette, St. Paul, 1 up after a 19-hole struggle and Al Priebe, of St. Paul, who put out James Bushong, of Portland, 1 up, and George Bradley, of Philadelphia, 3 and 1.

Ferrara shot the best golf of the field today for his victory. He scored a 38, 2 over par, to Mitchell's 40 to gain a 2 up advantage at the turn and froze out his opponent with subpar golf the rest of the way to win. In the afternoon he fell 1 down to Gourlay at the end of the first nine with a 40, but came back to win again with par golf.

Tomorrow's quarter-final matches, all over 18 holes or less, bring Priebe against Nicholas, and Merola against Greenway, in the upper bracket; while Albertus meets Bommarito and Lacey tackles Ferrara in the lower bracket.

ROSEDALE'S SWIMMERS PICKED

Eliminations Show East Pool to Have Strong Team.

A FORMIDABLE team was selected in the Rosedale Playground tank yesetrday to represent the Eastern section of the city. Boys who placed in yesterday's swim meet are eligible to compete against the Western section team which will be selected today in the Georgetown Pool.

Capital City Juniors Start Play-Off Sunday

The Stewart's Pharmacy Team is indignant at the thought of being rated second to the Schwartz Jewelers whom they meet Sunday in the first of a three-game series to decide the junior championship of The Post's Capital City League. The game will be played at 3 p. m. on the West Ellipse. No sooner had the word been passed around that the Pharmacists were regarded as under dogs when a self-appointed committee of one comprising "Mac" McNally, captain of the team, announced in no uncertain terms that not only would his team win the championship, but that they would do it in two straight games.

NATION-WIDE CANCELS.

The Nation-Wide Grocers are forced to cancel their game scheduled with the Wheaton A. C. for Saturday, due to a mix-up in their schedule.

NET LEAGUES IN STRETCH DRIVES

Week-End to Bring Important Battles in D. C. Loops.

THE stretch drive in several local tennis leagues swings into full action over the week-end with the Public Parks and Capital City Leagues proffering perhaps the most decisive matches on their schedules.

Tomorrow will decide the fate of Henry Park in the parks circuit. Three full matches behind the league-leading Potomac Park group, Henry faces a stern foe in Monument, which boasts of the services of Barney Welsh, Alan Staubly, Muscoe Garnett and others. Potomac has the softer spot tomorrow, being on the books to meet Rock Creek, holders of next-to-last place in the standings.

Henry's fair chance of duplicating its 1930 and 1928 victories in the league rests, to some extent, on the losses recently suffered by the Potomac Team. Four of that group's mainstays, Bob Elliott, Lieut. D. D. Hedekin and Majs. J. H. Hills and L. S. Hobbs, have been forced to cease operations. Henry has been strengthened by the return of Bud Markey and Bob Considine to its line-up, although Gilbert Hunt will be among the missing tomorrow.

Montrose Plays Taft.

Montrose meets Taft in the other parks league match tomorrow at Taft. Henry will play at the Monument group of courts, and Potomac at Sixteenth and Kennedy.

In the Suburban League tomorrow, Standards, far out in front, will play the tail-end Wesley Heights Team, and Lakeview will endeavor to hold its No. 2 position in the league over Argyle.

Sunday's Capital City League matches find Edgewood, the league toppers, idle, and Pan-Americans engaging Commonwealth, Filipino playing Washington Grove and Veterans' Bureau meeting Claremont.

PASS GATE GUARDIAN PINES FOR HIS SHACK

up the ramp bumped into him and the man said, "Oh, I beg your pardon." The kid looked up and recognized Connie Mack and gulped some astonished reply. Three of four people with faces all alike—just faces out of a crowd—bustled up to grab Connie's hand and congratulate him on winning another pennant. Connie has seen millions of faces like those and shaken thousands of those hand but he still manages to seem sincere when he thanks them and most likely he really is.

We fell to talking about ball players and their money and the old man said the big money men on his club such as Grove, Earnshaw, Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx were saving theirs.

"How much?" I asked. "Maybe 50 per cent of their pay and world series money."

"Oh, more," said Mr. Mack. "These are smart ball-players. They know they wont last for ever and they have not been living up to their income at all. They will all have plenty of money when they are through.

"I like them that way. A player who is saving his money isn't going in for a lot of—" and at this point, I give you my word, old Connie Mack, that almost priestly manager and, to a certain extent, spiritual councellor of his ball-players, used a swear word. "A player who is saving his money," he said, "is not going in for a lot of gol-dam foolishness." Unmistakably Connie Mack used the word gol-dam.

"I like that boy Waite Hoyt," he went on, "but I wish he could learn to love the game again. He is only a young fellow still, with a lot of years of good pitching ahead of him if he just decides to start all over with the same enthusiasm he had when he was just coming up. He weighs too much for one thing. Kid Gleason has had him out there stooping for them in field practice and it is doing him good. But when the game becomes work to a player he loses something. Gol-dam, baseball is a game isn't it? It's play. A fellow ought to love to play."

I was growing accustomed to his vile language.

Grove Is Changed Fellow.

"That Bob Grove is a changed fellow from what he was when I first got him. Why, five years ago, you remember how I told you how if he lost a ball game he would go off to his room and suck on a cigar and have nothing to say to anybody? Well, sir, now-days he's a team player, all for the team. He used to get so sore and try to throw them by the batters. Now he's as smart as almost any pitcher you'll see, and plays for the team all the time. He has come out of himself; developed.

"Yes, Bob and Earnshaw are great pitchers. I don't see how you can compare them with great pitchers of the past. I would not know how to compare Grove with Rube Waddell, for instance. The conditions of the game are different now. But Grove and Earnshaw will rank with the great pitchers years from now."

My resistance to an example of vice and sin is very low. The swear word came spontaneously.

"You're Gol-dam right they will," I said to Mr. Mack.

Tennis Party Tonight Is Due, Rain or Shine

The tennis party to be held tonight at the Arlington Hotel, the revenue of which will defray the expenses of Washington's representatives in the national public parks tournament to be held in Detroit beginning August 17, will not be affected by adverse weather, since, if it rains, the ballroom instead of the roof will be used.

Dancing will start at 9:30 o'clock tonight and several special vaudeville acts have been booked to add to the merriment of the nondancers. Tickets for the event, priced at $1, may be obtained at the roof tonight, or at the Tennis Shop during the day.

Joe Turner Flaunts Londos' Pact With $10,000 Stipend

Promoter of Bout With Dusek Here Tuesday Has Contract Proudly on Exhibition at Office; 15,000 Expected to See Match.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THERE is on exhibition at the sumptuous headquarters of the local wrestling institute, in the Annapolis Hotel, a bit of parchment which states in the forthright manner of a contract that one James Londos will receive the sum of $10,000 and no cents for fraternizing with the chassis of one Rudy Dusek at Griffith Stadium next Tuesday night.

There it rests, proudly displayed by Mr. Joseph Turner and his host of cauliflowered advisers, all of whom stoutly maintain that it really means $10,000 and no cents. The bottom of the handsome document is bedecked with the scrawls of Messrs. Turner, George King, Ed White and the kid himself. Londos' signature is the most legible.

If this be true, Londos will be hitting his top peak in financial remuneration for an evening's work, according to the experts who keep a close tab on the affairs of Jack Curley's wrestling politics. The great twenty-odd thousand turnouts for Londos' Garden matches last winter against Holuban, Gariboldi and Steel, and his Milk Fund exhibition with Steel, netted him even doses of $10,000.

Figures to Earn $200,000.

His other purses range from $500 up, but usually stay more in the neighborhood of $500 than $10,000. If he keeps up his schedule for the year he will clear about $200,000 for the fiscal 365 days, making his boardroom-given title just twice as important as the heavyweight boxing diadem in the present depressing state of the ring game.

Dusek, as reported, is putting in his 58 minutes or so in Londos' bronzed presence for a mere 50 per cent of the net, which, if advance ticket selling means anything, promises to run a bit over $1,000. The $7,500 mark was passed yesterday at the syndicate's offices at the hotel, the biggest two-day sale for tickets the city has ever kicked in.

That the gate will reach 15,000, a new high mark for the profession in Washington, is confidently predicted by friends and foes of the art hereabouts. At one of the numerous former meetings between these two gentlemen, nearly 5,000 fans unexpectedly presented themselves at the one-buck wickets just before the start of the bout.

These fans, and several thousand others, are no kin to the dyed-in-the-wool mat addicts who go to the run-of-the-mill weekly bouts with the same resigned routine with which people go to church. Jim Londos alone can really fill the pews. His sermon of the airplane spin and his epistle of the neck lock bring disciples hundredfold.

Pennsylvania Bad Men Booked.

Working on the assumption that what is goose for the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission is sauce for local fans, Turner yesterday signed up Tiny Roebuck and George Zaharias, both of whom were barred Wednesday from future appearances in the bailiwick of Mr. Pinchot, for refusing to make faces at each other in an exhibition at Philadelphia.

The big Indian is booked to meet the recently metamorphosed Miss Steinborn, who has become, miraculously enough, one of the baddest men in the profession, with jabs and snarls and everything to boot. Zaharias, who doesn't see a great deal of local fans, meets Blue Son Jennings. Already matched are Babe Caddock and Karl Pojello, which leaves Tiny Jim McNamara still a wallflower. Turner, however, promises that his partner will soon be named.

Returning to the $10,000 contract, there is a portion which reads that the aforementioned $10,000 and no cents will be paid whether the champion "wins, loses or draws."

Will the 2-year-old boy in the second row tell us which one it's going to be?

LINDBERGHS BOOKING.

The Lindbergh A. C. of Mount Rainier would like to arrange a game with a strong or unlimited team for Sunday. The "Lindys" have their own field. Teams interested should call Business Manager Haskins at Hyattsville 221 after 6:30 p. m.

Reds End Defeats, Beating Pirates, 3-2

Pittsburgh, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Reds of Cincinnati snapped out of a losing streak today to make three runs off Glenn Spencer in the eighth inning and defeat Pittsburgh 3 to 2. The win was the first for the Ohioans in eight games and the runs were the only tallies made off Pittsburgh in the last four games the teams have played.

Doubles by Heathcote and Stripp, a three-base wild throw by Spencer and Hendrick's sacrifice and Cuccinello's long fly gave the Reds their three markers.

GIANTS RELEASE PAIR.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Giants today announced the release of Pitcher William Morrell to Bridgeport, of the Eastern League and Pitcher Hal Schumacher to Rochester of the International, both on option.

Home Run by Reynolds Wins for White Sox, 7-6

Chicago, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A seventh-inning assault on Rip Collins and Walter Stewart, featured by Carl Reynolds' long home run, gave the White Sox a 7-to-6 victory over St. Louis today.

Collins had held the Sox helpless after the first inning when they scored three times, but the seventh was good for four more runs and a victory. Pat Caraway was hit hard and gave way to Tommy Thomas, but was credited with the victory, his ninth of the season.

STOCK SALES CLOSE WITH SLIGHT LOSSES

Uneventful Session Features Market in Turnover of 920,764 Shares.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Stocks passed through an uneventful session today. Numerous principal shares varied hardly a point in either direction, although they spent more time in lower than in higher ground.

Enough covering appeared toward the close to bring a sprinkling of small gains among the leaders, but the average of 90 issues showed a net loss of seven-eighths of a point. Sales totaled 920,764 shares, the largest of the week.

U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas touched new minimums for the decline, with the exception of Gas, however, they closed with something to the good. Telephone was quiet, perhaps because fears concerning the dividend had been allayed. The latest bit of gossip concerning that stock's recent weakness says the holding of a large estate were being liquidated. In any event the supply was less plentiful today and the stock finished with a gain of 1½.

New York Central Drops.

New York Central, which seems to be reflecting speculative fears for the $6 dividend, broke to 71½, the lowest since 1921, and ended the day half a point off the bottom for a loss of ⅞. Other rails making new lows included Illinois Central, Great Northern preferred, Southern Railway and Canadian Pacific, but on the whole the group was rather inconspicuous. Amusements were heavy in sympathy with Fox. Radio, whose six months' report revealed earning $35,000 over preferred dividend requirements, was dull. Auburn weakened.

Sterling exchange improved although Paris took $10,000,000 in gold from London. The Bank of England's statement disclosed a moderate gain in gold and a rise in the reserve ratio to 41.2 per cent from 32.4 per cent a week ago. Sterling cables improved as much as a quarter cent, but the net gain was nominal. Yesterday's break remained unexplained.

Domestic news contained little nourishment for either market party. Federal Reserve brokers' loans dropped $44,000,000, which meant another new low total, continuing the trend of recent weeks. In only eight weeks this year have loans shown a gain. There has been a steady decline since the period ended July 2.

Average Stock Prices.

Stock prices, as measured by the averages, are still about 10 points above the early June minimums. The markdown of quoted values in July was heavy, amounting to nearly $3,000,000,000, which measures the deflation in sentiment that accompanied the German financial troubles and the protracted negotiations over the Hoover moratorium.

Latin-American currencies were firmer, helped materially by Argentina's decision to maintain her credit fully, even to the extent of paying off her $50,000,000 short-term loan in gold. European rates fluctuated irregularly, featured by the Spanish peseta's tumble and easiness of the French franc.

Weak foreign markets and bearish Canadian government estimates gave an easy tone to wheat, which was off ½ to ⅝ of a cent net. Corn was depressed to the extent of approximately 1 to 2 cents, reflecting bearish Kansas forecasts and large exports from the Argentine. Cotton rallied temporarily, but came under renewed pressure and made new lows, off 2 to 3 points at the close.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Hope gleamed at least temporarily for grain owners today after all cereals had dropped to fresh bottom price records here following new collapses at Liverpool. The Chicago wheat market finished with slight rallies due more or less to late reports that owing to extreme cheapness United States wheat was being used for every possible purpose now from flour to alcohol. Large purchasing of wheat by feed manufacturers was noted at Cincinnati, with deferred orders refused.

Wheat closed unsettled, ½ to ⅞ cent lower than yesterday's finish, corn ⅝ to 1⅞ cents down, oats unchanged to ¼ cent off and provisions unchanged to 25 cents setback.

Most of the time today Chicago wheat prices tended downward, influenced by Liverpool dispatches saying confidence of buyers abroad had been destroyed and that wheat shipments from Russia were on a big scale, expanding to 3,080,000 bushels during the last week, compared with 912,000 the previous and 712,000 a year ago. Stop-loss selling developed in wheat and rye here, but lack of purchasers rather than unusual pressure of selling accounted for price breaks. All wheat, rye and oats future deliveries outdid this season's lowest levels, September wheat reaching an all-time bottom record for that month. December corn the lowest point since 1906, and September oats the lowest since 1900.

Supporting orders for September wheat came into action after the all-time low record had been outdone first at 47⅞ cents and later at 47¾. A bolstering factor was announcement that exports sales of 2,000,000 bushels of hard winter wheat to China had been made on the Pacific Coast in the last week or ten days. There were also clearances of 900,000 bushels for overseas today from Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic ports. Another source of encouragement was word that feeders and mills were taking all the wheat offered in the western half of Nebraska and were paying 3 to 5 cents a bushel higher than Omaha spot quotations.

Only September corn failed to get into new low prices for the season. September corn represents the old 1930 crop, quotations on which went soaring in the July squeeze. December corn, which stands for the new 1931 crop, was particularly weak, affected by scattered beneficial rains and by prospects of more. Corn crop damage reports from Nebraska, western Iowa and northern portions of the corn belt were numerous, but had little market effect. Oats dropped with corn.

Provisions were in slow demand, notwithstanding firmness of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September, 47⅛-¼; 48¼; December, 50¾-⅞; 52⅛-¼; March, 53¾ bid; May, 55⅝, 57. Corn—September, 48⅝-49, 51⅝; December, 39⅝-¾, 40⅝; May, 43⅜, 35⅛.

BONDS AGAIN LOWER AS RAILS LEAD DROP

Industrial Issues Record Slight Gain in Irregular Market Shifts.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The bond market declined irregularly today, and the larger losses were concentrated largely among railroad and foreign issues.

The average price for ten leading rail loans closed seven-tenths of a point lower at 96.9, which is only a little above the 1931 low level. The public utility average was unchanged, while the industrial figure showed a slight gain.

Lower prices in the rails appeared first among the second grade loans, but the movement became inclusive by the end of trading. The breadth of the decline may be realized from the fact that such bonds as Missouri Pacific series A 5s, New York Central general 3½s, Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s and 6s of 1995, Canadian Pacific 4½s and Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s reached new minimum levels on heavy sales. Pennsylvania 4¾s of 1963 and the series D 4¼s of 1981 equalled their old record low prices. A large number of rail issues closed with varying net losses for the day.

Final sales of foreign obligations were made at generally lower prices. The decline among them was far from uniform although Brazilian, Chilean and Argentine bonds made group losses. German loans were mixed. The 5½s of 1965 and the 7s of 1949 were consistently strong but many of the provincial, municipal and corporate issues closed lower.

Bonds of the United States Government experienced moderate activity without showing a definite trend.

Public utility and industrial issues kept close to yesterday's final levels, but they were both inclined to sag at times. The former were more active than the latter. American Telephone 5s of 1960, Consolidated Gas 4½s of 1951, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, Philadelphia Co. gold 5s, Philadelphia Electric 4½s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and Western Union 5s of 1960 closed steady or firm after active trading.

LEGAL NOTICES

MALCOLM HUFTY, Attorney.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia. Richard J. Carr, 733 Twelfth street northwest, Plaintiff, vs. John H. Walter, Trustee, et al., Defendants. In Equity, No. 53046. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to obtain a decree establishing of record plaintiff's title in fee simple to part of original lot numbered 16, in square numbered 847, being premises No. 723 Sixth street southeast, City of Washington, District of Columbia, and described by metes and bounds in the bill filed herein. Upon motion of the plaintiff, it is, by the Court, this 30th day of July, 1931, ordered that the defendant, John H. Walter, trustee, cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication hereof; otherwise as to him this cause will be proceeded with as in case of default; and it is further ordered that the unknown heirs, alienees and devisees of John Brown, ——— Brown and ——— Ives, trading as Brown & Ives; John Innes Clark, George Gibbs, Walter Channing, Samuel Eliot, James McHenry, Robert Oliver, William Cook and of James Hindman cause their appearance to be entered herein on or before the first rule day occurring one month after the day of the first publication hereof; otherwise as to them this cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided a copy hereof be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post, longer and other publications being dispensed with for satisfactory cause shown. JAMES M. PROCTOR, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By H. B. DERTZBAUGH, Assistant Clerk. jy31.au7.14

LEGIONNAIRES URGE DRY ACT REPEAL AT DISTRICT GATHERING

Vote 82 to 38 That Prohibition Is Failure and Menace; Debate Stormy.

CHARTER FOR AUXILIARY IN CAPITAL IS GRANTED

Officers Are Named and Will Be Installed Tonight; Shortage Bared.

By a vote of 82 to 38 the Department of the District of Columbia of the American Legion adopted a resolution urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment after a stormy hour of debate at its thirteenth annual convention last night at the Buchanan School in Southeast Washington.

The prohibition law was condemned in the resolution as "having failed in its purpose" and as having caused a condition "endangering the justice, temperance, freedom and security of the homes and prosperity of the United States."

Before the final roll call on the resolution was taken, Gen. Amos A. Fries, a past commander of the District Department, appealed to the convention to table the matter because, he said, he believed it to be an issue that the legion would be better off leaving alone.

$4,000 Embezzlement Revealed.

Embezzlement of $4,000 subscribed by members of the District Legion posts to the Community Chest between June, 1929 and May, 1930, was revealed in the finance report by Clyde B. Stovall. All but $918 has been paid back by the person accused of the embezzlement, it was announced.

Another stormy hour of debate was devoted to the proposal to deprive past commanders of the right to vote. The proposal was voted down. Amid lusty cheers in which feminine voices predominated a resolution was adopted urging restoration of the charter for a department of the legion auxiliary in the District.

Lynching and mob violence was condemned in another resolution. Other measures indorsed included: Retirement of veterans in Government service after 30 years' employment; employment of former service unemployed in place of married women whose husbands are making $3,600 or more a year and payment of the remainder of adjusted compensation certificates.

Leave for Reserve Officers.

Others included leave with pay for reserve corps officers during encampment periods coupled with the charge that in opposing this the Veterans Administration is attacking the National Defense act; reinstatement of veterans discharged from the District repair shop; 30 days' annual leave for police and firemen and preference to former service men before the Civil Service Commission.

The following new officers were nominated: Ferdinand G. Fraser, of Sergt. Jasper Post, commander; Richard A. O'Brien, of Costello Post, first vice commander; Helen M. Sprague, of U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post, second vice commander, and William H. McGrath, Washington Police Post, third vice commander.

These officers will be installed tonight at the final session of the convention.

Soldiers Home Inmate Removed to Gallinger

Because he is classed as an undesirable by some soldiers attached to Walter Reed Hospital, George Underhill, 34, was arrested last night and sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation. He was taken into custody while eating ice cream in a restaurant near the hospital.

Underhill told Thirteenth Precinct police he is an inmate of the Soldiers Home.

During a scuffle at the police station Private J. J. McAulisse received contusions of the head. Underhill was subdued by three other policemen.

Business Men Urge Rail Line Terminal

Central Association Favors Depot Site for Virginia Electric Cars.

Granting of permission to the Virginia electric railway systems by the Public Utilities Commission to enter the District via Fourteenth street northwest, across Pennsylvania avenue with erection of a terminal building somewhere in the congested business section was strongly favored by the Central Business Men's Association at its weekly business luncheon held at the Hotel Logan yesterday.

Decision was also made at the luncheon to collect a fund to carry the fight for rezoning the 1300 block of Rhode Island avenue northwest, into the courts in the event of the zoning commission further refusing to rezone the block for commercial purposes.

Arthur Clarendon Smith and Edward H. Young were delegated by the association to represent it before the Utilities Commission on the railway matter, while Wilbur L. Gray and Vincent Toomey were named as attorneys to handle the association's fight in the rezoning proposition. A number of talks by representatives of other civic organizations were heard by the business men's group.

Man Says Few Drinks Put Him Out Like Light

A few swallows from a half gallon jar of liquor that had cost him 50 cents put Edward Jones, colored, "out like a light" he told Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday in Police Court. His personal bond was taken.

Jones testified he had carried 12 tons of coal into various Washington cellars and that he felt somewhat fatigued and hot after his exertion. He said he bought a half gallon of liquor for "four bits" but he did not get very far on it before a policeman arrested him up on Seventh street.

NIGHT BLOOMING CEREUS BLOSSOMS FORTH HERE

When the night blooming cereus, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doig, 5315 Cathedral avenue, opened its delicate petals Wednesday night, it was a neighborhood event. In the picture are shown the unusual plant and several of its admirers. Mr. Doig is standing in the middle. The cereus is 7 years old and this is the third consecutive year it has bloomed. It started to bloom at 7 o'clock, reached its fullest beauty at midnight and then closed up for another year.

RECEIVERSHIP ORDER CONTESTED IN FILING

Mayflower Attorneys Answer Bill Entered by Mrs. Willebrandt.

Steps were taken yesterday by attorneys for the Mayflower Hotel Co., and the Mayflower Hotel Corporation to set aside the recent order of Justice Peyton Gordon in placing the Mayflower Hotel in the hands of receivers, through a formal answer filed in the District Supreme Court to the bill of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, attorney for a group of second mortgage noteholders.

The lengthy arguments of Attorney William E. Leahy, made verbally before Justice Gordon, were adopted by the Mayflower attorneys in their answer.

In an affidavit that was filed with the answer, Attorney Edmund M. Toland, who with William J. Hughes, jr., and Mr. Leahy, represents the Mayflower in the action, declared that Mrs. Willebrandt had refused to sign a receipt for service of a copy of the answer. He said that through her associate, William M. Smith, she had declined to accept the document, though she was in the office at the time.

It was learned that Mrs. Willebrandt is of the opinion that the answer was not filed within ten days, and is therefore in default. The opposing lawyers deny the default, claiming that Justice Gordon did not set any time limit, and that in addition, Mrs. Willebrandt lost a ruling by default because she did not appear in the District Supreme Court before the answer was filed, to ask for a "decree pro confesso," which is technically a judgment that is given in default of an answer.

Warmer Weather Continues Today

Kiosk Goes Haywire When Needle Approaches Mark of 100 Degrees.

Warmer weather which returned to Washington yesterday is expected to continue today. Partly cloudy skies will temper the sunrays at intervals, according to the forecast.

The maximum official temperature was 95 yesterday, the second hottest day this week. Humidity was low at the warmest period, a percentage of 26 being registered at about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue was overcome by the heat yesterday afternoon after sending the needle up to within a shade of 100 degrees. Next to cold water faucets, this instrument has been the most overworked object in the city this summer. It will resume work today after treatment.

One prostration was reported yesterday. William J. Biddle, 23 years old, of 635 A street northeast, collapsed while at work on the sixth floor of 930 H street northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital and dismissed.

Rate Cut Notice Filed By City Cab Company

The City Cab Co. yesterday notified the Public Utilities Commission of its intention to reduce rates to the 20-40-60 cent basis. It is the fourth large operator to adopt this fare.

The City Cab Co. was one of the operators which entered the agreement to keep its rates within the 25-50-75 cent minimum and the 35-60-85 cent maximum. It had adopted the minimum.

Dance Lure Halts Pair's Plan to Wed

Because he felt the urge to participate in another marathon dance contest, with hopes of winning, Frank Miller, 54, postponed a wedding yesterday, when he was to have married Mrs. Emma Heincke, 59, from whom he was divorced eighteen years ago.

One of the causes for the marital delay was the fact that the original minister who was supposed to have married the couple was on his vacation. This was discovered Wednesday night. Yesterday morning the couple went to the license bureau and the clerk had to substitute the name of another minister, whose office did not open until 9 o'clock.

Mr. Miller could not wait that long, as he wanted to get to Atlantic City in time to prepare for the marathon, so he and his prospective bride agreed to postpone the wedding until he returned from the contest, which may be in September or may be this week, depending upon the question of whether or not he can obtain a partner. The marathon begins this afternoon and will, of course, continue indefinitely.

Mr. Miller has won several marathons, one in Dayton, Ohio, three years ago, his first marathon dance, where he won first prize after dancing for 1,500 hours, and one in Chicago in 1930, which he won with a record of 2,832 hours and 4½ minutes on the floor. Three years ago this August he walked from Washington to Indianapolis with a 40-pound weight on his head, and a few months after his arrival skated on roller skates for 600 hours. He also won a race in Bavaria in 1894 of 137 miles in 19 hours and 17 minutes.

Boy, Often a Runaway, Again Sought by Police

Charles Mitchell, 10, who disappeared Sunday afternoon from his home at 308 E street northwest was still missing last night, according to police.

The boy's father, who reported to police Wednesday, said that his son has run away several times, doing so in the first case when he was 3 years old. Several times in the past, Mr. Mitchell said, he has found Charles sleeping in automobiles, suffering from exposure.

Woman Overcome By Gas Is Revived

Fumes From Stove Fell Capital Wife; Rescue Steps Effective.

Fumes fom a gas stove nearly caused the asphyxiation yesterday of Mrs. Margaret Girton, 2411 Observatory place northwest, who stumbled to a telephone and informed her mother, Mrs. Dora Talbert, 3671 Benton street northwest, of her plight.

Mrs. Talbert notified the Fire Rescue Squad and rushed to her daughter's home. The young woman was found lying unconscious on the kitchen floor but the rescue squad members, applying respiration treatment, quickly revived her.

An Emergency Hospital physician pronounced Mrs. Girton's condition as not serious. Police were informed that the incident was unintentional. Mrs. Girton is the wife of H. R. Girton, jr., owner of an ice company.

Police Asked to Seek Girl.

Police last night were asked to look out for 13-year-old Louise Chilcoppe, who became separated from her sister, Mrs. Marion Gosvin, in Glen Echo Park yesterday afternoon. Both are from Alexandria, Va.

Wife in Bogus Check Case Wins Leniency of Judge

Credulity of a Philadelphia kindergarten teacher, which made her the easy tool of her fiance, a bogus check artist, brought her yesterday to the shadow of the penitentiary, from which she was saved by leniency of Judge Ralph Given.

Mrs. Genevieve Friel, 25 years old, mother of two children, was placed on one year's probation after Judge Given heard her story of how she had unwittingly become the tool of H. Dosher, who was last week sentenced to 66 years in prison for passing worthless checks in Baltimore.

Mrs. Friel, whose husband deserted her several years ago, had passed several fraudulent checks for Dosher on Washington merchants.

A crowded courtroom was held spellbound as the prisoner related her story of early marriage to a man she had to support and who later deserted her to marry another woman. Then she met Dosher, she said, a boarder in her mother's home.

He promised to marry her and went with her to Washington, ostensibly for a job. While here he sent her out to cash checks for him, which she said he told her were in payment of debts owed to him.

Then they went to Baltimore, she said, where the same procedure was followed. It was there he was arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary.

Mrs. Friel was to have been tried earlier in the week, but she fainted while on the witness stand.

Judge Given told her to go home to her mother and children.

MOVE FAILS TO LINK FOUR IN NEW CRIMES

100 Holdup Victims View Men Held in Slaying of Mannie Solomon.

Although more than 100 persons viewed the four Negroes held in connection with the murder of Mannie Solomon, 29-year-old hackman, police hopes of clearing up a number of holdups and attempted holdups perpetrated in the past six months were dimmed when with scant exceptions, none of the victims were able to recognize the men.

However, identification of the men as having participated in several holdups for which they had previously admitted responsibility was made by several persons, but no jobs of importance in addition to these were linked to the men by the swarm of persons who confronted them last night.

Three of the men held face murder charges in the death of the hackman, and will go before a coroner's inquest in the killing on Monday morning. A fourth faces only charges of attempted assault and robbery but will probably go before the coroner's jury to testify in the matter. The three facing the more serious charge are: Leonard Layton, 18, 640 I street southeast; Edward Washington, 23, 410 Six-and-One-Half street, and William C. Robinson, 19, 124 E street southwest, alleged "trigger" man of the trio Ralph Brown, 22, 130 D street southwest, is the fourth member of the self-styled "Silent Four."

Woman's Suit Seeks To Enforce Contract

Mrs. Ruby F. Tennant, of Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court to compel Col. M. A. Winter, owner with Mrs. Tennant of a half interest in property at 1436 U streets northwest, to complete an alleged agreement to purchase her equity.

The suit asserts Col. Winter offered to buy Mrs. Tennant's interest for $8,000, subject to a $100,000 first trust and a second trust, the amount of which was not disclosed. Col. Winter now declines to carry out his agreement, says Mrs. Tennant, and she wants the court to enforce it.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

OUR 1931 FRESH AIR FUND.

THIS year our Free Vacation Fund will be devoted exclusively to the relief of that vast horde of unfortunate sufferers whose plight this summer arouses the pity of all whose hearts are not of stone. In other words, all the money raised will be used to send business men, brokers, bond salesmen, &c., away to the country and seashore, where they can forget.

* * * *

Send in your mite today! The city is full of business men who haven't the price to get to the shore or country, and the plight of brokers and bond salesmen is too terrible for words. Many of the little dears haven't been able to afford a trip to the beach in two years or more. They must have help at once if they are to know any peace or happiness during the torrid summer.

* * * *

Every dollar will help. And contributors will have the guarantee of this department that every penny will go to the relief of people in the business world. Not a cent will go toward a vacation for anybody who is more fortunately situated, such as salaried employes. In plain language, this fund is only for people with no visible means of support.

* * * *

Oh, if you could look into the eyes of this vast army of business men and see the sadness there, your heart would be stirred! If you could go through the financial district and see the brokers, pale, emaciated and discouraged, you would write out a check this minute.

* * * *

A TYPICAL case is that of Mr. X. In 1928 Mr. X was taken into partnership in a big brokerage house. Business was great. Everything looked rosy. By the summer of 1929 Mr. X had his own country home, his yacht and everything. Then came the market break. Today he can't even afford a room with bath.

* * * *

Mr. X has lost 75 pounds (in flesh, we mean). His old confidence seems gone. His morale is shattered. What he needs is to be taken away where he can see green fields and blue skies for a few weeks. And maybe a cow! (Better than a cow, what Mr. X would like to see would be a bull.) Won't you help send this poor man away?

* * * *

There are thousands like him. Consider the case of Mr. B. Mr. B. was an orchid grower. Well, you know where orchid growers get off these days. What would they not give for a trip to the shore, an ice cream cone and maybe a frankfurter and roll?

* * * *

The fund starts off with $11.32, as follows:

Humanitarian	$1.00
Two Little Girls	5.00
A Bear	6.32

* * * *

Write out a check now, and tell us of any particularly pathetic cases.

* * * *

POSSIBLY the Wickersham Commission's interest in prison conditions was aroused originally by the discovery that it was practically impossible for a bootlegger to get in.

* * * *

P. K. L. suggests that many actors are behaving as if their slogan were "Keep Hissable."

* * * *

South American motto: A revolution a day keeps the president away.

* * * *

This department's notion of a versatile man is Mr Harold Draycott, of Brooklyn, and Mastic Beach, whose business card urges you to call him at Dewey 9-3(22 if you need anything in the line of: Auditing, filing supplies, printing and stationery, red rope pockets, water softeners, septic tanks, electric pumps, roofing, tires and tubes, shingles, cement work, real estate, insurance, oil burners (large and small), garages, lumber, bungalows.

One of the sad things about those grasshoppers ravaging the country is they won't eat racketeers.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR WOES OF OPERATING ENGINEERS AT PROBE

Troubled History of Union to Be Delved Into Today by District Body.

EMBEZZLEMENT LAID TO FORMER TREASURER

Is Under Arrest in Chicago; Assaults and Shooting Being Investigated.

The District grand jury today will begin an inquiry into the troubled history of the International Union of Operating Engineers, alleged shortages in the organization's finances and the dramatic series of events culminating in the shooting of two of its officials last May.

Officials of the union, auditors employed in checking its books and Department of Justice agents who have been active in the investigation will be called before the jury this morning, it was indicated last night at the United States attorney's office.

While the inquiry is concerned primarily with alleged embezzlement of $2,356 by Dave Evans, former secretary-treasurer of the union, arrested in Chicago Tuesday, minor assaults involving other officials, including a horsewhipping administered to one of these in front of union headquarters several months ago, will be gone into. The shooting itself is not to be probed at present.

Direct Links Not Found.

Thus far the United States attorney's office has found no evidence linking alleged misappropriation of funds with either the horsewhipping or the shooting of the two union officials, who were known at the time to be investigating reported shortages from the organization's benefit fund, it was stated on good authority.

Police, however, have not relinquished the theory that the roughly clad man who fired a fusillade of shots at Arthur M. Huddell, president of the union; Frank Langdon, assistant to the general secretary; and John Possehl, general secretary, may have been acting at the behest of some one interested in thwarting investigation of the shortage.

Mr. Huddell died of pneumonia, although his life at the time was believed to have been spared when a notebook diverted two bullets that struck him over the heart. Mr. Langdon was seriously wounded, but recovered. The man who did the shooting was never identified.

Alleged Shortage May Grow.

Although Evans, who was removed from office in the union in March, was specifically charged with embezzlement of $2,356 when arrested, it was indicated yesterday the figure may be raised. While attaches of the district attorney's office were unwilling to say how much is involved, they told The Post it ran into "several thousand dollars."

Assistant United States Attorney Charles B. Murray is assisting United States Attorney Leo A. Rover in preparing the case.

A warrant was never issued in the horsewhipping affair. The wife of Robert E. Stevens, of First street near Van Buren street northwest, was alleged to have whipped an official whom she charged with keeping her husband out of work. At another time a man was allegedly beaten by union members because he had taken open-shop work.

Following the shooting incident Mr. Huddell attributed the attack to his attempts to "eliminate racketeering" in the union. He said that 40 members had been expelled for failure to abide by existing by-laws and were defeated in court efforts at reinstatement.

An inquiry into the alleged embezzlement was launched by officials after an affiliated union complained it had not been credited with a check payment into the organization's benefit fund.

A fund of $136,000 was said to have been set aside for the purchase of authorized securities. It was alleged at the time that "unauthorized securities" were bought with the fund.

MEETING TO SETTLE PAINTER WAGE FIGHT

Treasury, Labor Department Chiefs to Confer With Contractor.

A conference which is expected to climax the controversy over wages being paid painters on the new Internal Revenue Building will be held at the Treasury Department this morning between officials of that department, representatives of the Department of Labor and Herman Morris, head of the Alliance Construction Co., which has the contract.

Mr. Morris will be presented with facts collected in an investigation by the Department of Labor into the charge by union leaders that the contractor has not been observing the prevailing wage in paying his men, it was announced yesterday by Hugh L. Kerwin, conciliation director of the Labor Department. Just what the nature of these "facts" will be was not revealed.

Union heads have complained that Mr. Morris has been paying his men less than $11 a day, which is the union scale. Mr. Morris has countered with the statement that he is operating on an open shop basis and pays his men on a higher basis than the nonunion prevailing wage. Wages of his painters range from $5 to $12 a day, Mr. Morris said.

Efforts will be made at the conference this morning to fix a prevailing wage scale and thus end the dispute. The Treasury Department, as awarder of the contract, is expected to settle controversies, Mr. Kerwin explained yesterday, and the Department of Labor in this case has merely volunteered its aid in attempting to iron out the present dispute.

However, if the Treasury Department is unable to settle the matter, the Labor Department intervenes and the Secretary of Labor gives a final ruling on the case. This procedure is authorized under provisions of the new Bacon-Davis act.

Man Tries to Die As Family Leaves

Small Son, Returning for Dog, Smells Gas Fumes; Notifies Neighbors.

Frank I. Wood, 42, of 25 Randolph place northwest, was said by police yesterday afternoon to have attempted suicide by gas shortly after his wife and four children had moved from that address to 83 W street northwest because of Wood's alleged disorderly conduct.

Half an hour after the family possessions were removed Wood went to the empty house, according to neighbors, and turned on the gas. His son, Bobby, 11 years old, returned to the house for his dog which had been left behind and smelled the gas fumes escaping. Neighbors whom he notified called the Fire Rescue Squad and police, who had the man committed to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

Wood was said by police yesterday to have just been released from jail, where he had been serving part of a 25-day sentence for disorderly conduct.

CHURCHMEN TO PLAN FOR CATHOLIC U. DAY

Committees of Hierarchy to Meet in Atlantic City to Set Program.

Three committees comprised of members of the hierarchy of the Catholic Church in America will meet in conference at Atlantic City today and tomorrow to give consideration of plans for the first national celebration of Catholic University day in churches throughout America and the development of a program authorized by the board of trustees of the university.

The three committees include the board of trustees of the university and a group of archbishops and bishops, who will serve as sponsors of the supervisory organization.

The committees are organized under the leadership of the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, Archbishop of Cincinnati; the Right Rev. John G. Murray, Bishop of Portland, Me.; the Most Rev. Mathias C. Lenihan, retired Bishop of Great Falls, Mont.; the Most Rev. S. A. Stritch, Archbishop of Milwaukee; the Most Rev. John J. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis; the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, Archbishop of San Francisco; the Most Rev. Edward D. Howard, Archbishop of Portland, Oreg., and the Right Rev. William Turner, Bishop of Buffalo.

The joint conference of the three committees will open today with a meeting at the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City. The Rev. James Hugh Ryan, rector of the university, will extend a greeting, and Archbishop Glennon will preside over the meeting.

The Catholic University of America was founded in 1887 by Pope Leo XIII, and the American Hierarchy, under whose control it was perpetually placed by the Pope, and who have sponsored its growth and development in the succeeding years.

The Right Rev. John McNamara, Bishop of Baltimore, and the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, former rector of the university, will attend the conference.

Woman Seeks $10,000 From D. A. R. for Fall

Alleged negligence of the D. A. R. in allowing a metal projection to remain on the floor near her seat, so that she tripped over it and fell violently, sustaining injuries that kept her in the hospital a long time and cost her $1,000 for doctors and nurse bills, was given by Margaret S. Campbell, of the Mendota Apartments, as the basis for a $10,000 suit filed yesterday.

The court was told that the plaintiff purchased a ticket to hear John Galsworthy lecture, April 11, and that the accident happened while she was finding her seat.

World Piano Tuners to Meet Here.

Word was received yesterday by the Greater Washington National Capital Committee that next convention of the International Association of Piano Tuners will be held in Washington beginning June 19, 1932. Information came in a telegram to the committee from C. N. Nichols, head of the convention department of the committee, who is attending this year's convention at Minneapolis.

DAVIS ORDERED HELD BY CORONER'S JURY IN SLAYING OF POOLE

Details of Alleged Drinking Party and Policeman's Death Recited.

FOUR CLAIM MAN FIRED THREE SHOTS AT VICTIM

Suspect, Once Held Mentally Incompetent, Denies Recollection of Incident.

After hearing testimony in connection with the fatal shooting last Tuesday afternoon of Policeman Charles D. Poole, Twelfth Precinct, a coroner's jury yesterday ordered Bert Davis, 40-year-old inmate of the Soldiers' Home, held for grand jury action.

Brought from Gallinger Hospital for the inquest, Davis, when called to the stand, said he had no recollection of the shooting of the policeman nor of the events surrounding Poole's death. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, conducting, cut Davis' testimony short as he was about to continue talking.

Four other inmates of the Government institution, who were present during the alleged drinking party at which Poole met his death, were called as witnesses and told corroborating stories of the shooting. Previously only one of the men, Harry N. Gillis, 55, has given a coherent account of the fatal affair. The other members of the Soldiers' Home group who testified, and who have been held by police since the shooting, are Percy Irving, 36; Leroy Plyler, 60, and James Cummings, 43.

Say Davis Fired.

All said that they were engaged in a conversation, to which Poole was a party, when Davis appeared and joined the group. After listening to the talk for about 20 minutes, they said, he jumped up and without warning produced the 32-caliber revolver and fired three times at Poole.

Police later found Davis asleep nearby in a clump of bushes, and he was said to have exhibited surprise when told he had shot a man, saying he had "shot at a chicken."

No testimony relating to Davis' sanity was introduced at the inquest. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt later stated that under the circumstances such evidence was neither necessary nor relevant, since the function of the coroner's jury is merely to fix actual responsibility for the death and not to determine the degree of prosecution.

Saw Active Service.

Davis, who has given both the ages of 38 and 45, was shown by Soldiers' Home records to have been born in Haleyville, Ala., in 1891. He is said to have a wife and two children living in Portland, Maine, who are being cared for by the Veterans' Bureau.

The records at the institution show Davis served with the Fifty-fourth Company, Coast Artillery, during the World War, participating in the Argonne and St. Mihiel offensives. Davis, a sergeant, was said to have been under heavy shell fire for 24 hours at one time, during the Argonne campaign, and after that experience asked to be reduced to the rank of private. A Portland (Maine) court, the records show, adjudged Davis mentally incompetent in 1925 and he was brought here, where he received treatment at the Soldiers' Home Hospital for some time.

Davis was taken to the District Jail yesterday, where he will be held until the grand jury meets. It is expected that he will be taken periodically to Gallinger Hospital for treatment and observation.

Arrest of Two Ordered.

The shooting of Poole Tuesday had an aftermath in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Joseph W. Cox ordered bench warrants issued for the arrest of James Anderson and Rosetta Anderson on complaint of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Capt. Harold Orcutt, assistant United States attorney.

The complaint recited the fact that on August 19, 1930, a permanent injunction was issued by the then District Supreme Court Justice, William Hitz, prohibiting the Andersons from violating the national prohibition law and padlocking their home for a period of one year.

Justice Cox was informed through three affidavits that the Andersons had made numerous sales of liquor to two policemen and an agent, and that when their home, which is almost within a stone's throw of the point where Poole was shot, was raided July 30, a small quantity of liquor was seized.

Charged With Contempt.

The two were charged with contempt of court for their failure to abide by the terms of the injunction and they were cited to show cause September 1 why they should not be adjudged in contempt. The house is located on Allison street, which is also known as Fort Totten road, just east of the Soldiers' Home Cemetery.

James McMillen, an agent, and Policemen Richard J. Felber and Bernard F. Day swore to affidavits charging the Andersons with violating the injunction.

Anderson, who had attended the Poole inquest, was arrested on the courthouse lawn, where he was awaiting a call to appear before the grand jury to testify as a witness. The wife was taken into custody at her home. Both were released on $1,000 bonds.

Colored Truck Driver Is Killed in Collision

Dennis Levineston, 22 years old, colored driver employed by the Fries, Beall, Sharp Hardware Co., was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when a truck driven by John Faxio, 23, also colored, employed by the same company, backed into a truck Levineston was greasing.

His head was struck when the truck under which he was working was knocked off a jack. Faxio was held by police pending an investigation.

Jewelry and Cash Reported Stolen.

John Eslin, 1229 Florida avenue northeast, reported to police yesterday the theft of approximately $125 worth of jewelry and about $13 in cash from a dresser drawer in a second-story bedroom. Entrance was gained, Eslin said, by removing a screen, and he placed the time of the robbery as having been early in the morning.
